Pa. Ag Secretary Calls Rendell Budget Workable

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Gov. Ed Rendell's proposed ag budget reductions for 2003-2004 will keep a workable amount of funds available for farm programs until the economy recovers, according to Dennis Wolff, acting Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture.

Rendell's proposal cuts the state's total ag budget to $70.7 million, compared to last year's level of $76.1 million.

A large part of the decrease comes from taking about $3 million for plum pox indemnification costs out of this year's budget because the plum pox outbreak is largely under control, Wolff said.

The Pennsylvania Fair Fund will have $1 million less in the till for capital improvements, according to the Rendell's proposal, and the general operating budget for the ag department would be cut by $250,000.

Under the budget proposal, many programs are set to receive the same level of funding as they did last year, Wolff said. These include longstanding events such as 4-H state club shows, the All-American Dairy Show, and the Keystone International Livestock

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Legislators and members of the agriculture industry gathered at the capitol building this week to attend an annual meeting and roundtable discussion. The event also included an evening "Taste Pennsylvania Reception" to showcase Pennsylvania agricultural products.

The Pennsylvania State Council of Farm Organizations (SCOFO) sponsored the annual event.

At the luncheon sixty-five attendees represented some of the more than 60 agricultural and agriculture-related organizations that are members of the council.

Officials expected attendance at the reception to be approximately 135.

During Monday's meeting, council members elected new officers.

DEANNA CUNIER

CRFSCO (Monroe Co.) — Those that operate a successful family farming operation can be justifiably proud of their accomplishments.

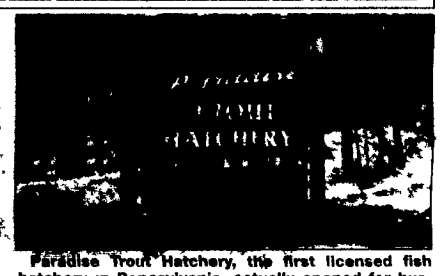
So is the case for retired owner, George Stack, and his daughter, manager Beth Martin of Paradise Brook Trout Company Inc., Cresco, operators of Paradise Trout Hatchery and Preserve.

What comes to mind for most when thinking of a family farm is the traditional picturesque barn and outbuildings with contoured fields of alternating crops or the livestock operation with animals peacefully grazing in green pastures. In actuality a fish hatchery such as Paradise is no different than a crop or livestock farm.

The serene look of buildings, raceways, and ponds among the towering pines with trout peacefully swimming within view of visitors easily compares to those tranquil scenes of livestock grazing on the hillside.

Managing the hatchery on 120 acres that has been in business for over 100 years, Martin must be concerned with nutrition, reproduction, growth rate, sanitation, predator control, marketing, and unfortunately government

(Turn to Page E2)



Paradise Trout Hatchery, the first licensed fish hatchery in Pennsylvania, actually opened for business in 1902. The family operation has been owned and operated by the Stack family for more than 75 years.

We introduce a brand-new component of the Lancaster Farming Grower & Marketer section this issue. It's called Aqua Country. Pages include reports on trout hatcheries in Monroe County, calendar events, a suppliers listing, and advertising from major aquacultural suppliers.

PFGC Recognizes Forage, Grassland Innovators

Group Honors Memory Of Educator Bill Stout

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — David Fink knows that hay has been — and still is — a cornerstone of civilization.

Fink received this year's Special Award from the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council (PFGC), presented at its annual conference here this week.

The PFGC honored Fink for his support of the organization over the years, and for his innovative achievements in growing, processing, and marketing hay.

Fink operates Heidel Hollow Farms near Germansville, Lehigh County, with the help of his wife Sonia and sons Travis and Mike. They market 5,000 tons of hay per year, about 75 percent of it harvested from 900 acres of timo-

Compared to Thursday, slaughter steers sold weak to .50 lower with instances up to 1.00 lower. However, a good majority of the supply was weighing up on the full side, and when you take the fill and the mud hanging on their bellies into consideration prices didn't seem drastically lower in the meat. The overall quality of the run was about average, with the buyers trying to put some high Choice and Prime steers on their trucks having a tough go of it. One thing that did increase early in the week was the receipts, with over 470 head of slaughter steers in the books for the combined Monday and Tuesday run. The Holstein steers and slaughter heifers that were comparable to Thursday's run sold with a weaker undertone. The cow carcass cutout value was 1.28 higher on Monday, which added some support to the Tuesday cow run; although even with the Tuesday run trending firmer than Monday, prices still failed to compete with Thursday's very active market. Compared to Thursday, all classes of slaughter cows sold 50-1.00 lower, with most of the decrease noted on the Breaking and Boning cow supply. Slaughter bulls sold near steady on a light run The supply included 51 percent steers, 4 percent heifers, 43 percent cows, 1 percent bulls, with the balance feeder cattle.

SLAUGHTER STEERS: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1245-1465 lbs 78.00-82.00, average 79.64. Compared to Tuesday, slaughter steers sold 1 00 to mostly 2 00 lower, and it was not uncommon to note sales up to 3 00 lower However, it is important to note that New Holland wasn't the only place in the world where fats sold sharply lower at the end of the week The Western feedlots also moved their show list cattle a full 2 00-3 00 lower at mostly 77 00 The Mercantile Exchange is lined up to be very bearish as we look ahead to summer with the April contract currently at 74.60, with June and August trading from 66 75-69.70 respectively Combine the outside pressure with some lower quality stock on offer, and not a lot of people were too surprised by the lower prices I guess we all knew it was coming, it just takes a while to accept it as most producers have become accustomed to a 78 00-81 00 market and are reluctant to head back into the lower 70's so quickly Holstein steers felt the squeeze from the

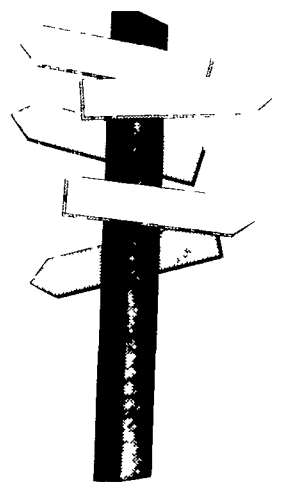
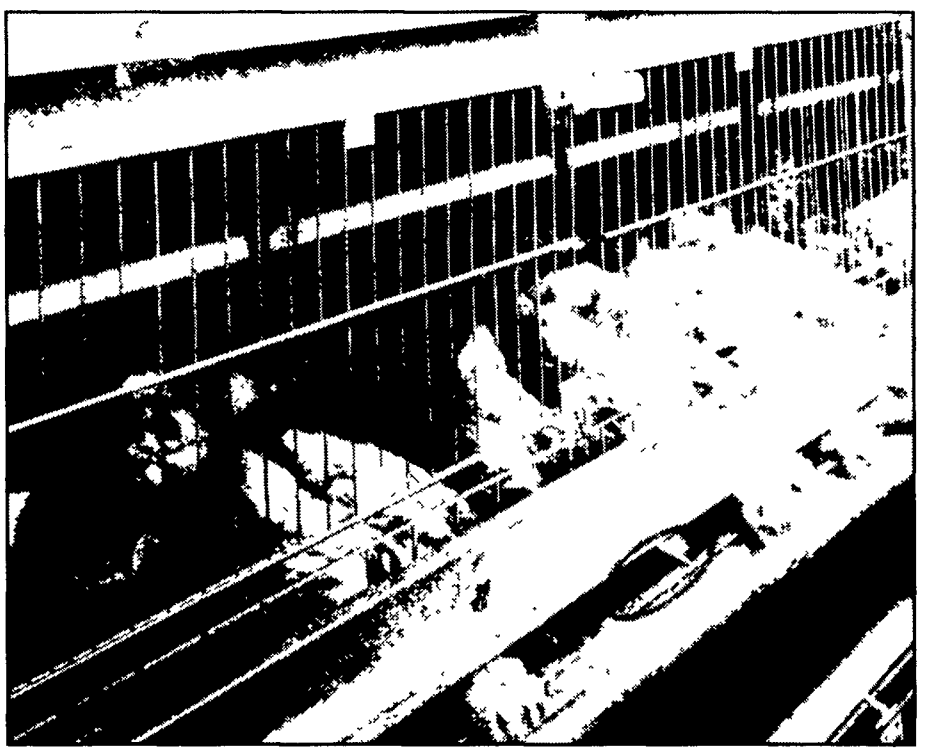
CHOOSE THE RIGHT WAY
WITH Big Dutchman.
UNIVENT Starter Pullet Cages
Stacked withManure Belt





Advantages
- simple assembly of 3 to 8 tiers;
- feed troughs are mounted on supports for trough stability and long service life;
- feed trough with inner rim provides minimal feed losses;
- upper walkway for batteries with more than 5 tiers = easy bird control;
- better thermal economy (reduced heating expenses and reduced investment costs per bird) is achieved with systems of 4 or more tiers due to increased density;
- remarkably low bird mortality during rearing.

OPINION

Allow Hunters?

We received information via e-mail the other day about a new income and stewardship opportunity via a Website, www.permissiontohunt.com.

As a hunter, you could simply log onto the Website, input what you'd like to hunt, in a location you'd like to hunt, and farmers would simply be listed for those who'd allow you to do so. With their permission, of course.

We went to the Website and we quote a fair warning they give those who are looking for such a service:

Hunting private land should be regarded as a privilege, not a "right." To earn this privilege, it is best to approach the landowner prior to season's opening day to ask for your Permission To Hunt. Considerate hunters need to help maintain our proud heritage and hunter ethics.

Show the landowner that you:

- Have respect for the land.
- Exhibit good hunter ethics.
- Appreciate the use of their land by saying "thank you."

In an ideal world, this would all be well and good. But farmers would be wise to understand the pitfalls of such an idea.

You could, for instance, talk to Carl W. Grub of Sunset Hollow Farm in Hanover. Grub, who owns a 175-acre farm in York County, would be the first to caution farmers: don't do it. If you allow hunters on your land, you could be begging for potential problems.

Grub claims to be struggling with an incident involving hunters on his land.

While we don't want to proffer any kind of detail, suffice it to say that farmers really need to think long and hard about allowing people to hunt their lands, especially in this litigation-happy society. There are legal concerns, too, and dealing with agencies can be a real headache.

To Market Products Via The Internet

USDA has produced a publication designed to assist agricultural producers in marketing their products via the Internet. "How To Direct Market Farm Products On the Internet" provides basic information to farm direct marketers who are interested in selling their products online or using a Website to publicize their farm or products.

"For agricultural producers, the Internet can help solve problems of time, distance, and location in marketing their products," said A.J. Yates, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. "We are working to provide the tools to help level the playing field for agriculture and rural communities by providing technological solutions and technological support."

Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman also recently announced that USDA will expand efforts to bring farmers, rural residents, and businesses greater access to improved telecommunication technology through the financing of more than $1 4 billion in loan and loan guarantees to rural telecommunications providers.

The number of Internet users shopping online has skyrocketed in recent years. Of the estimated 168 million Internet users 16 years of age and older in the U.S., approximately half say they shop online. Because of this rapidly growing trend, many farm direct marketers are turning to online marketing to increase their customer base.

The publication addresses issues to be considered before adopting the Web as a marketing tool, as well as tips on how to research the Internet market, set up a Website, and market products on the Web. References, largely from the Internet itself, are cited to enable producers to undertake additional research.

"How To Direct Market Farm Products On the Internet" is available in print and on the Internet at www.ams.usda.gov/tmd SB sb.htm. For more information or to obtain a copy of the publication, contact Errol Bragg, USDA AMS TMP MSB, Room 2646 S, Stop 0269, 1400 Independence Ave., SW, Washington, DC 20250, (202) 720 8317, fax (202) 690 0031, or e-mail Errol.Bragg@usda.gov.

To Sign Up For The Farmers Market Nutrition Program

Agriculture Secretary Designee Dennis C Wolff has announced to Pennsylvania growers that sign up for the Farmers Market Nutrition Program is under way.

"The Farmers Market Nutrition Program is a great partnership between those who grow Pennsylvania fruits and vegetables and those who need them," said Wolff. "This is a great direct marketing opportunity for Pennsylvania farmers Since the introduction of this program, many farmers have launched or expanded their retail operations, providing additional income to their farm operation."

The Farmers Market Nutrition Program provides coupons to eligible recipients to purchase fresh fruits and vegetables from approved growers at one of Pennsylvania's farmers markets or roadside stands. Growers interested in participating in the 2003 program must own or lease farmland in Pennsylvania where they produce and sell more than $1,000 of agricultural products.

Growers who participated in the 2002 program received notices from the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Food Distribution. For any other farmer interested in participating in the Farmers Market Nutrition Program, contact the Bureau of Food Distribution at (800) 468-2433. The program will begin on June 1, 2003 and continue until Nov. 30, 2003.

The Farmers Market Nutrition Program provides coupons to eligible Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) recipients and qualified seniors to purchase fresh fruits and vegetables from more than 625 approved vendors in Pennsylvania. In 2002, more than $5 million in state and federal funds were available for the WIC and seniors programs.

WIC mothers and children ages 2 to 5 can receive $20 in coupons. The Seniors Farmers Market Nutrition Program was launched in 1998 for older Pennsylvanians. In 2002, the Seniors Farmers Market Nutrition Program was offered statewide. Last year, qualifying seniors received $20 in coupons. More than 96,000 seniors redeemed more than $2.2 million in coupons in 2002.

To Attend The Lancaster County Dairy Day

The Lancaster County Dairy Day postponed in February because of the Presidents' Day snowstorm has been rescheduled for Monday, March 10 at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster.

The theme is "Strategies for Success" and the displays open at 9 a.m. Topics include "Nutrition Strategies to Increase Profits," "How Is Your Dairy Business Performing?" and "Biosecurity On Farms."

Other topics include "Strategies for Using Your Farm Resources," "Emerging Dairy Farm Technologies," "Building Your Plan For the Transfer of the Farm Business, and "Crop Insurance — Strategy for Survival." Also, an optional program for spouses will be offered on "What's New In Home Canning" and there will be pressure canner testing for those who bring their dial gauge pressure canner lid.

Quote Of The Week.

"It's OK to lend a helping hand. The challenge is getting people to let go of it."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

RAISING THE ROOF!

Background Scripture:
Mark 2:1 through 3:6.
Devotional Reading:
Luke 15:1-7.

Two groups of people stand out in these early chapters of Mark, one of them negatively. These were the Pharisees, a religious party dedicated to applying the law to daily life. It was a worthy goal, but they went off in the wrong direction. Applying the law superlegalistically, they missed its purpose — to enrich human life under God.

For example, when Jesus was healing the paralytic (2:3-12), instead of praising God for this wonderful work, they called it "blasphemy" when he said, "My son, your sins are forgiven." 'Who can forgive sins but God alone?," they protest, caring more for their interpretation of the law than they did for the paralyzed man. Whenever you care more about your theology than a good work done in the name of God, you, not others, are likely to be the blasphemer!

Another example is their reaction when Jesus was seen "eating with sinners and tax collectors." Because the tax collectors worked for the Romans, they were considered the worst kind of sinners. But they forgot that all of us are "sinners," not just those who violate our religious rules. If they didn't like the sinful company Jesus kept, they really didn't like the company God keeps.

Compassion Or Legalism?

They criticized Jesus because he didn't fast. They criticized him because on the Sabbath day he and his disciples had plucked grain to feed themselves. The attacked him because he dared on the Sabbath to heal a man with a withered hand. Their devotion to the law was taking the place of compassion for the needs of fellow human beings.

We do not often see Jesus angry, but here we do: "And he looked around them with anger, grieved at their hardness of heart . . ." (v. 3:5). Notice, he is angry, not with their poor theology, but their lack of compassion. How plainly he puts it: "Is it lawful on the Sabbath to do good or to do harm, to save life or to kill?" Even this failed to reach these hardened hearts, for they "went out, and immediately held counsel with the Herodians against him, how to destroy him."

There is a second, much more admirable group. We don't know their names and they were not part of any organized faction. We only know that there were four of them. Perhaps the only thing they had in common was their concern for a paralyzed man. They might not know much about Jesus, but they believed he could help their friend.

Four Intercessors

This is a fine example of intercessory prayer. The man couldn't come to Jesus, so they took him to the Master. Picking up his pallet, they brought him to the house where Jesus was healing. When they arrived, the crush of the crowd prevented them from getting the paralytic in the door.

Like true intercessors, they were not put off by the obstacles that confronted them. Carrying the man to the roof of the house, they removed some of the sticks and packed earth that comprised the roof and, making a hole large enough for his pallet, they lowered him down into the midst of Jesus and the crowd.

Note that it was their faith to which Jesus was responding. We don't know what expectations the paralytic had, whether there was anything in him that could be called "faith," but, "when Jesus saw their faith, he said to the paralytic, 'My son, your sins are forgiven.'" Would the critics of Jesus have been just as angry if he had said, "God forgives your sins"? I think so, for they were bound to what they were against, not what they were for. In that, they were not too unlike some of us.

Their invasion of this house where Jesus was healing is a case of sanctified housebreaking. The four nameless but compassionate men literally raised the roof to bring this man to the healing touch of Jesus Christ. How can we do less?

FIRST HYDRO SWING™ - CENTER PIVOT WINDROWER
ONLY NORTH AMERICAN FULLY AUTOMATIC ROUND BALER
ADVANCED TECHNOLOGY AT YOUR HESSTON DEALER TODAY
Next time you see something that raises eyebrows and productivity, odds are Hesston is the driving force behind it. After all, we introduced the world's first self-propelled windrower. So it's no coincidence that our latest models include things like an exclusive in-cab performance monitor and unmatched cutting speed. Hesston originated the big square baler, too. And we gave North America its only fully automatic round baler. Best of all, if you want to improve the future of your own production, you don't have to wait another day. Because Hesston advanced technology is at your Hesston dealer now.

Produce Higher Quality Silage for Dairy Cattle

Dairy producers typically grow several years of continuous corn to meet the silage needs of their cattle. The only problem with that approach is that continuous corn is susceptible to infestations of insects, including rootworm, cutworm, grubs, seed corn maggots and wireworms.

Using a corn insecticide for protection is highly recommended in continuous corn. And if you saw lodging in corn last year from insect feeding, that's a sure sign that roots will come under attack this year.

All leading insecticides protect corn roots within economic thresholds, but there are several reasons dairy producers should use Lorsban® 15G insecticide.

- Year in and year out in university studies, corn protected by Lorsban 15G outyields corn protected by competitive insecticides. Purdue University trials conducted since 1991 show that Lorsban 15G produces the highest return on investment for protection vs. corn rootworm.
- The fungicidal activity found only in Lorsban 15G promotes seedling health that protects seedlings from soilborne fungi that can limit early root development and lead to stalk rot. That means Lorsban 15G helps produce higher-yielding, higher-quality corn – important to the production of milk.
- Lorsban 15G is the only non-restricted use insecticide and it carries a CAUTION warning – the lowest human hazard signal word. That means dairy producers do not need to be licensed to handle Lorsban 15G.

Ease of handling. Superior protection. Just a couple reasons to use Lorsban 15G to defend your corn this year. To learn more about the benefits of Lorsban 15G, contact your local ag retailer.

Feb. 28, 2003
BLOCK CHEESE FALLS BELOW $1 PER POUND

- Chicago cheese continues to weaken.
- Grade AA butter flat.
- Consumption figures announced for 2002.

The cheese market seems to be getting worse every week. That may be interpreted as an understatement. On Friday, Feb. 28, 40-pound block cheese prices fell below $1 per pound to $0.9925. This is well below the support price of $1.1314.

USDA is citing weak demand and strong availability of product as the reason. Grade AA butter prices in Chicago remained flat at $1.0292 per pound. Western prices for nonfat dry milk are right at support price levels.

At a meeting in Idaho this week, a producer asked how cheese prices could remain below support price levels at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. Good question! Basically, the price support program offers to purchase unlimited quantities of block cheese at exactly $1.1314 per pound. However, they can't force anyone to sell cheese to the government. So, what isn't purchased ends up on the market or in inventory.

There is a disincentive to offer cheese to the USDA since it involves a cost to processors, about 3 cents per pound. However, with prices this low, it is very likely that more cheese will be offered to the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) in the weeks ahead. For the week ending Feb. 28, the CCC purchased 514,800 pounds of Central processed cheese.

USDA announced the February class and component prices for 2003. Component prices for February 2003 milk checks will be $1.1373 per pound for butterfat, $1.8538 per pound for protein, and $0.0240 per pound for other solids. The class prices are as follows: Class II is $10.66 per CWT, Class III is $9.66, and Class IV is $9.81.

Final consumption figures for 2002 were also just released by USDA. The milk supply rose 2.6 percent in 2002 and imports, on a butterfat basis, fell 10.7 percent. Total commercial disappearance on a milkfat basis rose 0.5 percent.

What is more interesting is the estimated consumption figures on a product-pound basis. Consumption figures for 2002 relative to the previous year were butter, up 0.9 percent; American cheese, up 0.9 percent; other cheese, up 3.7 percent; nonfat dry milk, down 22.4 percent; and fluid milk products, up 0.3 percent.

It appears that the real problems in 2002 were with butter, American cheese, and nonfat dry milk consumption figures.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Pasture Perfect®
The Brand of Choice

Pasture Perfect® Dealer of the Week:
Tony Striedieck

This week Ampac Seed Company and Rohrer Seeds recognize Tony Striedieck of Ornamental Landscaping, Inc Of his operations Tony says, "Basically, we do everything from logged woods to lush green grass and everything in between This includes soil sampling, tree removal preparing seedbed or renovating pasture - whatever is required We do custom individualized projects '

Tony Striedieck

Tony recommends Pasture Perfect® Renovator Special for muddy fields Sprinkle it lightly in paddocks and in high traffic areas every two weeks throughout the spring, and you'll be amazed at how your fields will look in May These aren't ideal conditions for turf management, but for an equine center on a budget, a little seed will make a huge difference

"The best looking farms that I've seen have a bag of Renovator Special around for light fixes year 'round This often turns a big problem into a little one Repeating the process frequently has huge benefits Over the course of a year, it can make big differences in the overall farm appearance," says Tony

Try the Pasture Perfect® Renovator Special Mix today and enjoy a beautiful pasture by May.

ROASTED BEANS FOR PROFIT

Some of the many advantages of using Roasted Soybeans

- All natural protein with no harmful chemicals or fillers
- Very high bypass protein, unlike solvent soybean meal
- Increases ration palatability to heighten dry matter intake
- Includes a broad spectrum of the essential amino acids
- High protein and energy, yet low neutral detergent fiber (NDF)

Corn Belt Feedstuff

St. Joseph, Mo.
March 4, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

CORN BELT FEEDSTUFF: Feedstuff prices were mixed for the week across the Corn Belt region. Soybean meal prices showed some strength due to higher bean trade on the Board. Many users bought other lower costing proteins where they could. Distiller's grain prices were slightly higher due to supply tightness. There was good demand for Millfeeds. Much of the feed business was steady to slow as spring weather is just around the corner

SOYBEAN MEAI : 48 percent rail was .50 to 1.50 lower from 179.50-181.00. 48 percent truck was 1.50 to 2.50 lower from 180.00-187.00 per ton.

CORN BY-PRODUCTS. Gluten Feed 21 percent, Interior Points was steady from 62.00-72.00; Chicago was steady from 62.00-73.00. 60 percent Gluten Meal, Interior Points was steady to 5.00 higher from 230.00-240.00; Chicago steady to 7.00 lower at 235.00 per ton. Rail Hominy Feed, Central Illinois Points was steady to 1.00 lower from 75.00-79.00; truck was steady to 2.00 higher from 80.00-89.00. Crude Corn Oil was 50 points lower from 27.50-28.50 cents per pound.

MILLFEEDS: Northwest was steady to 11.00 higher from 64.00-79.00; Buffalo 1.00 to 2.00 higher from 69.00-77.00 per ton.

ALFALFA PELLETS: Toledo, Ohio 17 percent dehydrated was 1.00 to 4.00 lower at 175.00-179.00; meal 1.00 to 4.00 lower from 178.50-182.50. 15 percent pellets steady to 4.00 lower from 172.00-176 00 per ton; meal steady to 4.00 lower from 175.50-179.50.

DISTILLER'S DRIED GRAINS: Central Illinois steady to 3.00 higher from 90.00-95.00; Chicago 3.00 higher from 95.00-100.00; Lawrenceburg, Il, steady at 85.00. Kansas and Nebraska were sold out; Minneapolis was 1.00 higher at 91.00 per ton.

BREWER'S DRIED GRAINS: Newark, NJ was steady at 88.00; Williamsburg, VA was steady at 78.00 per ton.

East Fluid Milk And Cream Review

Madison, Wis.
March 5, 2003
Report Supplied by USDA

Spot prices of class II cream, dollars per lb. butterfat: F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: 1.2350-1.3380. Delivered Equivalent: Atlanta: 1.2350-1.3585 mostly 1.2556-1.2865.

PRICES OF CONDENSED SKIM, dollars per lb. wet solids, F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: Class II, includes monthly formula prices: .9000-.9800; Class III - spot prices - .7200-.8400.

SPOT SHIPMENTS OF GRADE A MILK: FLORIDA: This week: In 0, Out 52; last week: In 0, Out 38; last year: In 0, Out 25. SOUTHEAST STATES: This week: In 0, Out 0; last week. In 0, Out 0; last year: In 0, Out 0.

For the most part, milk production in the Eastern part of the country is holding steady, although some handlers are reporting slight increases in receipts at the plant. In the Mid-Atlantic and New England areas, adverse weather conditions continue to impact milk logistics. Although snow has fallen during the past week, conditions were no where close to conditions of a few weeks ago. Bottlers indicated that typical runs on milk, due to poor weather predictions, at the retail store did clear heavy volumes of milk which caused some bottling operations to realign bottling schedules. With the increased demand for Class I milk, in instances, milk was not as available as some users required, thus they were out looking for additional milk to maintain their production schedules.

In the Southeast, especially Florida and Gulf Coastal states, milk production is reported to be showing signs of seasonal increases. Bottling plants in Florida were full to the point that 52 loads of milk did move out of state into manufacturing plants within the Southeast. Not only in the Southeast, but throughout the Eastern part of the country, bottlers will be aligning schedules during the next 4 - 8 weeks to accommodate spring breaks for schools. Bottlers anticipate that conditions might not be as hectic in the Northeast as in past years due to many schools having to use spring break days in recent weeks due to adverse weather conditions.

Cream markets are generally steady, although prices did firm slightly due to a slightly stronger base price. Pricing multiples held basically unchanged. Cream supplies were reported to be in good demand as Class II operations, especially ice cream producers, were gearing up production schedules. Seasonal Passover and Lenten cream based product production is also increasing. Some butter producers were also looking for additional cream volumes to maintain full production schedules

Condensed skim markets are generally steady at unchanged prices, although prices did firm within the reported ranges Demand is steady at slow levels.

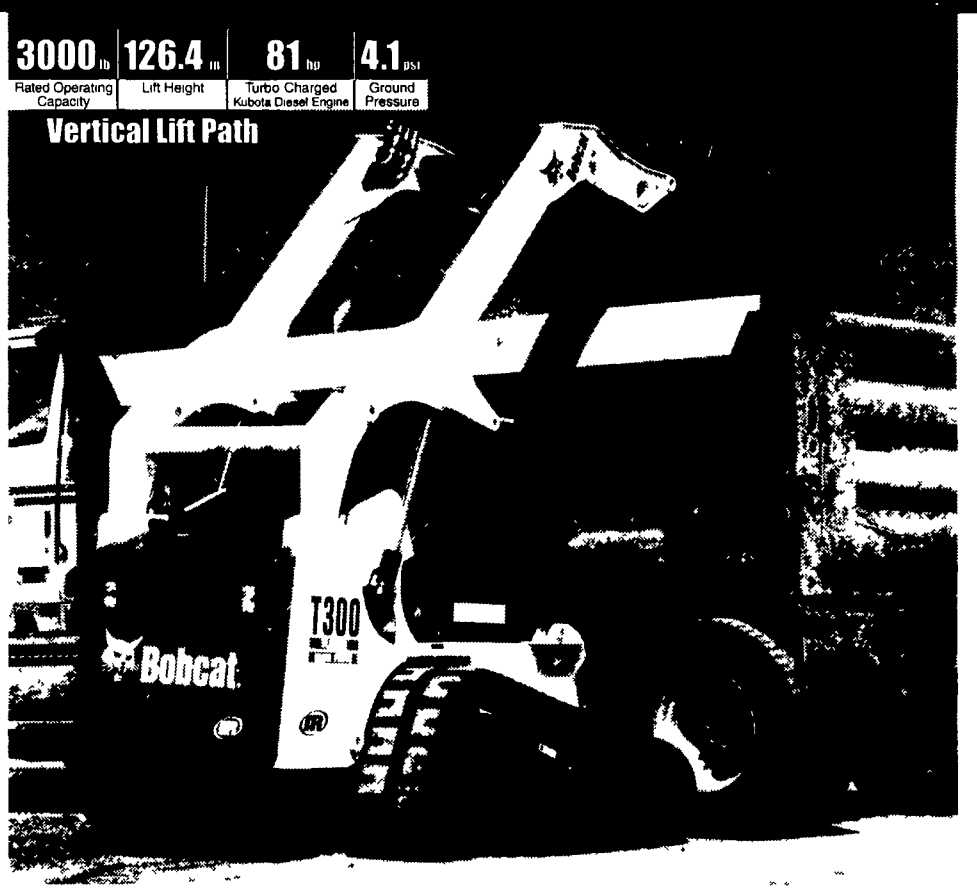
Tough Tracks for Tough Tasks

New Bobcat T300 Compact Track Loader delivers superior traction and loads of lift!



Get in earlier, finish faster
Extend your working season with the powerful, versatile T300 compact track loader! Keep crews working even when the weather won't cooperate!

Greater performance, comfort and value
Rugged rubber tracks give the T300 extra traction, greatly reduced ground pressure and low ground disturbance. Superior flotation, too, for working on soft, wet, or muddy ground where other machines stop dead!

Power to spare
You get great pushing power, plus lots more for running attachments, including the Brushcat® rotary cutter, dozer blade, landscape rake, stump grinder, tiller and others.

Vertical lift path
The T300's low-profile lift arms give the operator a great view to all four corners of the machine — and the vertical lift path delivers excellent reach and lift capacity for handling heavy loads!

See us for the full line of world-leading Bobcat equipment!

National Feeder Cattle Weekly Review

St. Joseph, Mo.
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL FEEDER & STOCKER SUMMARY for week ending Feb 28 — Receipts 263,900, last week 333,700 Direct 55,900, last week 46,100 Video/Internet 4,600; last week 38,000. Auctions 203,400; last week 249,600. This week's reported auction volume included 58 percent over 600 lbs and 44 percent heifers

Compared to last week, feeder cattle sold mostly steady as severe wintry weather dictated trading activity Punxsutawney Phil wasnt kidding when he said six more weeks of winter Many areas saw their worst weather, so far this winter, and very few regions escaped the grip of numerous storms that covered the U S from coast to coast Perhaps the hardest hit area stretched across the Plains states of Oklahoma and Kansas, eastward to the Ozarks of northern Arkansas and southern Missouri But, record low temperatures were set as far north as Montana and ice-storms froze areas as far south as Louisiana and south Texas Several large livestock auction markets were forced to cancel this weeks sales, including the Joplin Regional Stockyards. Other big markets saw significantly reduced receipts, during a week when Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas Panhandle salebarns should be busting at the seams with wheat cattle. Country feeder trading was moderate this week in the wheat pasture regions and most 750-800 lb steers are selling in a fairly narrow range of 76.00-78.00. This sounds pretty cheap as feedlots sell green fat cattle at 80.00, for the second week in row.

Feeder buyers are showing extreme reserve, after several years of unexplainable and unhedgable prices. Many attribute this trend to the loss of equity in the feeding sector and the instruction by financial providers to secure complete downside protection.

Stocker prices were largely steady this week with a few spots of improvement noted, especially on fancy strings in the Northern Plains. The Southeastern calf market was very volatile this week as wet and muddy conditions halted local livestock movement, not to mention the harsh conditions their western customers were enduring. Maybe this was the final winter-blast and spring weather will soon bring the wheaties to town and set the Southern trucks rolling west with summer grazers.

over six years, was elected president.

"As the number one industry in Pennsylvania, agriculture plays an integral role in Pennsylvania's economy. SCOFO represents over 60 agricultural organizations that contribute to the success and prominence of this organization.

"I look forward to working with representatives from these organizations to continue to promote agriculture in Pennsylvania," said Fox.

Other officers elected include Jeff Fry, Pennsylvania Turfgrass Council, vice president, and Dennis Schad, Land O'Lakes, Inc., secretary/treasurer.

The officers may serve up to two years in these leadership positions.

The day also included an evening reception for members of the General Assembly, hosted by the state council. The event featured food produced in the commonwealth and provided an opportunity for both legislators and council members to discuss agricultural issues.

During the luncheon Rep. Ray Bunt (R-147), chairman of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, awarded outgoing council president Curtis Kratz a citation from the Pennsylvania House of Representatives.

Outgoing president of the Pennsylvania State Council of Farm Organizations, Curtis Kratz, right, accepts a commendation from PDA presented by Dennis Wolff, agriculture secretary designee.

Sen. Mike Waugh (R-28), chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, also gave Kratz a citation from the Pennsylvania Senate. Besides serving as president, Kratz is active in numerous other agricultural organizations and is a township supervisor.

Kratz, a self-described family- and spiritual man, said that "I want to do what I can to help support agriculture so that we can have food for our children and grandchildren," he said, urging council members to "talk together, work together, and build relationships."

Bunt gave an update on the House ag committee, which is working on legislation that pertains to farmland preservation funding and strengthening the link between retiring farmers and those interested in beginning farming. The committee also takes an interest in inheritance taxes, Clean and Green, and right-to-farm laws.

Waugh briefly discussed Wolff's imminent confirmation hearing, the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board's pooling regulations, and the importance of agriculture education. "We have a big role to play in getting the message out and helping people understand" the changing face of agriculture, he said.

Agriculture Secretary Designee Dennis Wolff described an agenda which included economic development, such as the small business first program, the machinery and equipment loan program, the next generation farmer program, crop insurance program, and farmland preservation program.

"We intend to continue to use these programs in the next four years and look forward to working with you," said Wolff.

Every year, council members select a legislative agenda to pursue. During the meetings members may vote on resolutions pertaining to agricultural issues.

During the roundtable discussion following the meeting, Dr. Helen Aceto, Ph.D., VMD, Uni-

Board Announces February Class I Price

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Milk Marketing Board (MMB) announced the prices to be paid to Pennsylvania dairy farmers for February class I milk (beverage) as an average of $14.03 in the western areas of the commonwealth, and an average of $14.52 in the central and eastern areas of the commonwealth.

These prices include the over-order premium of $1.40 per one hundred pounds of milk.

Farmers whose milk production is pooled under a federal order will receive a marketwide blend price based upon the value of all classes of milk. However, the blend price received will vary as the component composition of a farmer's milk differs from the established benchmarks of 3.5 percent butterfat, 2.99 percent protein, and 5.69 percent other solids.

Since 1988, the MMB has mandated over-order premiums on Class I milk because of adverse conditions affecting the Pennsylvania dairy farmer. Chairwoman Beverly R. Minor noted that since the inception of the MMB's over-order premium, Pennsylvania dairy farmers have received more than $286 million in additional income.

versity of Pennsylvania, presented "Our Food: How Safe and Secure Is It?"

Although there is "absolutely no question" that today's food supply in America is the safest "the world has ever known," according to Aceto. "I have heard of agriculture described as 'the soft underbelly of homeland security.'

"If we don't supply a safe product, that affects consumer confidence" and eventually marketability, she said.

"A country's reputation in terms of ability to export . . . is very much dictated" by disease reports and disease status, noted Aceto.

She said that microbial contamination from various kinds of bacteria is "far and away the number one problem with food contamination." Second is naturally-occurring toxicants, and third is environmental contaminants.

Consequently, "as long as we can cook and clean our food properly, we'll all be fine," she said.

With the increased mobility of not only humans but also products, diseases pose a greater threat of spread.

There are two million intercepted illegal products per year, she said. It is "a miracle" that a disease such as foot-and-mouth has not entered the U.S. yet, according to Aceto.

"Everyone in agriculture is on the front line," in prevention, protection, and response.

"You are protecting 13 percent of the gross domestic product," she said, pointing out that agriculture industry is America's biggest employer, at 16.9 percent employment.

"The potential of disease being introduced onto a dairy farm is very high" because of the amount of animal movement on and off the farm, and lack of management practices such as quarantining animals.

Aceto also discussed the value of Geographic Information Systems (GIS) — the integration of digital maps — for agriculture. Digital maps can simulate disease spread, such as an avian influenza outbreak.

Dr. Helen Aceto, Ph.D., VMD, spoke about the safety of America's food supply.

Chris Herr, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, was a round table discussion panel member.

"There are some powerful things we can do with modeling," she said, noting that maps could, for example, help with strategic vaccination.

Laura England, director of communications for Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association, updated the council on four dairy promotion organizations that cover Pennsylvania. Two years ago the groups began a campaign to maintain and grow consumer confidence in dairy products, according to England.

"We've been sharing what we've learned and developed with others (various agricultural groups), because we realize that we all need to work together," she said.

The effort included educating mothers, leaders of the dairy industry, and "newsmakers" such as legislators and key industry groups.

As part of the campaign, organizers developed third-party spokespeople and trained industry representatives in crisis preparedness and communication.

A scientific advisory panel, "a group of experts that we can go to with questions" or serve as spokespeople has also been developed, according to England.

This year's focus includes issues crisis management, media relations, and a health professionals network, she said.

Because of the work in the media, "we have a great ability" to counter negative media, which has shown little impact on consumer behavior, because "they still believe in dairy health benefits," she said.

"If we do this for dairy, it can translate into all of agriculture. We're certainly willing to help," she said.

"With our continued preparedness, we feel that we're there, we're ready to step up" in the face of a disease crisis, said England.

An industry Website, www.dairyresponse.com, delivers basic information about diseases and provides suggestions on how to speak about animal health and dairy product safety.

Andy Zemba, executive assistant, officer of water management, Department of Environmental Protection, was also a panel member.

Chris Herr, Department of Agriculture, was also a panel member. Biosecurity, he said, is "an issue we have been able to address in many different ways" by enhancing programs already in place and networking with such federal organizations such as the INS and FBI.

Laura England, director of communications for Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association, discussed "Managing Dairy's Image."

Pennsylvania, with its lab systems, research projects, and networked contacts, is a leader in reaction to disease, according to Herr.

"Blowing up buildings is a scenario we're used to," said Herr. However bioterorism, he said, is "a very serious issue that we will continue to plan for."

thy, alfalfa, orchardgrass, and mixed stands on the home farm and nearby rented land.

The Finks maximize handling efficiency by double-compressing the hay into super-dense 35- and 80-pound bales which are sold to local farmers and to dairy and horse operations as far away as Europe and the Carribean Islands.

In accepting the award, Fink credited Dr. John Baylor, PFGC founder and longtime forage specialist at Penn State, for first interesting him in exporting hay three decades ago. Fink began to double-compress hay on Heidel Hollow Farm in the mid-1970s.

Fink quoted Freeman Dyson, a physics professor at Princeton University, to highlight the role hay has played in the development of modern civilization.

Dyson was one of about 100 leading thinkers who several years ago were asked, "What has been the most important invention in the past 2,000 years?" Dyson's answer was hay.

"In the classical world of Greece and Rome and in all earlier times, there was no hay," Dyson said. "Civilization could only exist in warm climates where horses could stay alive through the winter by grazing. Without grass in winter, you could not have horses, and without horses you could not have urban civilization. Sometime during the so-called Dark Ages, some unknown genius invented hay, forests were turned into meadows, hay was reaped and stored, and civilization moved north over the Alps. So hay gave birth to Vienna and Paris and London and Berlin, and later to Moscow and New York."

The quote was cited in a technology column written by Microsoft founder Bill Gates in 1999.

Dr. William Stout, USDA-ARS Pasture Systems and Watershed Management Research Unit, State College, received this year's Research/Extension Award. Stout recently passed away. PFGC leaders honored him for his years of commitment to grassland education.

Kathy Soder, USDA-Agricultural Research Service (ARS) pasture systems researcher, accepted the award on Stout's behalf. Soder had worked closely with Stout over a three-year period, during which he acted as an invaluable mentor for her, Soder said.

Stout was an adviser on the Pennsylvania Project Grass coordinating committee, providing technical advice and expertise over the years. He was instrumental in promoting the Project Grass grazing stick and grazing notebook, tools that help graziers manage their pastures. Stout developed two grazing notebooks, one for dairy producers and one for other livestock species.

Stout had also been active in the expansion of Project Grass across Pennsylvania, and assisted in organizing numerous field days and the formation of grazing groups.

"Dr. Stout's biggest contribution has been in the area of education," said Dr. Marvin Hall, Penn State agronomy professor and PFGC officer. "Because of these contributions, he is truly deserving of the PFGC Research/Extension/Teaching Award."

James Cropper, USDA-ARS humid regions grassland specialist, received the PFGC conservation award.

Cropper works at the USDA-ARS Pasture Systems and Watershed Management Research Unit at Penn State. He has been involved in conservation work in Pennsylvania and the Northeast since 1987, when he a became Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) agronomist in Chester, where he worked at disseminating information to help start grazing programs. Cropper also produced and edited Pasture Prophet, a grazing newsletter that has had national distribution.

Since 1995, Cropper has worked at the Pasture Lab Building in State College. His contributions during that time include developing pasture sections in the USDA/NRCS National Rangeland and Pasture handbook, pastureland ecology training sessions at North Carolina State and Penn State, and the NRCS pasture condition scoring system.

"Jim Cropper's unsurpassed efforts in conservation with forages makes him highly deserving of the PFGC's Conversation Award," Hall said.

The two-day conference featured a number of presentations on grazing and forage topics.

Irish brothers and dairymen Tom and Dr. John Roche shared their views on the potential of grazing opportunities in the Northeast.

"There is huge potential for pasture-based grazing dairy farms in the northeastern U.S.," they concluded. "However, although you can learn from the obvious mistakes that other countries have made, you will not be able to directly transfer their system into your region. Pick the most appropriate management practices and research them within your system."

Tom Roche manages a 100-cow dairy on the Roche family farm in southern Ireland. John works as a dairy nutrition scientist in New Zealand.

Dr. Steve Washburn of North Carolina State University spoke on his research into animal genetics for grazing systems.

Washburn focused on the potential of crossbreeding to improve survivability and reproductive performance in dairy cattle.

"Given our historical decline in dairy cow fertility and limitations of solving the problem through increasing energy intake, it is time to gear the genetic selection of dairy cattle to include fertility indicators along with milk production," Washburn noted.

Read the upcoming April 19 edition of Foraging Around, a section of Lancaster Farming, for more conference reports.

A Dry Cow Booster That Costs 7¢ a Day

Hoffmans Horse and Cattle Powder is an ideal tonic for cows over freshening Feed 6 wks before freshening 1 Tablespoon a day (Two weeks over freshening, feed 1 Tablespoon in the morning & 1 Tablespoon in evening)

Cows will clean better after freshening. Cows have a lower somatic cell count and will have less mastitus problems. Great for reproduction tract and cows will cycle better after freshening. Will help rumen function over freshening. Less feet problems and less stress.

This is an over-all good booster if fed to dry cows, and it will pay you big dividends.

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
March 5, 2002
Report Supplied By USDA

Weather and export news remain the motives for up and down movement of grain and soybean bids Wheat 2 to 9 cents lower Corn 1 cent higher Sorghum 2 cents higher Soybeans 3 to 4 cents lower Wheat bids were moderately lower after learning that Egypt bought French origin wheat instead of US wheat A warming trend has been forecast for much of the winter wheat growing areas over the next few days This is negative news for wheat now, until another cold snap returns and threatens the vulnerable crop again Corn bids moved slightly higher due to technical buying on the Board Overnight export purchase by South Korea was also positive to corn bids. Moisture over the past couple of days, however, limited gains Soybean Bids continued to lose ground as talks of Chinese cancellations and lack of fresh export news drove bids lower.

Meeting To Inform Cattlemen On Country Of Origin Labeling Rule

JOPLIN, Mo. — Country of origin labeling legislation will be the topic when cattle producers participate in an informational meeting in southwest Missouri March 11.

The meeting to be broadcast live on the Internet is being hosted and coordinated by Joplin Regional Stockyards in Joplin, Mo., and the joint efforts of the Missouri Cattlemen's Association (MCA) and the National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA).

The focus will be on helping producers understand how country of origin labeling legislation impacts cow/calf producers. The meeting will be held March 11 at 6 p.m. (CST) at the Joplin Regional Stockyards and be available to cattle producers nationwide via the Internet. To view the meeting live visit www.joplinstockyards.com and click on the "COOL Web Cast" icon during the scheduled meeting time.

"This is an outstanding opportunity to provide producers nationwide with information from people actively involved in the process and intimately familiar with the facts," says Ken Disselhorst, MCA president and a cow/calf producer from Palmyra, Mo. "This meeting demonstrates what we can accomplish when our state and national organizations work together with our local champions out in the country."

Scheduled speaker for the program include; William Sessions, associate deputy administrator for the Livestock and Seed Program, AMS, USDA; Chandler Keys, vice-president public policy, NCBA; Marcine Moldenhauer, value added procurement manager, EXCEL Corporation; and Mark Dopp, general counsel, American Meat Institute. Guest speakers will be followed by a question and answer session.

Terry Stokes, NCBA chief executive officer, says the meeting should provide information that producers will need as the law takes effect.

"The legislation requires retailers to label products starting Oct. 1, 2004, and that will have an effect on us. Producers are required to provide the information that allows the retailer to comply," Stokes says. "This forum helps producers understand what the retailers and packers will require of us, and what is associated with the country of origin labeling law. These could end up costing cattle producers money and time," he says.

Stokes said USDA will likely begin the rulemaking process for mandatory country of origin labeling in April, with mandatory implementation of the law by Sept. 30, 2004.

For more information on attending this meeting or viewing over the Internet please contact Mark Harmon, Joplin Regional Stockyards, (417) 548-2333, Luke Burbank, MCA, (573) 499-9162 or Melanie Daye, NCBA (303) 850-3388.

Agway, Telmark Announce Sale Of Telmark Assets

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Agway, Inc. and Telmark LLC, Agway's wholly owned lease-financing subsidiary, announced that Telmark has completed the sale of substantially all of its assets and business relationships to Wells Fargo Financial Leasing, Inc.

The sale was approved Feb. 27 by the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of New York in Utica, N.Y. following an auction hearing. The sale closed at the end of business on Friday, Feb. 28.

The sale price was approximately $615 million for the net assets sold. With the proceeds from the sale, Telmark will repay its outstanding debt, including its publicly held debt, and pay debt related costs, other liabilities, and transaction related expenses. Such payments and repayments are estimated to aggregate approximately $548 million, resulting in net proceeds to Telmark of approximately $67 million, which amounts are subject to certain agreed to holdbacks and post closing adjustments.

Barley Offers Consulting Service

CONESTOGA (Lancaster Co.) — Former Pennsylvania State Rep. John Barley has started an agricultural consulting firm, offering his services to farmers and agribusinesses throughout the region.

Barley, a fourth-generation farmer on Star Rock Farm, Conestoga, said that the changing agricultural environment makes it increasingly important that farm businesses hire independent consultants to provide an outside persective on issues such as expansion, family farm transfers, land use management, and zoning. Barley noted that he has used consultants on his own farm business for decades.

"These are all things I did throughout my years of active farming," Barley said. "I always wanted someone to bounce those ideas off of."

Barley has been working as a consultant for about eight months. He said he sees himself as a "facilitator" in farm discussions, helping families and businesses meet the challenge of making agriculture a viable and attractive lifestyle for years to come.

"The next generation of farmers wants to live the same lifestyle as their contemporaries living in the suburbs," Barley said. This requires "making certain that the business has enough cash flow to support that standard of living."

That standard of living involves more than just making good money on the farm, Barley noted. It also means having more time to be involved in other activities with the family and community.

One of the services Barley offers is a regular operations audit "to take a look at what's happening on your operation." This kind of walk-through can be invaluable tool for making improvements, according to Barley.

"That independent set of eyes will see things that are going unnoticed," he said.

Because farmers make money in a wide variety of ways today, understanding assets and how best to use them is critical for success, Barley noted. This includes knowing how to use income, borrowing, and leveraging assets to their maximum advantage.

Senate Agriculture Committee Confirms Secretary Designee Dennis Wolff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, chaired by Sen. Mike Waugh (R-28), unanimously confirmed Secretary of Agriculture Designee Dennis Wolff in a hearing Wednesday morning.

During the hearing, Wolff, a dairy farmer from Millville, had the opportunity to present opening and closing remarks to the committee, in turn, the floor was opened to the committee to ask questions of Wolff.

Waugh expressed support for Wolff during Wednesday's hearing.

"I am pleased to offer my support for Mr. Wolff as secretary of agriculture. I believe he is a qualified and knowledgeable candidate who will work with us to further the broad cause of agriculture and related issues in this commonwealth," said Waugh.

In addition to owning and operating Pen-Col Farms, a 700-acre, 500-head dairy farm in Millville that specializes in breeding purebred Holstein cows, Wolff is a director on five agricultural-related boards. Wolff is a member of the World Trade Organization's Agricultural Technical Committee, which provides input from the grass-roots level on WTO agricultural policies. Wolff also serves on the Penn State Board of Trustees and as president of Camp Victory, a nonprofit summer camp for children with disabilities and chronic illnesses.

The committee had also received a number of letters of support and endorsement for Wolff from several organizations, including the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, the Pennsylvania State Grange, and the Hardwood Lumber Manufacturers Association of Pennsylvania.

Since his nomination by Gov. Ed Rendell at the 2003 State Farm Show, Wolff has been meeting individually with senators in addition to taking on the daily responsibilities of the secretary of agriculture.

With confirmation from the committee, only a vote from the full Senate is necessary for Wolff to officially serve as secretary.

Dairy Alliance Sets Calf Sense Workshops

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Newborn dairy calves stand at a fork in the road on the day they are born.

Calves that are born on a farm with a good newborn management system get started on the path to life, health, and future productivity. Those calves that are born on a farm with poor or inconsistent newborn management face a path where death and disease wait to destroy their health and productivity. The path your calves take depends on your management system in the first days of life and the skill and commitment of the people who care for them.

A new Dairy Alliance program called "Calf Sense" is designed to help you get your calves off to a healthy start. Calf Sense is a hands-on, intensive program that teaches dairy managers and employees the science and skills they need to start calves out right. The core of the program teaches skills such as testing colostrum quality and conducting a basic health exam. Participants learn concepts and then practice with actual equipment and calves to master the knowledge and skills they need. This method of learning reinforces people's commitment to caring for calves the right way every time.

In addition to learning such critical skills, Calf Sense also teaches participants how to set up a management system so that calves are treated right every time. A book filled with standard operating procedures (SOPs) that can be adapted and used right away is part of the learning materials provided to each participant.

Berks County Cooperative Extension and Scattered Acres Dairy hosted the most recent Calf Sense. Participants were enthusiastic about the quality of the program.

Future Calf Sense programs are planned for the central Susquehanna area on April 17, and for the Blair County/Morrison's Cove area on April 18.

For more information, or to register for Calf Sense, call the Dairy Alliance office at (888) 373-PADA. Visit the Dairy Alliance website at www.dairyalliance.org.

IN THE BEGINNING . . . THERE WAS 4-H
Galen Kopp
Extension Agent — Dairy
Lebanon County

I got my start in the 4-H dairy club in my county a number of years ago. As the 4-H program celebrates its first 100 years, I can't help but think back and remember, along with many of you, that this is where all my experiences began.

Our parents would take us to the 4-H dairy club meetings at the extension office with the county agent and sometimes during the summer months at a leader's farm or to an ag business. Our parents would also learn new ideas while at the meeting. The agent or leader would teach the 4-H members while the parents also listened and looked on. As the members tried new ideas and they were successful, the parents found it worthwhile. All the information presented was research-based and tried at the land grant university and then disseminated to the local county extension offices.

As most of us got older, we would assume offices in the club and also attend district, state, and national events. Yes, showing and winning blue ribbons was great, but I think most of us also remember the fun times we had at club meetings, district, state, and national events. A lot of us met our senators and congressman while attending the National 4-H Citizenship short course in Washington, D.C.

Little did we know that some day we were laying the foundation for careers and occupations in our adult life. Some examples are David Lentz, Pennsylvania Holstein Association; Harold Brubaker, speaker of the House of Representatives, North Carolina; Art Hershey, Pennsylvania House of Representatives; and Duane Nolt, a dairy nutritionist.

They're just a few individuals who benefited from 4-H. It is surprising how many times we use the leadership skills we learned in 4-H each and everyday.

Not all 4-H members become dairy farmers. However, 4-H helps young adults become very successful in many agricultural careers such as county agents, dairy nutritionists, farm ag and building sales, as breeding organization representatives, and in many, many more ways. What better informal training is there when the whole family can participate and help mold the future of dairying in Pennsylvania, the U.S., and the world?

Galen Kopp

Volunteer today to be a dairy club leader, a coach for the dairy judging or quiz bowl team, or just a person willing to help out when called upon to do so. Help promote the 4-H dairy program in Pennsylvania and the world. You may help mold some small beginnings into some large futures.

The annual Lancaster Farming Animal Health and Housing Book is scheduled April 5. Focus will be on herd health and odor control, including silo management, and nutrient management planning for confinement houses.

Author Reports Health Benefits Of Grassfed Animal Products

Growing Body Of Research Shows 'Good Fats' Help People Stay Lean, Healthy

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The evidence is growing stronger that meat, milk, and eggs from pastured animals can help prevent cancer and provide humans with a healthier balance of fatty acids, according to a best-selling author and journalist speaking at the recent Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) conference.

Jo Robinson is the author of "Why Grassfed is Best!", a book that cites numerous studies from the past decade which document the health benefits of grassfed animal products in the diet.

"When I say health benefits," Robinson said, "I mean not just for people, but for animals and the planet and the welfare of farmers."

The change in the 1940s and 1950s from primarily grass-based livestock production toward grain-based systems has had an adverse impact on the quality of our food, upsetting the balance of essential fatty acids in our body and contributing to a variety of physical and mental health problems, according to Robinson.

"I truly believe that when we switched our animals from grass to grain, we made the most dramatic change in our food supply since the agricultural revolution," she said.

> "I truly believe that when we switched our animals from grass to grain, we made the most dramatic change in our food supply since the agricultural revolution."
> Jo Robinson
> author of "Why Grassfed Is Best!

Robinson spoke about the significance of omega-3 and omega-6 fatty acids, and on recent research that shows the cancer-fighting effects of conjugated linoleic acid (CLA), a type of fat found in significant amounts in grassfed animal products.

Omega-3 fatty acids first came into the spotlight in the mid-1980s when studies began to emerge showing the importance of these fats in human cell and brain function. By that time, Americans had for several decades been consuming meat, milk, and eggs from mostly grainfed animals.

Research has shown that products from grainfed animals contains lower levels of omega-3s and higher levels of omega-6s compared to those from animals raised on grass, mainly because because omega-3s come from the leafy, green part of plants, while omega-6s are stored in the seeds.

The mid-century switch from grass to grain "greatly increased omega-6s and greatly decreased omega-3s" in American diets, Robinson said.

While both of these fatty acids are essential to human cell function, it is the low level of omega-3s and high level of omega-6s in the diet that cause trouble, she pointed out.

"Omega-6s are good, except when we get too many," according to Robinson. One effect of too many omega 6s is that they "make us grow fat faster," she said.

In the human diet, "the more omega-3s, the leaner people are; the more omega-6's, the fatter people are."

The proper amount of omega-3s allows the normal function of an enzyme that converts food into fat and promotes good cell function throughout the body and brain. Research shows omega-3s can reduced the risk for heart problems, high blood pressure, and cancer, as well as mental disorders such as depression, aggressive behavior, attention deficit disorder, and schizophrenia.

According to Robinson, only about 40 percent of the people in the U.S. consume enough omega-3s.

"Most people in this country, by far, do not have enough omega-3 fatty acids in their diet," she said.

Information on CLA, another type of "good fat" produced by ruminants, has been coming to light even more recently.

"We've learned within the last four years how important this fat is," Robinson said of the CLA produced by cattle and other ruminants. According to a 1999 study, cows grazing on pasture and receiving no supplemental feed had 500 percent more CLA in milk fat than cows fed typical dairy diets.

Recent studies have indicated that CLA represses tumor growth and may significantly reduce the risk of cancer. The fat has also been shown, paradoxically, to help convert fat to lean muscle. This fat-burning property of CLA was first noted in animal studies.

According to Robinson, the best source of CLA is from grassfed meat and dairy products. Evidence is also mounting that dairy products from grassfed cows supply yet another "good" fat in the diet called trans-vaccenic acid, or TVA.

TVA, a biochemical precursor to CLA, may perform its good work by being converted into CLA in the human body. David Schingoethe, dairy scientist from South Dakota State University, noted that eating dairy foods high in TVA may be a more effective way to increase CLA levels than ingesting CLA itself.

Robinson cited other nutritional benefits of grass-based animal products, including higher levels of vitamin E and beta carotene.

"The gold standard for all ruminants is pasture. Chickens are not ruminants — they need other things as well," she said.

She pointed out that the maximum nutritional benefit from grassfed products comes from animals feeding on fresh, living grass. Even hay that has been cut and dried for a few hours has already lost some of its good fats and other nutrients, she said.

Farmers can retain some of these benefits by cutting hay at a young stage and wrapping or otherwise storing it at a high moisture content. Robinson also recommended cutting hay in the afternoon when sugar content is highest.

According to Robinson, it is time for animal agriculture to return to grass-based methods of production.

"Every lick of an ice cream cone, every bite of cheese, every egg, every slice of meat, pork, or poultry that we eat has a distorted ratio of these essential fats because we have ignored the natural system and decided that we can grow them faster, cheaper, and better by feeding them something they're not adapted to," she said.

"Again and again when we think we can improve on what is, we find we are shortsighted and it is not an improvement. We have incredible power to manipulate the food supply and not enough wisdom and self-control. We need to stop experimenting with our food until we fully understand what our bodies need in terms of nutrition.

"How long can we be forgiven? My reply is that the grace period is over," Robinson said.

She encouraged people to locate a source of pasture-raised products, preferably local, for their family and friends.

"Farmers and ranchers, you don't immediately have to take all your animals off grain," she said. "Move in that direction."

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — The Pennsylvania Hereford Association conducted their winter board meeting February 15 in Bedford.

Officers elected included Michael Firestine, president; Dustin Heeter, vice president; Janice Engle, secretary; and Robert Glenn, treasurer.

Directors elected for a three-year term include Dan Kniffen, Larry Pettit, Terry Shearer, Larry Chaikcic, and Robert Glenn.

Special recognition was given to the 2003 National Polled Hereford Queen, Margeaux Firestine. She is the first national queen from Pennsylvania.

The Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) has been designated as a National Hereford Show. This is the first national show be held in the eastern United States. The show will be on Sunday, October 5. There will also be a Hereford Sale conducted at KILE on Friday, October 3 at 1 p.m.

C.J. Furlong will be hosting the Spring Grass Time Hereford Sale. This event will take place on Saturday, May 17 and will be conducted at Furlong's ranch in Salunga.

Furlong reported there are 54 lots consigned: 8 bulls, 22 cow-calf pairs, and 24 heifers.

Martene Firestine reported that the Junior Hereford Association had 50 members as of December 31, 2002. The Junior Preview Show is tentatively scheduled for April 26.

Steve Reichard is compiling information for the 2003 Directory. Anyone interested in placing an ad must do so by March 31.

Membership dues for 2003 are to be mailed to Frank Granberry, HCR72, Box 32B, Richfield, PA 17086.

C. J. Furlong commended Dennis Grumbine for a successful Farm Show. He will recommend having the beef breeds rotate show days.

Meeting was adjourned at 3:30 p.m.

Sign-Up Dates Set For Ag Aid Benefits

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In the first phase of agriculture assistance implementation authorized under the Agricultural Assistance Act of 2003, Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman last week announced that sign-up for the expanded Livestock Compensation Program will begin April 1.

The Tobacco Payment Program benefit sign-up will begin March 17. Veneman said the implementation team is working on details regarding other program benefits and said information about these other sign-up dates will be announced in the near future.

USDA has also launched a website, located at www.usda.gov, that provides producers one location for details on these programs, questions and answers, allows for comments and suggestions on program implementation, as well as other information on USDA agriculture assistance.

"USDA is committed to providing these disaster program benefits to producers as quickly as possible and today's announcement is the first step in meeting those expectations," said Veneman. "Our implementation team is examining ways to cut the red tape and expedite the process where possible and the new website provides the ability for producers to make suggestions on how we might work more efficiently in meeting that goal."

Both the LCP and the TOPP programs can begin quickly because program systems are in place and the programs are relatively easy to administer.

LCP sign-up will begin on April 1 and is scheduled to end early June, 2003. The Act expands LCP by including additional counties that were approved under a Secretarial disaster designation or Presidential disaster declaration for damages and losses due to any natural disaster. The Act also includes catfish as an eligible commodity.

Previously under LCP, a county must have been named as a primary county under a Secretarial disaster designation between Jan. 1, 2001, and Sept. 19, 2002, only for drought. The Act expands LCP to make eligible any counties that were requested as primary disaster areas under a Presidential or Secretarial declaration by Feb. 20, and that were subsequently approved.

To be eligible for LCP assistance, a producer's livestock operation headquarters must be physically located in a county with a qualifying disaster designation. Eligible livestock are cattle, sheep, goats, and buffalo, as well as catfish. Counties named as contiguous counties are not eligible for the program. LCP payments will be based on losses per head or number of eligible livestock and catfish.

To sign up for LCP assistance, eligible producers should visit their local FSA offices on April 1. USDA anticipates more than 700 additional counties will be made eligible for LCP under the Act. LCP was originally administered in 2,149 counties.

Sign-up for TOPP will begin March 17 and is scheduled to end May 16. The program provides an estimated $53 million to tobacco producers. Eligible applicants are quota holders and producers of all kinds of tobacco under USDA's 2002 tobacco program. Payments are expected to be issued between mid-May and June 1. To apply for TOPP assistance, eligible persons should visit their local USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) offices beginning March 17.

The Act, signed into law on Feb. 20, authorizes total disaster aid estimated at $3.1 billion for producers suffering from natural disasters and related conditions. USDA will announce sign-up as quickly as possible for other assistance provided by the Act, including the crop disaster program that reimburses producers for qualifying crop losses in either 2001 or 2002 due to damaging weather or related conditions.

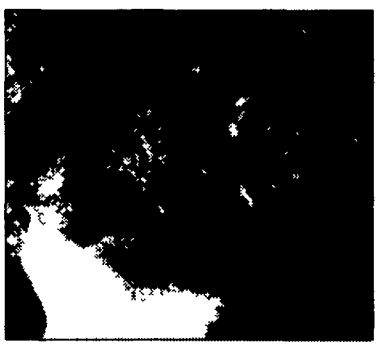
Cimarron SR ALFALFA

Top Forage Quality
Cimarron SR produces larger leaves than other alfalfa varieties (See photo right.) And it holds its leaves better in the field and in the baling process. The result is a leafier hay with higher protein and TDN. Break open a bale of Cimarron hay, and you can see the difference.



High Yields - Long Stand Life
Cimarron SR is producing excellent yields in the Penn State trials. And unlike other alfalfa varieties Cimarron SR was bred on the East Coast, so it stands up well under the difficulties of Eastern conditions. You can count on Cimarron SR for long stand life and top productivity.

Sclerotinia Resistance
Sclerotinia crown rot is a significant problem for alfalfa growers on the East Coast. Cimarron SR provides the protection against sclerotinia that growers need.

Weevil Tolerance
Cimarron SR's unique alfalfa weevil tolerance reduces weevil damage by 50%. In a heavy infestation spraying can be cut in half. In lighter infestations, spraying can be avoided altogether.

Poultry Association Lends A Hand To Area Shelter

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County Poultry Association continued an annual tradition of serving breakfast at the Water Street Rescue Mission recently.

The team of members lead by Andy Bradford, president, served breakfast to clients of the shelter on Saturday, Feb. 15.

This annual event is tied to Pennsylvania's Ag Producers Banquet, as a certificate representing one breakfast served to a mission client is presented at the banquet.

The Poultry Association is committed to community service, and is supported by area producers in some of the products served at the breakfast. For information about the association, call (717) 394-6851.

American Egg Board Members Appointed

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman has appointed nine members and nine alternates to the American Egg Board for the 2003-2004 term. All members and alternates will serve 2-year terms. The board administers an egg research and promotion program authorized by the Egg Research and Consumer Information Act of 1974.

"I am pleased these individuals have agreed to serve," said Veneman. "They bring a great deal of knowledge and experience to the American Egg Board."

The board is composed of 18 members and 18 alternates representing six regions. The Secretary of Agriculture selects appointees from egg producers nominated by organizations representing the egg industry.

Reappointed members and alternates, by region, are:

North Atlantic states — Ronald E. Kreider, Manheim, Pa., member; Paul D. Sauder, Lititz, Pa., alternate; Julia A. Lough, East Winthrop, Maine, member; Joseph H. Fortin, Lebanon, Conn., alternate.

South Atlantic states — Michael H. Bynum, Dover, Fla., member; David L. Lathem, Pendergrass, Ga., alternate.

East North Central states - Thomas E. Hertzfeld I, Waterville, Ohio, member; Ruth A. Hendrix, Seymour, Ind., member; Brian S. Hayward, Warsaw, Ind., alternate.

Newly appointed alternates, by region, are: East North Central states - Kurt F. Lausecker, West Mansfield, Ohio, alternate. West North Central states - Loren E. Asche, Lake Mills, Wis., alternate.

Membership terms on the board are staggered so that half of the membership is appointed each year in order to provide continuity in policy.

The program is funded entirely by a ten-cent per 30-dozen case assessment on eggs marketed by producers with flocks of over 75,000 hens. USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, an agency of the marketing and regulatory programs mission area, monitors operations of the board.

Turkeys Raised In Pennsylvania 4 Percent Higher In 2002

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Commonwealth producers raised 9.9 million turkeys in 2002, up 4 percent from the 9.5 million raised in 2001, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service (PASS).

Turkeys raised in the United States during 2002 totaled 272 million birds, up fractionally from 272 million turkeys raised during 2001.

North Carolina ranked first in the number raised with 45.5 million, followed by Minnesota with 44.0 million, Arkansas with 29.5 million, Missouri with 25.5 million, Virginia with 20.0 million, California with 17.7 million, and Indiana with 13.0 million. These states accounted for 72 percent of the turkeys produced in the United States during 2002.

Producers in Pennsylvania reported intentions to be 9.9 million turkeys during 2003, which would be held constant with the 9.9 million turkeys raised in 2002. Turkey growers in the 23 States, which produced 99 percent of the turkeys raised in 2002, intend to decrease the number of birds raised in 2003 by 2 percent.

Intentions for the top seven producing States compared with 2002 are as follows: Minnesota up 2 percent, North Carolina down 3 percent, Arkansas down 2 percent, Missouri down 2 percent, Virginia down 5 percent, California down 10 percent, and Indiana unchanged.

Pennsylvania encourages growers to have crop insurance protection as part of their farming risk management plan. All policy fees and approximately 20 percent of net premium costs are paid for growers.

Sponsored by the PA Department of Agriculture with cost share support from RMA/USDA.

Remain Flexible with Your Attack on Broadleaf Weeds

There are many factors that come into play each spring that affect how and when you apply your broadleaf herbicide. Weather can close the application window altogether while tillage practices, crop rotational restrictions or local use restrictions can severely limit the use of a herbicide.

That's why it pays to use a flexible broadleaf herbicide — one that adapts to all your farming spring schedule. Hornet WDG herbicide offers:

- The ability to make a soil application or up to 2 applications up to 20 inch-tall corn or the V6 stage, whichever comes first
- Rotational freedom to soybeans, alfalfa, wheat and other crops
- No setback restrictions since it contains no atrazine
- Tank-mix flexibility with nearly all other grass and broadleaf postemergence corn herbicides
- The ability to choose the application rate and timing that best fits your weed spectrum and farming practices

Hornet WDG controls large-seeded broadleaf weeds, including common and giant ragweed, velvetleaf, cocklebur and sunflower. And when Hornet WDG is used in a soil-applied tank mix with either Surpass® TopNotch® FulTime® or new Keystone® or Keystone LA grass herbicides, you get a superior broad-spectrum weed control program.

Remove any doubts about what herbicide to use to control broadleaf weeds this spring. Ask your ag retailer about how the flexibility of Hornet WDG herbicide can benefit your corn production this year.

Consignment to the PCA Silent and Fun Auctions

Following the successes of the auctions over the past several years, the PCA is requesting consignments for the 2003 auctions Over the past three years, more than $14,000 has been raised through the Silent and Fun Auctions.

Expo exhibitors and participants alike will have the opportunity to donate items to the auction Donated items may range from homemade items to tools, bull semen, equipment, dinners at restaurants, services, and livestock. Each item or its photo and description will be on display during the Expo Trade Show hours along with the names of donors The Silent Auction will be located in the mezzanine at the Ag Arena with a bidders' list for each item The bidder offering the highest bid will be the new owner Some of the items will also be selected for the fun auction to be held at the Thursday night banquet

If you have an item that you wish to donate, please return the form below to the PCA office, so we can reserve table space. A list of donors will appear in the next issue of Keystone Cattlemen. Also, there will be a booklet listing the items and donors. A suggested bid increment will be specified for each item. Bids close at 4:00 PM Saturday, March 29.

Ceresville New Holland/Sheepman Supply Open House March 15

FREDERICK, Md. — Tired of being cooped in because of snowy weather? Enjoy a day out at Ceresville New Holland/Sheepman Supply Company's Open House here on Saturday, March 15 from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. with food, demonstrations, door prizes, and good deals for folks interested in farm and livestock equipment and supplies.

The Jefferson United Methodist Men will serve a free pancake and sausage breakfast from 8:30 a.m. to noon. Demonstrations are scheduled as follows: 9 a.m. — 50-hour tractor service walkaround; 11 a.m. — parasite patrol (explanation of wormers); 11 a.m. — repeat of the 50-hour tractor service walkaround.

Throughout the day, Jake Thompson will give continuous demonstrations on animal manager and animal health software for your computer. Art McAlister of York Ag Products will show how Equi-Litter works. Other new products will be included in the demonstrations as well.

A 10 percent discount will be honored for all parts and livestock supplies paid for that day, and other great deals are offered, such as a $30 manufacturer's rebate on Oster Clipmaster, Shearmaster, and Showmaster animal clippers, pallet specials on sisal and plastic twine, and a preseason discount on rubber rake teeth.

Can't come on the 15th? Online, faxed, and phone orders for Sheepman Supply supplies will include the discount for March 13-15, and the deals for twine and rubber rake teeth are in effect now through Open House, ending March 15. See the online animal health and supplies Website at www.sheepman.com or call (800) 331-9122.

The fourth annual Silent Auction will be offered on tractors, skidloaders, and other large equipment. Bids for these will be taken from Monday, March 10 through 1 p.m. on Saturday, March 15. Financing available and tradeback is guaranteed. Other special terms apply.

Door prizes will also be given out throughout the day, courtesy of Ceresville New Holland and Sheep Supply Company suppliers. Companies represented include Tisco, Kuhn, Dixie Chopper, Rhino, Ryder Supply, Animal Health Publications, BoviDr., Hasco, Coburn Company, Howard Card, Wynco, Riverside Plastics, Caprine, and others.

Ceresville New Holland/Sheepman Supply is located on Rt. 26 east just outside of Frederick, Md., at 8102 Liberty Road.

Forum Focuses On Unlocking The Future

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Farmer cooperative leaders and those interested in cooperative affairs have an opportunity to learn more about key industry trends and cutting-edge strategies. The Northeast Cooperative Council will conduct its Cooperative Leaders Forum and 54th Annual Meeting on March 19-20 at The Wyndham Hotel in Syracuse, N.Y. This year's theme is "The Right Combination to Unlocking the Future." The forum is offered in conjunction with CoBank's regional customer meeting.

Bill Hale, president of the Hale Group, will kick off the forum with a presentation on the "Changing Food Service Industry." He is an acknowledged food industry expert and is well known for the ability to identify emerging trends and new opportunities within the food system.

Other speakers include David Hayes and Joe Getman, attorneys with bond, Schoeneck & King, LLP, addressing the subject of "Best Practices for Governance;" Steve Wright, CEO of Pro-Fac Cooperative will discuss "Restructuring Pro-Fac," and Don Schriver, of Dairy Farmers of America on "DFA-Investing in Market Access for Member Milk."

Speakers on the CoBANK segment of the program include Doug Sims on operating results for CoBANK, Dr. Dave Kohl speaking about "Megatrends in Agriculture," and Ed Seifried addressing the "The Road to Economic Recovery."

For more information visit the NECC website: http://www.cooperatives.aem.cornell.edu/events1.html or contact Brian Henehan, NECC secretary at (607) 255-8800 or bmh5@cornell.edu.

Holstein USA Offers Scholarship

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Dairy graduates pursuing a master's degree in business administration are encouraged to apply for the Holstein Association USA, Inc. Robert H. Rumler Scholarship.

This $3,000 scholarship is awarded annually to a recipient who has graduated from an accredited agricultural college or university with a bachelor's degree in dairy science or its equivalent. The scholarship may be given to a student at the beginning of an MBA program or a student entering their second year of an MBA program.

The scholarship program was started in 1984 by the Holstein Association USA, Inc. to honor Robert H. Rumler, who led the association as executive secretary for 25 years, while serving a total of 36 years. Upon his retirement, Rumler was named chairman emeritus of the association.

Eligibility requirements include:

• Applicants must have graduated from an accredited agricultural college or university obtaining a bachelor's degree in dairy science or its equivalent.

• The applicant should have ranked in the upper one-third of the agricultural graduates of the college or university granting the applicant's undergraduate degree.

• Signlficant extracurricular activities as an undergraduate will receive consideration.

•While not a requirement, heavy preference will be given to applicants having had several years of work experience following receipt of a bachelor's degree. Evaluation of leadership qualities, management aptitude and executive intuition and personal traits evidenced during this period will weigh in the selection process.

Previous applicants may reapply. A previous recipient will be eligible for one additional scholarship to complete degree requirements.

Applications for the scholarship are due April 15. To obtain an application, please contact Holstein Association USA, Inc., (800) 952-5200 or e-mail www.holsteinusa.com.

CME Revises Live Cattle Futures Contract

CHICAGO, Ill. — Responding to customer requests, Chicago Mercantile Exchange Inc. (CME) has approved a series of revisions to its live cattle futures contract intended to extend the contract's utility to a wider customer base.

The new contract specifications are effective with the December 2003 expiration and include a 25-pound increase in the maximum deliverable live weights to a maximum average weight of 1,350 pounds and a maximum individual weight of 1,400 pounds.

"We convened an Ad Hoc Advisory Group consisting of industry participants and members of the National Cattlemen's Beef Association as well as other users of the live cattle contract," CME Chairman Terry Duffy said. "Their expertise and advice were invaluable as we constructed a contract that is intended to be useful to the broadest constituency of market participants."

"We believe increasing deliverable weights will bring the contract into line with long-term industry trends toward heavier cattle and, thus, its usefulness to hedgers," said CME President and Chief Executive Officer Jim McNulty. "Other revisions to the delivery process are designed to facilitate deliveries for all parties involved in the delivery on the CME's live cattle contract."

The revisions include increasing the spot month position limits to 450 contracts between first notice day and the day before the last five business days of the contract month, and additional live graded delivery points at Guymon and Texhoma, Oklahoma. A uniform live grading fee of $100 will be implemented at all delivery points, also beginning with December 2003 deliveries.

N.Y. Pork Producers Plan Feeder Pig And Lamb Sale

HAMBURG, N.Y. — New York Pork Producers will be providing a feeder pig and feeder lamb sale, April 19 at 1:00 p.m. at the Erie County Fair Grounds, using the lower McKinley Street entrance.

All feeder pigs sold will be vaccinated for Erysipelas, Rhinitis and Pneumonia, and they will be treated for worms and external parasites. Most pigs will weigh in the range of 35 to 75 lbs. All pigs are New York born and their owners are members of the N.Y. Pork Producers.

At 12:00 noon, there will be an educational class in selection and care of your project pig. A food stand will be open for lunch items.

Any N.Y. Pork Producer member that wants to enter pigs in the sale must do so by March 20 with a $3.00 entry fee per animal which is non-refundable. All consignors are required to work the sale. Checks made out to N.Y. Pork Producers should be sent to Darryl Duink, 3142 Hickox Rd., Hamburg, NY 14075. Any questions, call Darryl Duink (716) 649-2315.

Feeder lambs will be a new addition to the sale this year. Lambs will be born after 12/1/02. Ewe and wether lambs only will be accepted. Lambs will have tails docked, wormed 7 days before sale, vaccinated for C/DT and have a USDA Scrapie Tag in one ear.

The lambs will be sold following the feeder pigs. Any questions or consignment inquiries should contact Don Wild, PO Box 7, Great Valley, NY 14741; Phone (716) 945-4649. Non-refundable entry fees of $3.00 per head due March 20. Checks should be made out to N.Y. Pork Producers and sent to Darryl Duink, 3142 Hickox Rd., Hamburg, NY 14075.

Pa. Ag Secretary Calls Rendell Budget Workable

Exhibition. Conservation programs and the animal health commission are also allocated the same amount in the new budget.

One program that would be reinstalled is the Agriculture and Rural Youth Fund, at $110,000.

"It's obviously a very difficult budget year," Wolff said. "I think it's a pretty good budget to work with. We want to work our way out of this (slump) and stimulate economic growth."

The budget proposal will need to be approved in the Pennsylvania legislature before it becomes law. Before then, there will likely be some negotiation over parts of the budget which may lead to "modest changes," Wolff said.

In what lawmakers called an unusual move, Rendell has promised to make another budget address in two and a half weeks.

Education makes up the largest part of spending in the proposed budget, representing 43 percent of the $20.8 billion total. Health and Human Services follows at 36 percent, with Protection of People and Property coming in next at 11.8 percent.

As a result of Rendell's budget announcement, Penn State University is faced with a 5 percent budget cut, to the tune of about $4.4 million, according to Dr. Robert Steele, dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences.

During a gathering of the college's alumni society and the Penn State Agricultural Council in Lancaster Wednesday evening, Steele outlined what such a cut will bring to extension research and services.

The multimillion-dollar hit, Steele noted, will affect staffing, with another round of layoffs that could affect 75-100 people. "We have to balance our books, and if the money isn't there, we'll have to continue to downsize the work force," Steele said to about 70 who gathered at the meeting in Lancaster at the Eden Resort Inn and Conference Center.

About 85 people were laid off in the previous Penn State budget cuts.

Steele strongly urged those who attended to "walk the halls" of Harrisburg and carry the message to legislators to consider the importance of extension education and research programs.

Despite the bad news, Steele noted that Penn State remains committed to youth programs. They also recently hired a new York County extension director, will be filling the position of full-time extension dairy agent in Lancaster, and will be hiring a pomologist at the fruit research center.

Steele noted that other colleges are experiencing this type of "blood letting." In Nebraska, extension is facing the possibility of a 15 percent cut in funding this year and another 15 percent cut next year.

California is facing more drastic measures, as the state is "billions of dollars" over budget. "There could be a 45 percent cut in programs" in that state, Steele said.

Penn State receives about $50 million from the state, $10 million from counties, and $18 million from the federal government.

Despite the staff budget cuts, the Penn State capital budget has allowed construction to continue on various building projects, including the new Food Science and Creamery buildings and the forestry and life sciences buildings. Penn State encompasses about 2,500 contiguous acres. Since Steele became dean, the college has gained 800 acres while losing only about 100 acres to development, he noted.

Enrollment continues to climb in the number one major, animal sciences. The first-rate facilities and new construction have allowed Penn State to "buck the trend," said Steele, of decreasing ag enrollment throughout the country. They also offer $1.5 million in scholarships, which keeps them competitive.

Steele urged those attending to call, mail, e-mail, or fax legislators to rethink the budget rollback and to fully ensure research and education programs continue throughout the state.

13th Annual Environmental Stewardship Award Accepting Nominations

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA) is currently accepting nomination applications for the 13th annual Environmental Stewardship Award Program (ESAP). The final deadline for applications is June 13, 2003.

"This is an exceptional opportunity for cattle producers across the country to showcase the stewardship and business practices that exist together on today's progressive farms and ranches.

"Cattlemen are actively working to protect and improve the environment because they know environmental stewardship and good business go hand-in-hand, and we are proud to recognize them," says Stephanie Tinsley, director of the ESAP.

Sponsored by Dow AgroSciences, the National Environmental Stewardship Program recognizes cattle producers who use innovative practices to protect and enhance natural resources while maintaining or increasing the profitability of their businesses.

"The program has inspired many operations in our industry over the past 12 years, and it continues to thrive. There are some great candidates out there, in every region. This year's program should prove to be another highly competitive contests, so get your nomination applications in the mail as soon as possible," says Tinsley.

Any group or organization is eligible to nominate one individual/business, however the nominee must raise or feed cattle.

Individuals and families may not nominate themselves. Nominees need not be NCBA members, but they must support NCBA's mission: working to increase profit opportunities for cattle and beef producers by enhancing the business climate and building consumer demand.

Past winners cannot resubmit, but past nominees are encouraged to resubmit.

Nominees will compete for one of seven regional awards based on their state of residency. The seven regional winners then compete for the national award.

The ESAP nomination application is readily available online at: hill.beef.org/esap, or please contact Stephanie Tinsley to request a copy of the application at stinsley@beef.org.

ANDY ANDREWS

TRADITIONAL AMERICAN FARMING TECHNIQUES, by Frank D. Gardner. The Lyons Press, 2002, 1088 pp., $29.95. ISBN 1-58574-412-3

I'll admit, TRADITIONAL AMERICAN FARMING TECHNIQUES is a big book. A lot of the older material came by way of the first edition of this book, published in 1916 by L.T. Myers as SUCCESSFUL FARMING. The first Lyons printing is 2001, but this has a "Foreword to the 2002 Edition," so I'm assuming that's where the editor leaves us.

And what a place to go!

No, I didn't read this cover to cover. I haven't read the Bible cover to cover either. But what's nice, you can go to any page in this farming book, almost randomly, and read about farming practices from what the author Gardner refers to as the "golden age of American agriculture," which began sometime after the start of World War I and lasted until shortly after World War II, when "industrial agriculture arrived," according to the Foreword written by James R. Babb, from Searsport, Maine.

The book "makes a popular appeal to all men engaged in farming," Gardner writes in his Preface. Gardner credits the "Pennsylvania State College" for helpful suggestions.

The contents range from soil classification and crop adaptation to lime and soil amendments. The book covers soil water, its functions and control, and general soil management methods. Farm crops are covered, including various grains (buckwheat, rice, flax, emmer, kaffir corn, and sunflower).

Meadow and pasture grasses, including the benefits of clovers, are detailed. Also, annual legumes, even peanuts are here.

TRADITIONAL AMERICAN FARMING TECHNIQUES covers everything grown under the sun, including cane sugar, cotton, tobacco, many vegetables and fruits, including pome and stone fruits, the farm woodlot, and others. Animal husbandry — livestock and dairy farming is also included here. There are lots of items on dairy farming.

This book looks at engines, motors, and tractors on the farm, farm sanitation, drainage and irrigation, cropping and feeding systems, and even marketing and cooperation! How about that, farm marketing in 1916! (And we thought direct marketing was a new concept.) Home economics and ag education are part and parcel to the book, too.

This book could be labeled "esoterica" or "nostalgic" by a few. I loved the "soil fertility barrel" and the information about how to prevent erosion. Page 101 has an interesting contraption that is a predecessor to the manure scrapers of today.

Back in 1915, it was interesting to note that Pennsylvania grew 1.5 million acres of corn (page 179). There were 914,118 acres of red clover grown in Pennsylvania in 1910 (page 250).

Page 647 noted that for a good dairy herd, "exercise is beneficial to the health of the cows." And back then, the "bull is half the herd."

Old implement lovers will adore the illustrations and photos of old farm tools.

And I especially enjoyed page 913, with markets, marketing, and cooperation, when the "Farm Bulletin Board" brought business. Putting out "good quality" in "an attractive form" rings as true today as in 1916.

This book belongs on a good farm historian's shelf.

National Farmers Union Members Adopt Policy Resolutions At Convention

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Resolutions outlining the direction of the National Farmers Union (NFU) were passed by member delegates at organization's 101st Anniversary Convention, Feb. 28-March 3, at the Coast Anaheim Hotel.

The delegates passed a special order of business urging the administration to undertake a plan of action to address the "social and economic crisis" in rural America. The resolution outlined numerous areas in which the administration failed to constructively address poor rural economic conditions, including the 2002 Farm Bill, natural disaster aid, agricultural trade negotiations, and the president's economic stimulus package.

"The National Farmers Union urges the president of the United States and the secretary of agriculture to make family farmers and ranchers and rural communities a priority in the development and implementation of federal policies," the resolution said.

A second resolution reinforced the organization's support of the country-of-origin food labeling law and insisted the USDA implement the new law in a "timely and farmer-friendly manner that is fully consistent with the intent of Congress." The resolution said USDA has been "slow" in implementing the proper regulations for voluntary and mandatory country-of-origin labeling.

The Farmers Union members passed another resolution supporting actions to restrict the importation of milk protein concentrate (MPC). According to NFU President Dave Frederickson, imported MPC has created a significant loophole in U.S. dairy trade policy and has distorted the U.S. milk market. NFU wants to prevent MPC from being used in standardized cheeses and seeks to make imported MPC and other dairy blends subject to tariff rate quotas.

Another resolution supported the establishment of a renewable fuels standard introduced by Senators Tom Daschle, D-S.D., and Richard Lugar, R-Ind. The members also supported the "Biofuels Energy Independence Act" recently introduced by U.S. Rep. Marcy Kaptur, D-Ohio. The resolution also supported reimbursement of the transportation trust fund for reductions from renewable fuels incentive programs.

The family farmers and ranchers also passed a special order of business to address international trade negotiations and the affects they have on state and local governments, farmers, and local businesses.

The general opinion of trade panelists at the convention was that trade negotiators place a low priority on agriculture. When negotiators do address agriculture, they concluded that they are more likely to represent the interests of the industry rather than individual producers.

U.S. trade negotiators need to represent farmers and ranchers, according to the panelists. They vowed to continue pressuring the Bush Administration and Congress to remind trade negotiators of whose interests they actually represent.

A group of political experts and agricultural leaders were asked to address the question: "What's next for farm policy?" Congressional control, trade talks, and subsidy support were three issues that emerged as determining the future of farm policy, according to the panelists.

The Farm policy panel included included Jim Wiesemeyer, vice president for farm and trade policy with Sparks Companies; Jerry Hagstrom, agriculture writer for National Journal's Congress Daily, DTN, and AgWeek; Jonathon Lehman, agricultural adviser for Sen. Tom Daschle, D-S.D.; and Paul Carver, legislative aide to U.S. Representative David Obey, D-Wis. The panel was moderated by NFU Vice President of Government Relations Tom Buis.

One farmer asked the panel what farmers should do to improve their economic status and get better farm policies. In response, Wiesemeyer said, "Look to energy such as biodiesel in domestic programs."

Hagstrom said, "Keep going to Washington and work with others."

Carver said, "Fight milk protein concentrates, trade threats from Australians and others, support supply management" and grazing initiatives.

Lehman said that it was important to "broaden the coalition" to include rural health, education, and other interests to work together for a better rural America.

Keynote speaker at the convention was Bill Gates Sr., who gave his formula for success: "Get up early, work hard all day, and have a stupendously successful son."

Gates' formula for estate taxes was reform, not repeal. He explained: "Repealing the estate tax on the largest estates would endanger family farms in the United States. Without an estate tax, giant corporate farms will simply get larger and larger at the expense of family farms. Rather than repealing the estate tax, we should reform and simplify the estate tax to enable family farmers to better survive the growing pressures from big agribusiness."

Three long-time supporters of Farmers Union were honored at the convention with Meritorius Service awards: Sen. Paul Wellstone, Minnesota, posthumously; former Sen. George McGovern, South Dakota; and former NFU president, Leland Swenson.

PLANNING FOR THE THREE D'S

Imagine that you are killed tomorrow in an accident. What would happen to your farm operation?

Your son announces that he is getting divorced. Are your assets at risk?

What provisions have been made for your son's wife and children?

You or your son is involved in a farm accident, leaving the injured person permanently disabled. Do you have contingency plans for income protection and long- term health care?

The three D's — or death, divorce, and disability — can create havoc on any farm operation and even force it out of existence.

All of these "what-if" scenarios are not issues most of us want to think about, much less discuss. But without planning, you may leave your farm vulnerable to irreversible damage.

If the family ends up in a bitter dispute, the only winners will be the lawyers who pocket the proceeds. Your plans should address "unlikely" as well as more predictable misfortunes that could occur.

Consider this scenario:

Father and son developed a 50/50 partnership that is working well. A will was put in place that provides for the surviving spouse in case of the other's death. Father dies and mom gets all of his assets. Does son need to buy out mom and his siblings? Can he afford to do so? With dad out of the picture, will the nonfarm siblings demand their share of the farm and pressure mom to sell to the highest bidder? Mom is overwhelmed and doesn't know what to do. How can a fair solution be devised for all concerned?

Or, you son's wife decides she can't stand farm life. The marriage ends in bitterness and divorce, with the daughter-in-law laying claim to the farm. To settle, part or even the entire farm may need to be sold, rendering it a nonviable economic situation. Does your contingency plan cover what would happen to the land, shares in the business, and the management of the business in the event of divorce? What if Dad gets a divorce and remarries? Remarriage, especially of the founder, can dramatically alter the dynamics of both the family and the business.

Some families decide to use prenuptial agreements to safeguard the business in the event of a marital split. Good records will tell you going into the marriage which assets were owned and which ones were acquired since the marriage. Your agreement should spell out how the partnership will be handled in the event of a divorce so that the business doesn't have to be dissolved.

Many people think of farm transfer planning as only planning for death. Either partner in the transfer could develop a disabling disease or condition that no longer allows them to function physically or mentally. In addition to being debilitating, disability can be extremely expensive and emotionally wearing.

Do you have a power of attorney for both your business and personal affairs? Does you family understand what full and limited power of attorney mean? Have you thought about living wills and conservatorship/ guardianship?

All of these issues need to be considered if you would like the business to outlive you.

To learn more about transfer planning, attend Pennsylvania Farm Link's upcoming Passing on the Farm Workshop at the York County extension office. For more information, contact us at (717) 664-7077.

'Maximizing Opportunities' Conference Set

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — The Professional Dairy Managers of Pennsylvania (PDMP) invite dairy businessmen and businesswomen to attend the PDMP Annual Meeting and Conference — Maximizing Opportunities — March 25-26 at the Holiday Inn, Grantville.

PDMP joins Penn State Dairy Alliance and Department of Dairy and Animal Science to offer this unique opportunity for dairy producers to participate in a conference planned by some of the most progressive dairy producers in the area. Sessions on dairy development, maximizing investments, and nutrient management will all feature tips from successful dairy producers.

Tom Thompson, owner of Stotz Dairies in Buckeye, Ariz., presents three times during the conference. Thompson's herd has grown from 539 cows in 1981 to the current size of 3,676 cows, which produce 28,900 pounds of 3.5 percent fat-corrected milk. He will share his business experiences in the Stotz dairy business, a systematized approach to dairy management. His presentation includes a visual tour.

Members of PDMP visited Stotz Dairy in February 2002, discovering that Thompson has a great team of empowered employees that contribute to the dairies' success. His second talk focuses on employee management: starting with a vision. Thompson will also demonstrate his data monitoring system. A key concept of this system is that when performance is measured, performance improves; but when performance is measured and reported back, the rate of improvement accelerates.

Tom Shephard, Agri-Edge, Inc, will address the opportunities for working together to grow and strengthen the Pennsylvania dairy industry. As dairies invest in technologies and expansions, are the processing plants committed to doing the same? How can Pennsylvania producers develop partnerships?

Jim Vincent, L-Brooke Farms, Inc., Byron, N.Y., owns several agricultural businesses, including a dairy and a vegetable farm and is an enterprising marketer. Learn how he creates businesses and develops partnerships.

Brad Hilty, Penn State Dairy Alliance, will discuss the importance of setting up information systems to provide producers with the information they need to evaluate the different segments of their businesses to operate more profitably.

Alyssa Dodd, Penn State Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology, specializes in agricultural environmental policy. She'll talk about the latest information on changing federal and state nutrient management rules.

Is it possible to make money with manure? Peter Wright, PRO-DAIRY, Cornell University, is a professional engineer and manure treatment specialist. He'll discuss progressive technologies for manure management and show producers how to implement a variety of practical systems that actually turn nutrient management into a profitable enterprise.

Pete Knigge, Knigge Farms, LLC, Omro, WI purchased robotic milkers two years ago. Find out why he made the decision, how it has changed his lifestyle and management practices, as well as his recommendations for ensuring profitability.

And finally, one of PA's own success stories will be shared by Kevin Holtzinger, Ke-Holtz Dairy, East Berlin. Holtzinger knows that profitability doesn't come easy. He'll share his story of climbing out of debt and learning to focus on basic business practices.

This promises to be a powerful program that incorporates leading edge, unbiased information about new practices and technologies, a heads up on environmental issues, and social time with others that are positive about dairying as a business.

Make plans now to join this unique opportunity for dairy producers and to learn and network together.

For a complete agenda, listing of sponsors and PDMP membership details, visit our Website HYPERLINK "http://www.pdmp.psu.edu" HYPERLINK "http://www.das.psu.edu/pdmp/" http://www.das.psu.edu/pdmp/ or call (888) 373-7232.

Farm Bill Payment Sign-Up

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Frank Reist, chairperson of the Lebanon County Farm Service Agency Committee, reminds farmers that the April 1 base selection deadline is almost upon us. Growers have until April 1 to make a base selection and provide the owner's agreement to participate in the Direct and Counter Cyclical Payment Program (DCP). Missing this critical date could cause you to lose valuable program benefits.

Sign-up activities require that many growers visit the office more than once, Reist suggests that growers contact the office for an appointment prior to their visit. Office staff can then prepare for the visit to greatly speed the process.

The different options afforded by the program cause enrollment to take longer then previous enrollment experiences. The required involvement of farm owners is a new twist, which can also take additional time. If a farm operator wishes to separate multi-ownership tracts into separate farms, another visit is required before the farms can be enrolled. Take care of your risk protection package now.

Pennsylvania's Farmers Encouraged To Participate In Census

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On Thursday, Agriculture Secretary Designee Dennis Wolff appealed to all Pennsylvania farmers, growers, and agribusinesses that have not completed their 2002 Ag Census to do so.

"According to the National Agricultural Statistics Service, 2002 Census of Agriculture rates are lagging behind previous censuses," said Wolff. "Every response counts and assists in building a complete picture of Pennsylvania agriculture."

Because of the low response rates, the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service, in conjunction with the USDA National Agricultural Statistics Service, are beginning to intensify their data collection efforts, which require more extensive methods such as telephone calls and personal visits.

In December 2002, more than 91,000 agriculture census forms were sent out across Pennsylvania.

Wolff noted that in order to develop an accurate picture of Pennsylvania agriculture, it is vital that all farmers and growers who have not already returned their census forms take the time to submit them. An accurate report of farm operations in Pennsylvania helps to formulate a complete, detailed picture of agriculture in Pennsylvania and the nation.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture wants farmers, ranchers, and agriculturalists from every sector of the industry to know how crucial it is that they complete and return their census forms. Not only does data gathered from the census provide information for local and state agricultural investment decisions, it also help local, state and national representatives and agencies make informed agricultural policy decisions.

In addition, the Census helps the U.S. compete for its share of the global agriculture marketplace. Information gathered ensures quick access to vital local statistics in the event of a natural disaster or possible homeland security threat.

The Census of Agriculture is the sole source of comprehensive, detailed agricultural facts for every county in the U.S., and is only conducted every five years.

By law, (Title 7, U.S. Code), data provided by individual farms is held in strictest confidence. No information will be disclosed about any individual operation.

For assistance in the completion of the census, a help line has been established at (888) 4AG-STAT.

To learn more about the 2002 Census of Agriculture, contact the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service at (717) 787-3904 or visit the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service homepage through the PA PowerPort at www.state.pa.us, PA Keyword "agriculture."

Custom Forage Harvesting Conference Set

WATSONTOWN (Northumberland Co.)— Penn State Extension in the Central Susquehanna Valley is sponsoring an educational program on custom forage harvesting for dairy producers, custom forage growers and harvesters, and dairy agribusinesses. The conference will take place Thursday, March 20, from 9:30 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Watson Inn, Watsontown.

The goal of the conference is to review custom forage harvesting from the perspectives of both dairy producer and custom harvester.

Speakers for the conference include Sandy Costello, Central Susquehanna Valley dairy agent, on the importance of forage quality to production and herd health; Greg Roth, extension corn specialist, on managing corn for silage production, and hybrid selection to feed bunk management; John Becker, professor of ag economics and law, on setting up forage contracts; Karl Nestor, Mycogen dairy technical specialist, on including quality factors in forage contracts; and Sarah Roth, extension associate in dairy farm business management, on the economics of custom forage harvesting decisions.

Registration for the conference is $10 per person, due March 14. Persons who would like more information or would like to register are asked to call the Northumberland County Extension Office at (570) 988-3950

Lancaster DHIA Announces Award Winners

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster DHIA technicians and board members met recently to exchange ideas and plan for the future of the organization.

President Steve Hershey presented years of service and outstanding service awards to the technicians.

Harold Probst was recognized for 45 years of service. Paul Martin and Dennis Shelly both received clocks for 25 years of service.

Other technicians who were recognized are Jim Lehman, 15 years; Ken Haverkamp, 10 years; and Alfred Weller, five years.

Twenty-three field technicians were honored for quality service, determined from an evaluation of the dairy producers they serve.

It's Time To Lime!

When spreading stockpiled lime, for example. The Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreader is likely the most powerful spreader of its kind on the market today. You see, we've been building them since 1945, and farmers are still using Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreaders they've had for 20, even 30 years. Our special drag chain is 4 times stronger than stainless steel, and handles frozen and heavy stockpiled lime with ease. Plus for spreading compost, composted sludge, poultry litter and certain fertilizers, the WLS is without equal for sheer volume spreading.

Cut your fertilizer bill by liberating nutrients tied up by acid soil.

Use Lime.

Lancaster County Weekly Cattle

New Holland, Pa.
Report Supplied By USDA
Friday, March 7, 2003

	CATTLE	CALVES
THIS WEEK	2680	1765
LAST WEEK	2670	2014
LAST YEAR	2382	1719

Compared to last week, slaughter steers sold 50-1 00 lower on the two early week runs, with prices trending a full 1 00-3 00 lower to close out the week Most producers and buyers have been keeping a close eye on the CME live cattle futures as we look ahead at the summer months And many held a small hope that the Board would adjust itself to the cash trade like it had done all winter Instead the Western feedyards moved their steers at mostly 77 00 this week, which is a full 2 00-3 00 lower, and in turn set the tone for the rest of the country. Needless to say, the next few months look very bearish as the April contract closed at 74 60 on Thursday, with the June and August contracts at the Merc settling from 66 80-69 67 respectively. Most producers in Lancaster County will be hitting the calculator pretty hard over the months to come, once again figuring breakevens instead of being able to bank on the 78 00-81 00 steer market they were beginning to become accustomed to However, it is also important to note the lower quality of the runs in the county this week. The bulk of the snow is melting off very rapidly as rains continue to fall. Therefore cattle are coming through the barns with a good amount of mud and fill on them, with buyers discounting accordingly The buyers trying to send the high Choice and Prime quality cattle to their Kosher kills had a tough time getting much of anything put together this week, as despite the mud and fill the finish wasn't there either Holstein steers sold weak to fully 1 00 lower Holstein demand is still there, it was just hard for the spotted stock to overcome the pressure being put off by the slaughter steers and heifers Slaughter heifers sold with a lower undertone on the mixed runs Slaughter cows opened up the week trending weaker, only to turn around on another outstanding late week run to trade a full 1 00-2 00 higher. Buyer attendance was key this week as usual, and when the cow cutout value was higher and the buyers were there, demand was excellent This week's reported supply included 38 percent steers, 6 percent heifers, 46 percent cows, 4 percent bulls, with the balance feeder cattle

SLAUGHTER STEERS High Choice and Prime 2-4 1245-1465 lbs 78.00-82.00, Yield Grade 4-5 74 75-75 75 Choice 2-3 1040-1500 lbs 73 00-78 25, full early in the week 72 75-74 25, Yield Grade 4 70 00-74 25, Yield Grade 5 65 50-70.25, high dressing Charolais and Limicrosses 75.75-78 75, heavyweights 1500-1585 lbs 70 00-74 00 Select and low Choice 2-3 1130-1490 lb 70.75-75.50, up to 76.75 on Monday, heavyweights 1500-1595 lbs 63 75-70 50 Select 1-2 1090-1485 lbs 69 25-74 00, up to 76 50 on Monday

Quick High Quality Forages

Fast Establishment - Very High Yields

For 3+ years of productivity, use Greenfast Forage Mix. Great for balage, managed grazing, and pasture renovation.

Designed for short term (3 years or so) forage fields, this mix is also excellent for renovating thin pastures and hay fields. Does not contain annual ryegrass which leaves empty spaces a year after seeding. The festuloliums produce the fast high yields. Niva, a late maturing orchardgrass, is added for summer performance. For short term fields, this mix will be hard to beat

28% Perun Festulolium
22% Niva Orchardgrass
14% Lofa Festulolium
14% Laura Meadow Fescue
11% Gariboldi Perennial Ryegrass
6% Cyclone Red Clover
5% Kopu II White Clover

PERUN

A 3-year Italian ryegrass type. In the 2000 Michigan State U. Trial, after 2 yrs of data (2001-02) Perun dry matter yield was 14.2 tons, the highest in the entire grass trial. Trial ave. 11.10 tons In the 2001 Cornell Univ. Trial, the 2002 yield was 6.85 tons of dry matter Trial average 5.29 tons (entered with ryegrasses). Great for short term rotations and pasture repair.

LOFA

A 5-year perennial ryegrass type. In the 2001 Michigan State Univ Trial, the 2002 dry matter yield was 6.99 tons - the highest in entire grass trial. Trial average 4.86 tons.

For the Fastest and Highest Yields

If the field is not in a crop and herbicide residues are not an issue, Jerry Forage Oats can be planted alone or in combination with Dundale Forage Peas. Expect an excellent crop in 60 days. After harvest follow with one of our BMR sorghum sudangrasses. Will be ready in about 40 days.

If the field is in Zorro or Green Spirit Italian Ryegrass make multiple cuttings harvesting at 20 inches. Continue cuttings until late May, then follow with one of our BMR sorghum sudangrasses. Don't forget to fertilize during green-up and after each cutting.

If the field is in a small grain or Instagold Annual Ryegrass harvest at boot stage and follow with Summer Queen BMR sorghum sudangrass. Annual ryegrass can be harvested prior to boot stage (20 inches or so) and cut a second time.

'Fat Tuesday' Marks Fastnacht Indulgence

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family
Features Editor

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — The sweet aroma of frying fastnachts wafted throughout many homes, bakeries, and restaurants on Tuesday.

Often dubbed "Fat Tuesday" or "Fastnacht Day" in southeastern Pennsylvania, the day refers to the tradition of using up all the household fat and sugar in preparation for the Lent season.

Traditionally many Christians observe Lent as a time of fasting and self denial. So 'Fat Tuesday' started as sort of their last fling of food indulgence before observing strict dietary constraints.

The dough feels "right" for rolling.

Although the religious connotations to the observance have mostly been discarded, the habit of enjoying the fried, doughy fastnachts continues to expand among both the religious and the not so religious.

Favorite family recipes vary from home to home. Some people have firm ideas of what a fastnacht should look and taste like, but the taste of those baked at Hitzes Farm Market this week are difficult to surpass.

Although both Bob and Ruth Hitz, owners of the Farm Market, grew up in families who made the annual fastnachts, they use a recipe received from a coworker of Bob's more than 30 years ago.

"I think it is more like those made in Berks County," Ruth said of the recipe which incorporates potatoes and the liquid in which potatoes are cooked. The raised dough is cut into doughnut shapes and fried in vegetable oil, dipped in glaze or covered with powdered or granulated sugar to suit each customer's taste.

Orders increase annually since they couple began to sell them at their market located along Route 72 between Manheim and Lebanon. This year they made 500 dozen. That is no easy feat for the couple with the help of two full-time and four part-time employees while they continue to fill a deli, plus bakery, lunch, and store orders.

The couple worked almost around the clock for two days to fill customer demand. Ruth mixed 12 batches of dough on Sunday afternoon. The dough raised overnight, and she began cutting doughnut shapes at 4 a.m. on Monday morning until 7 p.m. that evening. Tuesday began at 1:30 a..m and continued full tilt until closing time at 6 p.m.

Rolling out 500 dozen fastnachts is not a job for the unmotivated. Ruth wears wrist bracelets to protect her wrists from injury.

Frying fastnachts was a family tradition long before the couple opened their own Farm Market. They often made dozens to give to neighbors, family, and friends. The raves their fastnachts garnered easily influenced them to offer them to customers during the once a year Fastnacht celebration.

When the couple build their roadside stand 11 years ago, they did not foresee preparing lunches and therefore did not install a fryer in the kitchen area. Since then, lunches have become popular, and the place has several sit-down niches for customers to enjoy a hot lunch. The couple offers an extensive menu but none of the items are fried. Consequently, fastnacht frying requires some adaptation. Bob uses two French fryers placed on the outdoor porch. The weather was quite blustery to stand outdoors frying fastnachts for two days.

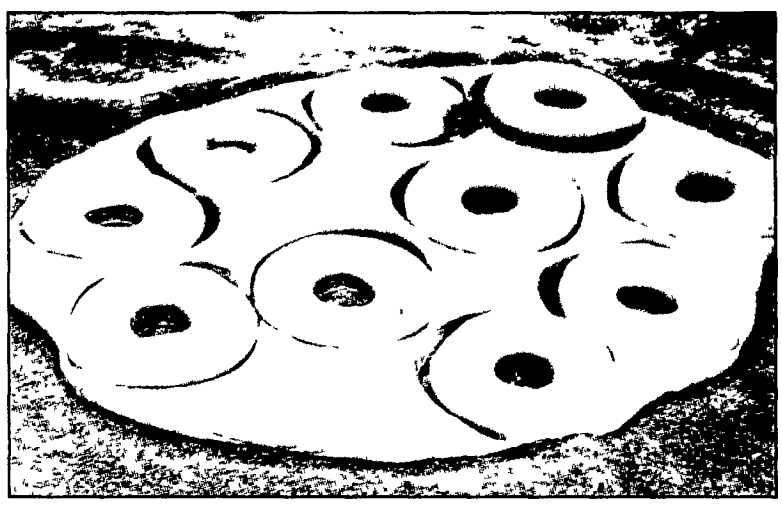
Bob suffered with leg cramps from standing outside frying for two days.

The sustained rolling and cutting of the dough also results in some bodily pain. Ruth wore wrist bracelets to protect her wrists.

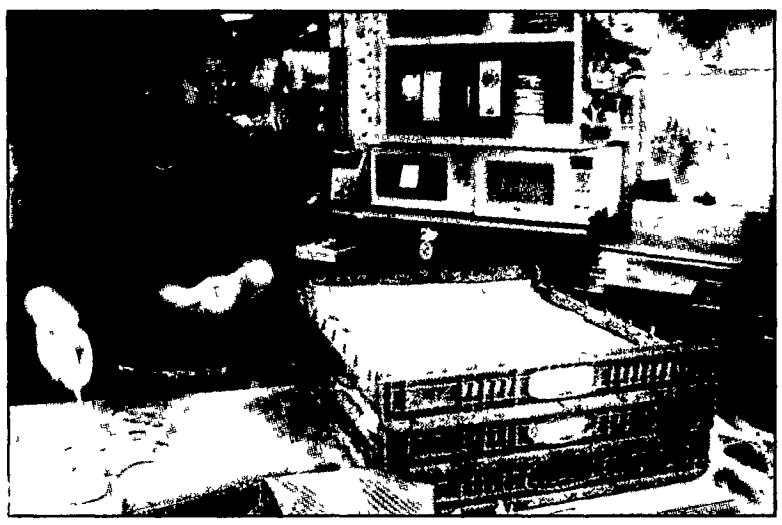
But the weariness the Hitzes feel is well worth the satisfaction that accompanies it, they say.

"Fastnacht Day kicks off the spring season. Business picks up at the roadside market after that. It reminds us that spring is coming," Ruth said.

See the related story on Hitz's Farm Market, 2684 Lebanon Rd., Manheim. For more information, call (717) 664-2922.



Some people believe that fastnachts should be square and without holes, others, such as the Hitzes, have always used the traditional doughnut shape.



After Ruth cuts the fastnachts she places them in trays that are stacked until the dough has doubled in size.

LOU ANN GOOD
Features Editor

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Bob and Ruth Hitz grew up in large farm families in the Annille area of Lebanon County. Bob was one of 13 children and Ruth one of 12. Such large families demanded a lot of cooking and both perfected their cooking skills at an early age, but neither expected that cooking and baking would become a lifetime career for them.

Although they grew up in the same locality, they did not meet until she was worked at the local bank and he at a chain supermarket. After the couple married, and had their first daughter, Rebecca. Ruth quit her banking job to be a stay at home mom. Another daughter Shelly was born the following year.

Because she was a bit bored, Ruth started baking bread and pies to earn a bit of extra cash. At the end of the lane where they lived, the Hitzes set up a roadside table using sawhorses for the base. Soon she was selling 200 loaves of bread weekly from early spring through the fall season. But sales dropped dramatically during the winter months.

"I'm a people person," Ruth said. She missed the camaraderie of coworkers. Like many young mothers she tried a variety of jobs to see what would best mesh with being a mom, wife, and career woman.

"Like every good mother, I worked in the school cafeteria," Ruth said. She also worked for Agway Insurance Company. She even helped her brother plant 1,000 trees in his orchard. When the trees started bearing fruit, he and his wife opened a fruit stand and made baked goods to help utilize the fruit.

Owners Bob and Ruth Hitz stand outside Hitz Farm Market. Their daughter Shelly designed the unique structure to incorporate the growing demands of the farm market. The Hitzes started selling pies, breads, and produce from a roadside table. A greenhouse and gardening center attached to the right of the structure covers almost the same amount of area as the store.

But the demands of the orchard and the roadside stand were too much work for one couple. Ruth took over the roadside stand, which was situated in a tent. She sold produce, baked goods, plants, and holiday crafts.

The venture was so successful that Bob quit his full time job to help out with all the lifting required at the stand.

"That was a bit scary, because the stand was only open six months out of the year," Ruth said.

But the couple found that they worked well together.

'We balance each other out. He is more visionary than I am," Ruth said.

The Hitzes decided that a farm stand structure would enable them to operate year-round. They found land along Route 72 be-

Sign Up To Grow For Market Nutrition Program

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Designee Dennis C. Wolff reminds Pennsylvania growers that sign-up for the Farmers Market Nutrition Program is underway.

"The Farmers Market Nutrition Program is a great partnership between those who grow Pennsylvania fruits and vegetables and those who need them," said Secretary Wolff. "This is a great direct marketing opportunity for Pennsylvania farmers. Since the introduction of this program, many farmers have launched or expanded their retail operations, providing additional income to their farm operation."

The Farmers Market Nutrition Program provides coupons to eligible recipients to purchase fresh fruits and vegetables from approved growers at one of Pennsylvania's farmers markets or roadside stands.Growers interested in participating in the 2003 program must own or lease farmland in Pennsylvania where they produce and sell over $1,000 of agricultural products. More than 50 percent of the retail value of the produce sold under the program must be grown in Pennsylvania.

Growers who participated in the 2002 program received notices from the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Food Distribution. For any other farmer interested in participating in the Farmers Market Nutrition Program, contact the Bureau of Food Distribution at (800) 468-2433. The program will begin on June 1, and continue until November 30.

The Farmers Market Nutrition Program provides coupons to eligible Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) recipients and qualified seniors to purchase fresh fruits and vegetables from over 625 approved vendors in Pennsylvania. In 2002, over $5 million in state and federal funds were available for the WIC and seniors programs. WIC mothers and children ages 2 to 5 can receive $20 in coupons. The Seniors Farmers Market Nutrition Program was launched in 1998 for older Pennsylvanians. In 2002, the Seniors Farmers Market Nutrition Program was offered statewide. Last year, qualifying seniors received $20 in coupons. More than 96,000 seniors redeemed over $2.2 million in coupons in 2002.

tween Manheim and Lebanon, where they erected a permanent building.

By this time, their two daughters were teenagers. Daughter Shelly designed the structure as a vo-tech drafting project.

Not only did she provide the blueprints for the family business but the venture brought acclaim from her instructors. Her project was so impressive that she was named student of the year for the entire school. Bob's brother served as the general contractor, and the family pitched in with insulating, painting, and more.

The building design incorporates a silo-like addition attached to the main barn-like building with a loft for selling crafts and collectibles.

Hitz Farm Market has evolved to an extent with the times.

"When we began, we thought fresh fruits and vegetables would make up the larger part of our inventory. Instead, it's a much smaller part. Customers are most interested in the deli items and baked goods," she said.

Although they planned for the deli, they did not intend to serve lunches to customers. But so many customers inquired about lunches that it seemed the logical step to take. Today the lunch time crowd makes up most of their business.

Deli items vary from day to day, but include at least 40 deli items made from scratch every day. Some of these are chicken pot pie, soups, meats, puddings, salads, and much more. They also can and market chow chow, apple butter, pickles, jams, jellies, and their own signature salad dressings.

Both Bob and Ruth are adept in the kitchen. They use a combination of old family recipes and new ones that employees and friends give them to try.

Both Bob and Ruth like to improvise in the kitchen.

"I hate to follow recipes. I like to experiment," Bob said.

His improvisions can easily be incorporated into the menu because the items vary from day to day. He does try to measure added ingredients so that he can duplicate recipes that are big hits with customers.

Ruth is also creative in baking. She came up with a chocolate roll filled with a peanut butter and cream cheese mixture — only one of the many unique desserts available.

"I don't like to make the same thing twice," she confesses. That's one of the reasons customers will find lots of variety at the deli counter. The two full-time employees and four part-time employees also spend a lot of time in the kitchen. One rolls most of the pie dough, but Bob makes most of the pie fillings.

Two student employees provide most of the customer service and bulk food bagging.

The kitchen is a bright, curved area placed inside the silo-shaped attachment to the store.

Since the Farm Market opened a garden center and a greenhouse were added, which almost doubles the space of the original store area. The greenhouse is used more to protect purchased plants from damaging weather than for growing. Bedding plants, geraniums, herbs, vegetables, hanging plants and planters are sold along with outdoor furniture and wooden rocking chairs. Bob also makes many of the bird houses sold.

Catering parties, banquets, and special events is another aspect of the business.

"I do catering as a hobby so I try to downplay that aspect of the business," Ruth said. "I don't push it because I don't want it to conflict with our daily duties."

Although the couple share kitchen duty, they also have individual responsibilities. Bob is responsible for maintenance, and Ruth for the bookkeeping, mostly completed at home.

Preparing all the food sold during holidays is a daunting task. Ruth keeps charts and records detailing the amount of pies sold and so forth so that they know about how much to prepare at the same time the following year.

"I write the lists, he's more of the manager," Ruth said.

The market is never open on Sunday nor on holidays.

"We were told by many that we'd never make it if we didn't stay open on Sunday," Ruth said. "But we believe if the Lord doesn't bless us in six days, he won't in seven."

It's been 11 years, and the Hitz family is pleased with the way business has prospered.

"We didn't realized how much our farm background prepared us for this," Bob said of tackling whatever jobs need to be done in operating a business.

"I was always taught that if you have a dream — go for it," Ruth said. Her dad Henry Heagy recently received a century farm award in Lebanon County.

One thing the Hitzes still have in common with their days on the farm: "We work from sunup to sundown," Ruth said.

On Being a Farm Wife

Joyce Bupp

Ice and snow.

More ice and snow.

Even more ice and snow. After two years of pleas for rain, so we are thankful; yes, remember, we are thankful for moisture levels improved by rain and snow. Now, having worked hard this winter battling the weather stuff, we are now all due a good laugh. So here's one for you.

Spring fashions are out. Know what looks to be popular this year? Miniskirts. And, among other things, apparently, garb with a "peasant" look.

Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!

Give us a break. As if it wasn't bad enough, spotting swimsuits at a local retailer while we were still shoveling off heavy, frozen residue of the great Presidents' Day blizzard. Then, to flip open an advertising flier last week and eyeball a salmon-orange peasant dress was the fashion equivalent of a really bad "groaner" joke.

Just for information's sake, I grabbed a paperback copy of the "Collegiate Dictionary" from the shelf and paged to "peasant." The first description was "countryman."

Well, guess what. We're about as "countryman" as you get.

And ... we don't wear peasant dresses. Nor do we wear miniskirts. We'd catch our death of pneumonia from the draft in this old house with its built-in fresh air flow.

For all those fashion folks out there in designerland, let me brief you on what we "peasants" do wear: as much as possible, in this fading (hopefully) Siberian winter with its Mt. Washington levels of snowfall.

What is stylish around "countryman" land right now are insulated coveralls. Found in classic shades of denim blue, outback brown, or hunter-glow orange. Thermal, hooded sweatshirts and vests are also popular choices, with colors ranging from black to navy to shades of gray. Once layered with coats of manure, machine oil and liberal flecks of total mixed ration feed, color is irrelevant, anyway.

Of course, the above must be accessorized by heavy work gloves, again in varying shades. Most popular at this particular "peasant" establishment are those thick, fuzzy gold-colored work gloves. If you can tell the color under the stains of shop grease.

My personal favorite hand gear is a pair of thick, fuzzy, pink gloves, perfect for after-dark dog walking in subfreezing temperatures. For more mundane daily chores, like heifer feeding and moving hay bales, heavy cotton ones are more practical and dry faster after getting damp.

A hat, of course, is mandatory. Some of us go for the wooly, ski-type hats we can pull down over our heads and ears until only our eyes are visible. More rugged types sport winter-weight "farmer" caps, though how they can stand to have their ears exposed to the weather wearing those is beyond me.

Not all of us go for coveralls because of their bulkiness. Some of us just go for layers of vests piled over sweatshirts piled over sweaters piled over thermals. Which is why it takes 10 minutes to dress to go out to do barn chores.

And 10 minutes to peel off the layers after we're finished and hang them up to dry. And 10 more minutes to sweep up all the hay dirt and straw bits and sawdust that fell out of all the pockets during the layer peeling.

We long ago decided that "fashion" is just another name for spending money. And, what's "in" and what's "out" in fashion can change as quickly as the March weather. Which is why we "peasant" types around here stick with rugged, practical gear.

And, whenever possible, purchased at our favorite sales establishments:

4-H Awareness Week To Celebrate 4-H Programs

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — Across Pennsylvania, 4-H will celebrate Pennsylvania 4-H Awareness Week 2003, Sunday, March 16 through Saturday, March 22. Pennsylvania 4-H Awareness Week, celebrated annually, provides recognition to the 125,000 youth involved in Pennsylvania 4-H programs.

4-H gives youth age 8-18 the opportunity to explore new things ... from rocketry, community leadership, livestock, horticulture, sewing, horsemanship, computer, and internet programs. There are more than 150 projects available to choose from, researched based and developed to respond to youth and community educational needs.

4-H America's movement equipped for the future by a century of service. In 2002, the 4-H movement celebrated its centennial as America's premier youth development organization. Reflecting in its historic vision, 4-H hopes to commemorate this centennial initiative through conversations that brought together our nation's youth, youth leaders, and communities.

In Chester County, the week will include the Chester County 4-H Community Flower Show coordinated by Penn State Cooperative Extension and The Chester County Master Gardeners. The theme for the 4-H Community Flower show is "New Directions and New Beginnings." The flower show exhibits can be viewed in the Chester County Government Services Center in the lobby and on the third floor during Pennsylvania Awareness week. Also, throughout the county, different locations will exhibit our window display contest.

For more information on the Chester County 4-H program or to volunteer call the extension office at (610) 696-3500.

Child Care Directors Workshop

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — "Hot Topics for Center Directors" is the title of the workshop being presented by Penn State Cooperative Extension. All directors and supervisors can participate in the workshop from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Thursday, March 20, at the Berks County Agricultural Center, 1238 County Welfare Road, in Leesport.

Sue Giachero, Penn State Cooperative Extension family living agent in Berks County, says "This workshop will provide vaiuable information on recruiting and training new staff and on selecting training for all center staff."

Participants can receive two Department of Public Welfare training credits for participating in the workshop. Continuing Education Credits (CEUs) are also available.

For more information on the program, support materials, and other services from "Better Kid Care Program," call Sue Giachero at (610) 378-1327. Visit the Better Kid Care Website at www.betterkidcare.psu.edu.

40 Degrees, Please

A refrigerator is one of the most important pieces of equipment in the kitchen for keeping food safe. Temperatures below 40 degrees slow bacterial growth. When food is left at room temperature for more than two hours bacteria have a chance to grow to levels that could make you sick.

There are two basic families of bacteria; pathogenic bacteria, which causes foodborne illness, and spoilage bacteria, which causes food to spoil. Pathogenic bacteria develop rapidly in the Temperature Danger Zone (from 40 to 140-degrees) but generally do not alter the taste, smell, and appearance of food. You cannot tell if pathogenic bacteria are on food. Spoilage bacteria can grow in your refrigerator. They cause food to develop a bad taste, smell bad and spoil.

Your refrigerator will protect most foods from pathogenic bacterial growth. It is important to keep potentially hazardous foods such as raw meats, dairy products, eggs, and prepared foods cold; at 40 degrees or below.

Do you know the temperature of your refrigerator? A study of home refrigerators found that more than 46 percent of the home refrigerators were too warm to store food safely. Since most home refrigerators do not have built in thermometers, you need an appliance thermometer to verify the temperature.

Appliance thermometers are specially designed to measure the temperature of the air either in the refrigerator or in the freezer. Most are made to hang from a wire rack or sit on a shelf. Some have suction cups that attach to the side of the unit.

To measure the temperature in the refrigerator: Put the thermometer in the middle of the refrigerator and wait 5-8 hours. If the temperature is not 40F. or slightly below, adjust the temperature control. Most refrigerators can be easily adjusted to run colder or warmer. Check again after 5-8 hours.

Keep the thermometer in the refrigerator at all times. This is especially important if a power outage occurs. If the refrigerator is still 40 degrees when the power comes back on, the food is safe.

The Top Four Cool Rules: In addition to monitoring the temperature USDA recommends following these foodhandling practices to help keep refrigerated food safe.

The Chill Factor — Refrigerate or freeze perishables, prepared foods and leftovers within two hours of purchase or preparation, or within one hour if the temperature is above 90F. Marinate foods in the refrigerator.

The Thaw Law — Never defrost at room temperature. Thaw food in the refrigerator. For quick thawing, place food in airtight plastic packaging and submerge in cold running water, or thaw food in the microwave if you will be cooking it immediately.

Food can also be cooked without defrosting it first. Make sure food reaches its safe internal temperature.

Divide and Conquer — Separate large quantities of warm food into small, shallow containers for quick cooling in the refrigerator. Cover after the food has cooled to 40F to prevent cross contamination.

Avoid the Pack Attack — Don't overstuff the refrigerator. Cool air must circulate to keep food safe. Be sure that the refrigerator door is only opened when necessary, then close as soon as possible.

For safety and quality, eat any refrigerated leftovers within one or two days. Keep in mind, you can't see, smell or taste the pathogenic bacteria that can make you sick. If there is a question about the safety of food, remember — When in doubt, throw it out!

Country Quilters Show Is March 21-22

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — Homemakers Country Quilters will hold a quilt show March 21-22 from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. at the Montgomery County 4-H Center, Route 113, Creamery, 1 mile south of Skippack Pike, (Rt. 73).

All quilts on display have been made by the club members and have never been shown at any previous shows.

Door prizes and chances on the pictured raffle quilt made by the club will be available. There will be a Merchant Mall and a Recycle Room. Hourly demonstrations, a boutique, and lunch also are available. Proceeds benefit Ronald McDonald House and the Montgomery County 4-H Center. Donation $4.

The "Stream Map of Pennsylvania" was completed in 1965 after a 30 year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible a map that shows every stream and lake He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 by 5 foot map

The map sold extremely well - until it was lost several years later Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to the landfill

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key

The experts had always told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue

Then in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true Computers made it possible to reprint the map Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day "

Then, by combining Professor Higbee's knowledge with computer technology -- the STREAM MAP OF OHIO was created

MAPLE PEANUT DELIGHTS

1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
½ cup butter, softened
6 cups confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon maple flavoring
2 pounds dark chocolate candy coating
1 cup chopped peanuts

In a mixing bowl, beat cream cheese, butter, confectioners' sugar and flavoring until smooth. Cover and refrigerate for 1 hour. Shape into 1-inch balls. In a heavy saucepan (or microwave), melt candy coating, sprinkle with peanuts. Place on waxed paper-lined baking sheets. Refrigerate. Yields about 8 dozen.

TOASTED ALMOND CARAMELS

1 teaspoon plus ¼ cup butter, divided
2 cups sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup whipping cream
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup chopped almonds, toasted

Line an 8-inch square pan with foil and butter foil with 1 teaspoon butter; set aside. In a heavy saucepan, combine sugar, corn syrup, salt, and remaining butter. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Reduce heat to medium-low; boil gently without stirring for 4 minutes.

Remove from the heat; slowly stir in cream. Return to the heat; cook, without stirring, over medium-low heat until a candy thermometer reads 245° (firm-ball stage). Remove from the heat; stir in vanilla and almonds. Pour into prepared pan (do not scrape sides of saucepan). Cool completely.

Cut into squares. Wrap individually in way paper or foil; twist ends. Yields about 4 dozen.

FRUIT CAKE

1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon mace
1 cup figs, chopped
1 cup dates, chopped
1½ cup raisins
1 cup orange peel, chopped
½ cup maraschino cherries, chopped
1 cup chopped nuts
½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
3 eggs, unbeaten
½ cup maraschino cherry juice

Sift together flour, baking powder, and spices and mix with fruit and nuts. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Add eggs, singly, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add mixed dry ingredients and fruits alternately with liquid. Pour batter into an 8×5×3-inch loaf pan, which has been lined with oiled brown paper, or wax paper. Bake in a low oven (250°) about 2½ hours.

PECAN CAKE ROLL

4 eggs, separated
1 cup confectioner's sugar
2 cups ground pecans
1 cup whipping cream
3 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons cocoa
½ teaspoon vanilla
Chocolate shavings and additional confectioner's sugar, optional

In a mixing bowl, beat egg yolks and confectioner's sugar until thick, about five minutes. In another bowl, beat whites until soft peaks form; fold into yolk mixture. Fold in pecans until well blended (batter will be thin). Grease a 15×10×1-inch baking pan; line with waxed paper and grease and flour paper. Spread batter into pan. Bake at 375° for 10-15 minutes or until cake springs back when lightly touched. Turn onto a linen towel dusted with confectioner's sugar. Peel off paper and roll cake up in towel, starting with short end. Cool on wire rack 1 hour. Meanwhile, beat the cream, sugar, cocoa and vanilla in a mixing bowl until soft peaks form. Carefully unroll cake. Spread filling over cake; roll up again. Refrigerate. If desired, garnish with chocolate shavings and confectioner's sugar. Makes 10-12 servings. Note: This cake does not contain flour.

CANADIAN RUM CAKE

1 pound chopped, pitted dates
1 pound chopped walnuts
¾ cup butter
1½ cups firmly packed light brown sugar
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup boiling water
3 eggs, well beaten
2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons rum

Cream butter and sugar until well blended. Add dates and nuts. Mix soda with water and pour over first mixture. Add eggs. Stir in flour and salt, beating until smooth. Add rum and blend well. Turn into greased 13×9×2-inch baking pan. Bake in preheated 300° over for 1½ hours.

Optional rum glaze:

Mix ¼ cup confectioner's sugar with 2 teaspoons milk and 1 tablespoon rum. Spread on warm cake.

MACADAMIA NUT FUDGE

8 tablespoons unsalted butter, cut up
1 cup semisweet chocolate chips (6 ounces)
1 cup macadamia nuts, coarsely chopped
1 ounce unsweetened chocolate, finely chopped
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2¼ cup sugar
1 5-ounce can evaporated milk
12 large marshmallows

Butter an 8-inch square baking pan. Line the bottom of the pan with foil. In a large bowl, combine the butter, chocolate chips, macadamia nuts, unsweetened chocolate, and vanilla. Attach a candy thermometer to a medium saucepan. Add the sugar, evaporated milk, and marshmallows. Bring to a boil, over medium heat, stirring constantly to prevent burning. Cook stirring constantly until mixture reaches 238°. Pour the hot mixture into the bowl and let stand for 30 minutes. Stir until the mixture begins to thicken, about 1 minute. Spread evenly in the prepared pan. Let stand until completely cooled. Cover with foil and let stand over night to allow the flavors to mellow. Invert the fudge and remove the foil. Reinvert and cut into squares. Store the fudge at room temperature in an airtight container. Makes about 2 pounds.

EARTHQUAKE CAKE

1 cup chopped pecans
1 cup flaked coconut
1 chocolate cake mix
3-3½ cup sugar
½ cup margarine
8 ounces cream cheese

Grease and flour 9×13-inch pan. Sprinkle in bottom of pan, pecans and coconut. Cream sugar, margarine, and cream cheese. Set aside. Mix chocolate cake mix as directed and pour over coconut. Spoon cream cheese mixture over top of cake and bake at 350° for 45-60 minutes. Don't use too large a cake if using own recipe or it may run over.

QUICK ENGLISH TOFFEE

½ cup chopped pecans
½ cup butter
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces

Sprinkle nuts in buttered 9-inch pie plate. Melt butter in heavy 1½ quart saucepan; add sugar. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly to 290° on candy thermometer (hard crack stage). Pour toffee over nuts. Sprinkle with chocolate pieces; when melted, spread with a spatula. Cool. Refrigerate to set chocolate. Break into pieces. Wrap and store in refrigerator.

The truth about nuts is finally out of its shell. Despite the fact that adding nuts to a diet low in saturated fat and cholesterol can help lower levels of LDL cholesterol (or "bad" cholesterol), when substituted for foods high in saturated fat, a recent survey by Roper Starch revealed that 61 percent of Americans think that nuts are high in cholesterol.

In the past decade, people have avoided fat in foods in pursuit of weight loss, better nutrition and healthier living. The problem with this is that there are foods, such as nuts, which contain fat that can be a positive addition to a healthy diet and beneficial to the body.

Findings of several studies reveal that adding nuts to a diet low in saturated fat and cholesterol can help lower levels of LDL (bad) cholesterol when substituted for foods high in saturated fat. The results of these studies have also linked diets high in monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fats, such as the fat in nuts, with maintaining "good" cholesterol (also known as HDL cholesterol).

Much of the fat found in nuts including peanuts, almonds, walnuts, cashews and hazelnuts, macadamias, and pecans is monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fat. With their unique combination of fats, carbohydrates and proteins, along with a wide variety of vitamins and minerals, nuts can fit perfectly into a healthy eating plan that is high in the good fats and low in saturated fats and cholesterol while being calorie-balanced for weight maintenance.

The good news about nuts is especially important for today's increasingly busy families. Many families are eating meals on the go and fitting in quick snacks between activities. Nuts offer a nutrient-dense, convenient snack alternative.

PAN ROASTED CHICKEN BREASTS STUFFED WITH SMASHED ALMONDS, MASCARPONE, AND LEMON

½ cup of roasted almonds with coriander, chili and olive oil (see recipe)
6 large heaped tablespoons of mascarpone cheese
Zest and juice of 1 lemon
4 large boneless chicken breasts (free range, skin on) ¾ cup chicken stock olive oil
sea salt
ground black pepper
2 bulbs of fennel
1 pound fresh spinach
olive oil
salt and pepper

Blend the roasted almonds in a food processor or in a pestle and mortar until roughly smashed. Then mix 4 tablespoons of the mascarpone, roasted almonds, lemon zest and juice. Blend and season.

Working from one side of the chicken breast slip your fingers in between the skin and the flesh, being careful not to completely remove the skin. Push one good spoonful of the almond-mascarpone paste in the gap of each breast then press the skin firmly back, saving any leftover paste.

Take a hot non-stick pan, drizzle it with a little olive oil and place the breasts skin side down. After a minute, when lightly golden, turn to seal the other side. (If you don't have a pan with a metal handle, transfer to a roasting tray at this point.) Place in the pre-heated 425°F oven for around 10 minutes until cooked.

Meanwhile cut the fennel in half lengthwise, then into thin slices. Throw into a medium hot pan with a little olive oil and seasoning, stir in a couple of tablespoons of water. Cover and leave to cook slowly — about 5 to 10 minutes.

When the chicken is cooked, remove to a warm plate and rest for 5 minutes whilst you move the pan or tray back on the heat and add the stock; allow to cook down to almost nothing, not forgetting to scrape the pan bottom for all its goodness. Finish the sauce by stirring in the rest of the mascarpone and any remaining paste; keep on the heat so it continues to simmer until it coats the back of a spoon. Season to taste. By this point the fennel should be just cooked. Season and chuck in the spinach, leave to wilt down. Serve the chicken with the fennel and spinach, drizzle the sauce over and around the chicken.

Pennsylvania Nut Growers Elect First Woman President

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

ALUM BANK (Bedford Co.) — Joan Albright has been named the first woman president of the Pennsylvania Nut Growers Association.

Strongly supported in her endeavor by her husband Howard, the Albrights own a 250-acre farm in Waynesboro where they are developing their own nut orchard.

"It's a family tradition," Joan explains. "Howard's granddad developed the Cortland apple, and we want to see what we can develop with nuts."

Joan's primary objective is to advocate the health benefits of nuts. "Nuts are loaded with omega acid," she said. "They are good estrogen replacements and excellent for the heart. Hazelnuts and filberts are also good memory enhancers and some nuts can be used for pain management."

In order to help people get control of their health, Joan said that a Nutgrowers Cookbook will soon be on the market.

Joan's research into the nut industry began when Howard got sick and she began doing research. They credit homeopathic medicine for Howard's recovery and nuts in the diet played a big role.

"We have asked the Lord to help us in our endeavors to help others," Joan says.

The Albights have 7,500 northern English walnut seeds planted on their Waynesboro property as well as 15,000 hazelnut trees and 1,000 black walnut trees.

"With grafting, one can grown almost any kind of nut tree in Pennsylvania," Joan says. "Macadamia would, of course, be impossible. However, we do plan to try India and Brazil nuts."

Her plans for promoting nuts include working with the federal government to move nuts worldwide. At the elementary level, she plans to work with the schools and 4-H clubs to introduce young people to the importance of growing nuts.

She is also looking for sponsorships to get ideas out to larger companies.

Until now, the state nutgrowers met twice a year. Joan plans to divide the state into regions and hold regional meetings. With the help of Jill Bailey of Bedford, she has developed a nutgrowers website, PNGA.net.

Joan will also be publishing a nutgrower's newsletter.

As for their own nut orchard, Joan, who holds a doctorate in English, says it is important to look at something beautiful every day. The Albrights consider their orchard to be one of the most beautiful sites they can behold.

During the winter months, they reside on the Pleasantville Mountain, and despite this winter's ice and snow, find it has its own form of beauty.

Joan credits Bedford County residents Gere and Kathryn Groft, George Dikum, and Art Pepe with the development of nut growers locally.

The Pennsylvania Nut Growers Association is a nonprofit organization, which welcomes new members.

For more information, Dr. Albright can be contacted at P.O. Box 102, Alum Bank, Pa. 15521; at (814) 839-2767 or at albright@bedford.net.

Joan and Howard Albright advocate the health benefits of nuts. A nutgrowers cookbook, which will soon be marketed by the state organization, is planned to help people gain better control over their health. On the Albrights' 250-acre farm, the Albrights raise the following nut tree varieties, 7,500 northern English walnuts, 15,000 hazelnut, and 1,000 black walnut.

Popular Beef Ad Campaign To Be Featured Again

DENVER, Colo. — Beef print and television advertising will be showcased again in March on major networks and in leading consumer magazines.

The checkoff-funded advertising campaign focuses on the enjoyment consumers find in beef.

The $13.4 million campaign aims its messages to consumers aged 25-54. On television and radio, the ads capitalize on the well-recognized voice of Sam Elliott and the "Rodeo" music by Aaron Copland. All ads feature the "Beef. 't's What's For Dinner" theme.

The goal of the campaign is to fuel consumer passion for beef and encourage consumption of more beef meals. It is coordinated for the Cattlemen's Beef Board and state beef councils by the National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA).

In January, the television ads were rated number four nationally on the AdCritic.com Web site. The television spots feature beef both in home and restaurant settings.

The next three-week television flight begins the week of March 10 and runs through the week of March 24. Prime-time network television will carry the ads. Cable stations also will feature the advertising, as will syndicated programs.

While television advertising creates anticipation for enjoying beef, print ads motivate consumers to eat beef more often, concentrating on the visual appeal of beef with mouth-watering beef photography. Consumers seeing any of the ads are referred to a new Web site, www.beefitswhatsfordinner.com, for beef recipes and information.

Consumers have especially embraced the new humorous magazine ads. "I found myself laughing out loud at your Space Aliens ad in this week's Sports Illustrated," wrote one. "I went to your website and quickly found a recipe for Asian Beef Salad that looks wonderful I plan to try it this weekend."

The ad features luscious-looking beef t-bone steaks, with the caption "Why Space Aliens Steal our Cows."

Magazine ads are appearing in publications such as Sports Illustrated, Better Homes and Gardens, Family Circle, People, TV Guide, Bon Appetit, Parenting and others.

Some state beef councils are utilizing the "Space Alien" material for billboard advertising. In addition, many state councils are placing nationally-produced radio spots on stations in their areas.

ONCE IN A LIFETIME OPPORTUNITY
1950's STYLE CAFE AND GARAGE

Unique cafe, garage, and home all in one. Cafe and garage is a newly constructed 3200 sq. ft. building built in 2001. The building is designed in the 50's style. Garage has a car lift and a wash/recon bay. Cafe has indoor seating for 41 and outside area for picnic tables. Cafe offers a full service menu with takeouts.

Included is a 2 story, 4 bedroom home and a recently renovated barn. House has a new well, roof, septic system and electric service. The property is fenced with a new hi-tensil, electric fence.

This established turnkey operation is located on 8 1/2 acres with over 1000 feet of creek frontage in a peaceful setting in beautiful Juniata County, Pa. The business would be ideal as a family operation. This is a great opportunity to live where you work. Alternately, the business could be operated and the house rented out for income. Has a lot of potential for growth such as a bed and breakfast and/or a campground by the creek. If you ever dreamed of owning your own business, don't miss this opportunity.

Owner is relocating. Will sacrifice all for $410,000. Phone 717•463-9900 Tues. thru Sun. 8am to 8pm for an appointment to see this mini-estate. Ask for Connie.

Do You Suffer From Fibromyalgia?

When I was introduced to New Image I was 50 pounds over weight and suffered from fibromyalgia. I was so depressed and in pain the majority of the time. I was taking steroids and four other medications, one of which made me so 'groggy' I could hardly get out of bed and another gave me ulcers. I began taking New Image secretly because I thought my family would make fun of me. After a month, I discovered I had lost eight pounds and seven inches. Wow! Then it dawned on me, I was feeling better, the depression and pain were gone. In two months I was off all medications. "I feel SUPERIFIC!" Now, two years later I have lost 43 pounds and 30 inches. Thank you New Image for giving me a new life again. Judy Swift - Mt. Washington, KY

QUESTION — Eileen Schuler, Fleetwood, asks where chocolate confectioners' sugar can be found. The ingredient was listed in the prize-winning recipe for the Greatest Cocoa Cake contest at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. Several other readers also inquired about this. We asked the person who baked the prize winning cake. She said it can be purchased at Weis Markets in the Adams County area. However, several people who looked for it in other areas, said that Weis did not carry chocolate confectioners sugar. No problem, according to the champion, Krista Cunningham. She said, "Make your own." She adds about ½ cup baking cocoa powder to a pound of regular confectioners' sugar or more to taste. If any of our readers know where chocolate confectioners' sugar can be purchased, let us know.

QUESTION — Helen Ross, Coatesville, wants the recipe for the starter to make Amish friendship bread. She has the recipe for the bread.

QUESTION — Richard Deckner, Quakertown, wants a recipe for a dropped Welsh cookie.

QUESTION — Joyce Shoemaker wants a recipe to make old-fashioned caramel custard. She remembers the butter and sugar is caramelized until it is hard like taffy. Milk is poured in to dissolve the caramelized sugar. Then the custard is boiled with some other ingredients until thickened.

QUESTION — Doris Myers, Hughesville, writes that her mother, who is 88 years old, lost her mother at a young age. She remembers her mother baking bread and reserving some of the liquid to bake a chocolate cake. Doris would like to surprise her mother by baking a cake like that if someone can send in the recipe. The cake was baked the same day as the bread.

QUESTION — Lynne, Numidia, wants a recipe for pickled mustard eggs that tastes like those sold at the state Farm Show.

QUESTION — Bob Peterson, Hubbardsville, N.Y., wants a recipe for Spanish Bar Cake.

QUESTION — T.C. Wills, Frederick, writes that her mother made a cheese pineapple pocket during the Easter season. The dough was neither like a pie crust nor a pastry dough. It was sort of a solid dough. Wills has tried to duplicate the filling and the dough but cannot. She thinks it may be a Polish dessert, and would appreciate a recipe.

QUESTION — A. Shull writes that she tried two different recipes to make pull taffy recently and was unsuccessful. One batch, before it was cool enough to start pulling became extremely brittle. She though perhaps she overcooked it and tried a second batch, which turned white and chalky as it cooled. Does anyone have ideas and tips for making taffy that can actually be pulled? Or can they tell her what she did wrong?

QUESTION — Michael Brennan, Wilkes-Barre, is looking for a good recipe for Manhattan clam chowder.

QUESTION — Albert Condon, New Windsor, Md., writes that he is a bachelor who would like a recipe that he remembers his mother baking. The old-time fashioned ginger cookie cakes, which were about ¾ inches deep and 3-4 inches in diameter, were soft and did not taste like the small hard old-fashioned ginger cakes that are sold in a box. She used Brer Rabbit or Grandma's molasses, and the cakes were dark in color. Any one have a good recipe that fits these qualities for Albert?

QUESTION — Albert Condon is a vegetarian who uses eggs. He would like vegetarian recipes, the titles of recommended vegetarian cookbooks and of Amish or Mennonite cookbooks and how to purchase them.

QUESTION — R. Diehl, Bloomsburg, wants a recipe for hamburg pin wheel with gravy.

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerer, Wysox, wants to know if sesame seeds can be sprouted. She is familiar with alfalfa seed sprouting.

QUESTION — Ralph Kieffer, Halifax, wants a recipe for Aunt Flossie's tomato soup, which he heard is printed in a Lancaster County cookbook.

QUESTION — Mrs. Esh requests recipes to make cookie bars such as oatmeal raisin that tastes like those made by Kitchen Kettle, Intercourse.

QUESTION — A reader wants low-fat recipes and diabetic recipes that other readers have tried and liked.

ANSWER — Debbie Mullinix, Woodbine, Md., requested a good recipe to make peanut butter frosting. Thanks to Miriam Stoltzfus, Lititz, for sending this recipe.

Peanut Butter Frosting

4-ounces cream cheese
¼ cup creamy peanut butter
2 cups confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Beat cream cheese and peanut butter until smooth. Add sugar, milk, and vanilla. Beat until smooth.

ANSWER — Holly Esbach, Dover, wanted to know where to buy chocolate wafers in bulk in her area. Thanks to Sally Kaltreider, Glenville, who writes the wafers are available from the Country Market, 1430 Fleshman Mill Rd., New Oxford, PA 17350. The wafers are sold in 10 pound lots as well as in smaller amounts. For more information, call the store at (717) 624-7180. Belinda Myers, Dallastown, said candy coating or wafers may be found at local Surefine Markets such as Spry in York.

ANSWER Holly Eshbach, Dover, wanted recipes for homemade ice cream cakes that are made in springform pans. She also wants the recipe for the icing spread on ice cream cakes that tastes like those sold by Carvel's and Dairy Queen. Thanks to Belinda Myers, Dallastown, for sending the following information for the icing. Buttercreme icing, a non-dairy whipped topping, is used on ice cream cakes. Some grocery stores sell it already whipped, but you can buy the non-whipped version by the gallon from Campbells' Cake and Candy Supply, 305 S. Richland Ave., York. Phone (717) 848-6141. Divide the mixture, which freezes well. When ready to use, whip it with a wire whip attachment until spreading consistency. Buttercreme also comes in a chocolate flavor or you can flavor it yourself.

ANSWER — Twila Martin, Waynesboro, requested recipes for tortillas in many different forms that can be served for breakfast, lunch, and dinner. Thanks to Anna Martin, Denver, for sending this one. Also check out the recipes for enchiladas, which use tortillas, and are printed in the subsequent answer.

Turkey Tortillas

10-inch spinach (green) flour tortilla
1-2 tablespoons mayonnaise
3 ounces thinly sliced cooked turkey
3 ounces thinly sliced cheese
2 tablespoons shredded carrot

Spread mayonnaise on tortilla. Layer turkey, cheese, and carrot on top of tortilla and roll up.

ANSWER — Thanks to Lois Martin, Shippensburg; Jane Shirk, Akron, and others for sending recipes for enchiladas requested by a New Holland reader.

Chicken Enchiladas

Cooking oil
12 6-inch corn tortillas
2 cups chopped cooked chicken
2 4-ounce cans diced green chili peppers
⅓ cup chopped red or green onion
1 cup salsa
8-ounce carton dairy sour cream
2 cups shredded Monterey Jack cheese

Heat 2 tablespoons cooking oil in a medium skillet. Holding a tortilla with tongs, dip each in hot oil 5-10 seconds until limp, drain on paper towels. Repeat with remaining tortillas. Add more oil if necessary. Combine chicken, chilies, onion, and salsa. Spoon about ¼ cup chicken mixture over each tortilla. Roll up. Place tortilla rolls seam side down in a 13x9x2-inch baking dish. Bake covered in a 350-degree oven 20-25 minutes, uncovered. Spread sour cream on top. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake 5 minutes longer or until cheese melts. Serves 6.

Cheesy Enchiladas

Meat filling:
2 pounds ground beef
1 medium onion, chopped
8-ounces tomato sauce
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon cumin
⅛ teaspoon red pepper
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon oregano
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups grated cheese
12 7-8-inch flour tortillas

Brown beef and onion. Add remaining filling ingredients. Add cheese. Divide meat mixture on 12 tortillas. Roll up and place in greased 11x14-inch pan.

Cheese sauce:
½ cup butter
3 cups milk
8-ounces Cheese Whiz or Velveeta cheese
4 tablespoons flour
8-ounces sour cream

Melt butter in pan. Add flour and stir until well blended. Add milk gradually and stir constantly. Add sour cream and cheese. Stir until melted. Pour over tortillas. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Delicious served with salsa and sour cream.

ANSWER — Kay Wildasin, Seven Valleys, requested a recipe for doughnuts that taste like those served at the Pennsylvania Farm Show Food Court. Thanks to Belinda Myers, Dallastown, for sending two different recipes. Neither recipe is a yeast doughnut, which I think is what Kay wants. So if anyone has a yeast recipe that tastes like those served at the Farm Show food court, please send.

Potato Doughnuts

1 cup mashed potatoes
1½ tablespoons melted shortening
2 eggs
½ cup milk
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon baking powder
2½ cups sugar

Combine mashed potatoes and shortening. Add eggs and milk; beat well.

Gradually add dry ingredients and spices, mix well.

Roll out on floured surface ¼-½-inch thick. Cut with doughnut cutter and fry in hot fat until nicely browned.

Grandmother's Doughnuts

8½-9 cups flour
2 cups sugar
2 cups buttermilk
⅓ cup butter, creamed
1 teaspoon nutmeg
4 eggs
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla (optional)

In a large mixing bowl, combine 4 cups flour and remaining ingredients. Beat on low speed. Mix 1-2 minutes until mixed. Stir in enough remaining dough to make dough easy to handle. Turn out onto floured surface, knead until smooth (about 2 minutes). Divide in half. Roll out each half ½-inch thickness. With lightly floured 2½-inch doughnut cutter, cut out doughnuts. Heat oil in deep fryer to 375 degrees. Place 2 to 3 doughnuts in hot oil and fry turning once until golden brown (about 1 minute on each side). Drain on paper towels. Repeat until all doughnuts are fried. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar. Makes 3 dozen.

ANSWER — For the reader who wanted nutritious, low-fat recipes, here is one from Jimmy D., New Holland.

Roasted Peppers/Black Olives For Pasta

Garlic
Olive oil
Black olives, small can minced
Roasted red peppers
Whole peeled tomatoes, large can

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Lancaster County is an important tourist destination. It became a separate county in 1729 when it separated from Chester County.

Swiss and German were among the early settlers—Quakers and Scotch-Irish soon followed. At one time Lancaster was known as Hickory Town. Andrew Hamilton laid out the town in 1730. I find it difficult to realize that my ancestors were already here and farming at that time.

The Indians traded with the settlers and in 1744 chiefs throughout the East came to Lancaster to sign a treaty promising to be loyal to the English in the French War. Both the Conestoga wagons and the Kentucky rifle originated in Lancaster County. Stiegel glass was made in Manheim by William Stiegel and it is considered to be quite valuable.

Agriculture is an important part of Lancaster County's economy. It has one of the most fertile soils in the country. The early Swiss-Germans were good farmers and raised wheat and barley. Later corn, tobacco, and market vegetables were raised. Now dairy and poultry farms are very important in Lancaster County.

Today folks come to see the well-kept farms and to see the Amish. But, there are many other attractions such as Landis Valley Museum, Ephrata Cloister, Wheatland, and the Heritage Center in Lancaster. There are a few tourist sites that I have not seen such as Amish Farm and House. But I have been in several of my Amish neighbor's homes and so see no need to pay to see another one.

So, Lancaster County with its almost 6,000 farms and low unemployment rate of 3.7 instead of the national 5.7 remains a good place to live. The many retirement communities in our area draw additional citizens and thus Lancaster County is an important spot on the map.

Apply For Dairy Of Distinction Award By April 15

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co) — Pennsylvania dairy farms are invited to apply for this year's Dairy of Distinction award from the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program. Applications must be submitted by April 15

The award is based on the idea that attractive farmsteads enhance consumer confidence in the wholesomeness of milk and stimulate milk sales and public support for the industry Dairies receiving the highest scores in each of 10 Pennsylvania districts will be awarded an 18- by 24-inch Dairy of Distinction sign to display in front of their farm

"This program is run by volunteers and recognizes the hard work and dedication of dairy producers who promote a positive image for the dairy industry," said Mike O'Connor, secretary of the Pennsylvania Dairy of Distinction program and professor of dairy science extension in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Roadside judging will take place in May. Judges will look at factors that can be controlled by the farmer, such as clean and attractively finished buildings; neat landscaping, ditches, roads and lanes; and well-maintained fences. They also will take into account other aspects of the farm, such as cleanliness of animals,the barnyard, feed areas and manure management

Winning farms will be notified in late June. Because this is a yearly award, previous winners are reevaluated each year to see if they are still maintaining excellent standards

To receive an application, call Mike O'Connor at (814) 863-3913 or e-mail him at HYPERLINKmail to MOConnor@psu edu

Since 1987, Pennsylvania's Dairy of Distinction Program has recognized more than 700 dairy farms The Pennsylvania program is part of the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program, which also includes New York, New Jersey, and Vermont Dairies in these states can contact the program secretary in their state for applications

HOW IS YOUR FARM SCORED?

Awards will be based upon neatness, good maintenance and other factors, which can be controlled by the farmer Attractive background scenery should not be weighed heavily in judging All judging observations should be made from a vehicle at one or more points on an adjacent public highway (or if farm is off the road, the nearest lane) Judging should give equal consideration to old wood construction and new construction of metal or concrete block

The award program may be used for subsequent advertising or promotion activities for dairy products or dairy farming Farmers who apply for awards agree that, if selected, they will cooperate with these activities and make all reasonable efforts to maintain both the exterior and interior of their properties in an acceptable condition

HOW THE JUDGING WORKS

Judging teams will visit the farms during the month of May Farms will be judged each year as the award is presented on an annual basis Any dairy failing to maintain appearance standards will be asked to remove their sign The Dairy of Distinction signs remain the property of the committee, not the property of the dairy farmer All farms must achieve a compliance score of 90 percent on their Dairy of Distinction score card Your cooperative or milk handler will be contacted to approve your milk quality

RULES FOR THE DAIRY OF DISTINCTION AWARD

1 The Dairy of Distinction sign remains the property of the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program Committee (NEDFBP)

2 The post and bracket shall be supplied by and maintained by the dairy farmer NEDFBP suggests that a wood post 4" x 4 ' x 12' or iron pipe 2" x 12' be used Posts or pipe should be installed and maintained in true vertical position with 8' above ground Top of the bracket should be lower than six inches from the top of the post In addition, NEDFBP suggests that the sign be mounted in a frame to provide additional stability

3 The sign shall be displayed in front of the dairy at roadside An attractive post and bracket, or other frame shall be used to display the sign No more than three signs should be displayed from the sign frame or post and all shall be of a style, general size and quality comparable to the Dairy of Distinction sign The sign should be secured on all sides to avoid wind damage

4 Signs shall not be moved to other premises New owners of a Dairy of Distinction farm must apply to retain the sign

5 Replacement of damaged signs shall be at the discretion of the committee

6 No producer shall be charged with scoring or sign expenses

7 The judges' decision will be final

8 Judging will take place between May 1 and May 31

9 Farms awarded a Dairy of Distinction sign in previous years will be judged between April 1 and April 30 If they do not qualify they will be rejudged between May 1 and May 31 so they have the opportunity to keep the sign

10 Farms that do not requality will return the sign to their regional Dairy of Distinction Committee

Dairy of Distinction
2003 Pennsylvania Application

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM

Attractive dairy farms give the consumer greater confidence in the wholesomeness of milk and stimulate milk sales which encourages public support of the dairy industry. The award gives recognition to the dairy farmer for maintaining a well-kept farmstead.

ELIGIBILITY

All Northeast dairy farms producing milk for sale are invited to submit an application for the award. Dairies receiving the 10 highest scores in each of the 21 districts will receive an 18" x 24" Dairy of Distinction sign to be displayed in front of their farm.

Ranchers Turn Cattle Skulls Into Western Art

BARNESVILLE, Ohio — A father and sons team of ranchers ride herd on a trend—turning cattle skulls into Western Art. It started back in 1977 when a devastating blizzard on the high plains of Colorado killed 40 percent of the Dickinson family Longhorn cattle herd. At a point when everything seemed hopless, Darol Dickinson started salvaging what was left sticking out of the snow, those serpentine long horns and skulls. Although not as good as the production of the living cow, the cleaned and polished skulls often sold for more money than a normal commercial living cow would bring at auction.

Over the years collectors and western decor buffs have continued to snap up the one of a kind appendages.

Today Darol and sons Joel and Kirk, now ranching in Belmont, County, Ohio, sell 50 to 80 skulls a year at prices that begin at $130 and go to $950. Collectors and designers view the longhorns as the quintessential symbol of the Old West.

"Longhorns have a mystique about them," said Joel Dickinson. "They stand for courage, stamina, independence—all the admired qualities of our early frontier settlers."

The Longhorns Head to Tail Store, located on the family ranch north of Barnesville also markets all the other longhorn components such as steer shoulder mounts, mounted steer tails, tanned hides, bull walking canes, bull golf clubs, hoof lamps, and of course healthy lean beef, all natural and delicious.

Everything really started with the skull polishing. Many of the skulls come with a lengthy history, photos of the living animals taken in its heyday and the documented registration certificates. Customers who purchase a skull get more than a skull, they get a personal history.

There's Shorty, a longhorn steer doing the rodeo thing. After a year he became increasingly lethargic and instead of a rodeo star, he became an X-Rodeo performer, graduated to a feed lot and then went on to a health foods store.

Each of them has been professionally immortalized as a bleached and polished skull.

Over the years, Kirk and Joel have developed a 23 step cleaning and polishing technique. They ship by UPS polished skulls across the USA as well as Norway, Germany, and Japan. German people are especially taken with the culture of the Wild West and are enthusiastic collectors of all things western, according to ranch manager Joel Dickinson.

To start collecting skulls, price is a consideration. The wider the spread the better. The more "cork screw" the higher the price. Horns, like trees produce a growth ring. Horn grows fast in the summer and grows a long light colored section, but grows slow in Winter with a darker, smaller section. The younger cattle have smaller, shorter horn and the older cattle have the really big trophies. Bulls have a more masculine horn with a large circumference and steers have the six to eight foot spreads. The longest horned steer on Dickinson Cattle Company today measures right at 90 inches. Many people purchasing trophy skills from the store actually prefer smaller spreads due to limited den or wall space. Not every one can have an available area for the really big ones.

In reality, longhorn skulls aren't for everyone. Gaping nasals and eye cavities strike some as, let's say, not sophisticated.

But buyers can be guaranteed one aspect of the skulls, immaculate cleanliness. The craniums go through a multi process of boiling, bleaching, sanding, and high pressure washing that leaves each one polished and as bright white as if it had sunned in the desert for 50 years. Kirk says, "During the buffing and polishing process I try not to overdo it. Most collectors prefer a natural look. The horn natural color is beautiful; if they are too polished, they look like plastic.

The family cattle operation in the Appalachian foot hills of south eastern Ohio runs over a thousand registered Texas Longhorn cattle and sells mostly breeding stock for people starting herds. Tours are provided during the Summer for the public. The regular processing of beef for the store provides a renewable supply of skulls to a limited degree.

The 23 step skull process is not an easy feat, in fact it is quite labor intensive, to the extent not many Longhorn ranchers take the time and trouble to make them "indoor desirable." It is just easier to hang a skull on the side of the barn.

"People aren't fighting to get into the authentic Longhorn skull-polishing business," said Kirk. There's not a lot of competition in this industry." For more info www.head2tail.com tells the rest of the story.

Joel and Kirk Dickinson of Barnesville, Ohio, display a state of the art Texas Longhorn polished skull. The Dickinson Cattle Company has been polishing skulls for 26 years for sale to collectors of unique western memorabilia. The ranch runs a sizable herd of Texas Longhorns and develops a number of decor products from every part of a critter. It isn't just the all natural beef that sells at the Longhorns Head to Tail Store but also tanned hides, Longhorn steer shoulder mounts, hoof lamps, mounted steer tails, leather place mattes, bull walking canes, bull golf putters, and ladies purses. The ranch also provides public tours during the summer.

Grange Hosts Flag Raising Ceremony

LEWISBERRY (York Co.) — Lewisberry Valley Grange #1360 and #1230 Rosstown Road, Lewisberry, hosted a special flag raising ceremony Sunday, March 2, at 2 p.m. at the Grange hall.

The 40-foot flag pole was purchased and erected as an Eagle Scout project by Adam Karl of Boy Scout Troop 312, York/ Adams Council. Adam is the son of Mary and James Karl of Fishing Creek Road, New Cumberland. Adam is a senior at Red Land High School

The project included research into flagpoles and kits, removing vegetation and shrubbery from the parking lot island where the pole was erected, installing the base for the pole, placing a weed barrier in the island, planting new plants and shrubbery, erecting the flagpole, installation of a solar powered dusk to dawn light and finishing the landscaping with tanbark.

Adam began the project with Valley Grange #1360 in July 2002 and completed it in December of last year. The original plans called for him to erect a 30-foot flagpole and Valley Grange #1360 donated half the costs. Adam decided to purchase and erect a 40-foot pole and is raising money to cover the additional costs through candy sales.

The ceremony was attended by Sen. Jeff Picola and Rep. Bruce Smith (a member of Valley Grange #1360), officers and members of Valley Grange #1360, surrounding granges, and Betsy Huber, PA State Grange Master.

Construction of the Valley Grange hall was completed in 1996. Valley Grange had previously sold their original hall in Lewisberry. There had been much discussion since then among members about erecting a flagpole but nothing had ever been finalized. Boy Scout Troop 312 began meeting at the Grange hall early in 2002 and shortly afterwards the idea of Eagle Scout projects was brought up. A flagpole was one of the first items discussed and Adam quickly decided to make that his Eagle project.

The Grange is a family fraternal organization dedicated to the betterment of rural America through community service, education, legislation and fellowship. Valley Grange #1360 meets at its hall at 1230 Rosstown Road (Rt 177), Lewisberry, the second and fourth Mondays of each month at 7:30 p.m.

Agri-Education Seminar Addresses Emotional Stresses That Impact Family Farming

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Times are tough economically for farmers. All agricultural commodity prices are low. Bio-security concerns, changing technology, government policies, and harsh weather patterns combine to put more stress on farm families.

Dwindling prices, bank loans, and the results of last year's drought-withered crops are having a detrimental affect on family relationships. Concerned that the negative dynamics of human relationships can destroy family farms, First Union's Agri-Education Seminar last week included a session of helping families learn to handle stresses and resolve conflict.

"During extended periods of farm stress from being over worked with little rest, constant worry, low market prices, and financial hardships," Hanson said, "it is often the ones that we love the most that are the first to experience our frustrations. Our sense of helplessness in not being able to change the present situation builds up anger that spills out on those we love the most."

"I have spent 24 years counseling farm families that are being pulled apart from stresses," Dr. Ronald Hanson, Nebraska, said. "I know what it's like. I came from one of those families."

Growing up in a farm family in the Mid-West, Hanson learned from experience that low farm prices force many farm producers to leave agriculture.

"But the real tragedy is that many farm family relationships will be destroyed during this process," Hanson said.

Demands on time and economic stresses cause families to lose perspective on what is most important — family relationships.

"Farms can be replaced, but if you destroy a marriage or lose a family, you are not always given a second chance," Hanson said.

Hanson outlined potential areas of disagreements that many families — especially those with several generations farming together face. Conflicts on decision making, implementing new ideas, and money-spending are at the top of the list.

Dr. Ronald Hanson, left, Nebraska, knows from first-hand experience that stresses from farming can destroy family relationships. In addition to teaching ag economics at the University of Nebraska, Hanson spends much of his time teaching and counseling farm families on how to resolve conflicts.

Families must learn to communicate their viewpoints but at the same time be respectful of differing opinions within the family. They must be willing to compromise, Hanson said.

Fathers, especially, must allow their adult children to learn from mistakes without condemning them with the attitude of "I told you so."

Hanson said that fathers and sons have many more conflicts than fathers and daughters in family partnerships.

"In my 24 years of counseling, I never had a father and daughter come for counseling," Hanson said. "Dads don't see daughters as a threat."

Instead, Hanson believes, dads see sons as an extension of themselves and raise them to be like them and do things "my way."

Hanson's outlined numerous strategies to resolve family conflicts.

"To operate a successful farming operation takes a lot of effort with all family members," Hanson said. "It takes patience, persistence, understanding, courage, personal strength, and forgiveness."

Families can benefit from having a third party such as a counselor help them work through differences in a more objective and professional matter.

"Too many times we keep things bottled up inside. The attitude is 'I have to find a way to work this out myself. This sense of isolation solves nothing and depression can result."

Farm families are very private, but personal pride and stubbornness that keep them from sharing personal feelings also keeps them from solving family differences.

Often expressions of "I love you," and "I appreciate you" are left unsaid when family members are farming together. Hanson said appreciation needs to be expressed in family relationships. Sharing a few simple words of appreciation and love can make a dramatic difference in any farm family relationship.

Other Topics

Other topics addressed at the agri-educational seminar on Unusual Times, Unusual Actions included a keynote address by Dr. Robert Steele, dean of Penn State's College of Agriculture Sciences. Steele told how the university pursues innovative solutions to biosecurity and technology advances in agriculture despite budget cuts.

"Only a small percentage of farmers east of the Mississippi are influencing federal Farm Policy. This must change," Steele said.

It's important for local farmers to become involved in legislative affairs because Federal farm policy will drive agriculture for the next 10 years.

According to Jay Bryson, global economist for Wachovia Securities, the U.S. economic outlook is set for recovery if low interest rates continue, the war with Iraq is short, there are no more terrorists' attacks or other unforeseeable events.

Dr. David Kohl, ag economist from Virginia Polytechnical Institute, encouraged the audience to plan for the changing face of agriculture. Some of the changes he foresees are women becoming more involved in agriculture and ag finance. Consolidation in food companies with WalMart leading the pact in demanding how, when, where and why they want a product will force farmers to find innovative niches in marketing their products.

Kohl divided farmers into four groups: hot shots with no wealth accumulation, achievers with positive wealth accumulation, coasters with negative wealth accumulation, and strugglers with no wealth accumulation.

Kohl explained the 10 characteristics of each group and what changes are needed to remain in farming.

Four out of five farmers are living off the wealth of the past generation, and it will cause eventual problems.

"It is not how much you make, but how much you spend," Kohl said.

"Cash is king," he said of the economy.

Youth and the future of agriculture was addressed by Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Raechel Kilgore, who told how 4-H, FFA, and the dairy princess program shows the immensity of agriculture's role in the world.

Reporting from Washington D.C. was John Blanchfield, director for American Bankers Association.

Reactions to current ag market forces by Penn State professors Dr. Lou Moore and Dr. Ken Bailey were reported in previous Lancaster Farming articles.

"You are not a weakling for seeking professional help (when dealing with stress)," said Darvin Boyd, senior vice president of agri-finance at First Union.

Manor FFA Members, Alumni Honored At Convention

MILLERSVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — The Manor FFA Career Development Meats team recently competed at the FFA National Convention in Louisville, Kentucky. The team, composed of Jenna Bleacher, Ben Railing, Scott Gingrich, and Jeremy Appel placed first at FFA Activities Week at Penn State in June and earned the opportunity to compete in Louisville.

At nationals the team placed bronze and Scott Gingrich placed silver individually. During their competition the team identified forty retail cuts, yield and quality graded beef carcasses, took a written test, judged lamb and hog carcasses, placing of retail cuts, and a team event where they answered questions on beef carcasses.

Sponsors of the event include Excel Corporation, Hormel Foods Corp., Oscar Mayer Foods Corp., Premium Standard Farms, and Tyson Foods as a special project of the National FFA Foundation. It is one of 23 career development events held annually at the National FFA Convention.

Six Manor FFA alumni members were honored at the national convention. Jason Martin, Mike Hess, Allan Herr Jr., Audrey Nissly, Adam Nissley, and Jeremy Railing earned their American FFA Degree and were presented with their awards on stage at Freedom Hall at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center. The American Degree is a national award and the highest award that the FFA can bestow upon its members.

Mifflinburg FFA Team Brings Home Gold

The Mifflinburg Area High School FFA Safety Bowl team proved to be the best of the best at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Team members Jamie Camp, Danielle Murphy, Nicole Murphy, Joe Spangler, and Jessica Zimmerman won first place in the competition. They qualified for the competition by placing at Ag Progress Days in August.

For the competition, students were quizzed on the topic of safety, including agriculture, home safety, tractor safety and more.

Extension Service Plans Public Conflict Resolution Workshop

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension Service will host an all-day public conflict resolution workshop April 1 in Lancaster.

The program, "Public Conflict: Turning Lemons into Lemonade, A Hands-On Workshop for Community Leaders," is aimed at public officials, community leaders, and others who are interested in learning how to use conflict resolution techniques. It will be presented by Tim Collins, community and economic development extension agent from Adams County.

Growing areas, such as Lancaster County, face potential conflicts because of issues such as economic development and changes in agriculture and land use.

The program is designed to help participants understand conflict and use it productively.

A program fee will cover refreshments, lunch, and printed materials. The workshop will be conducted from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Penn State Cooperative Extension office in Lancaster County. Their office is located in the Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster. Attendees are expected from Lancaster, Lebanon, and York counties.

For more information about the conflict resolution program or for registration information, contact Pat Simpson at the Cooperative Extension Service office in Gettysburg, (888) 472-0261 (toll free). Registration deadline is Tuesday, March 25.

Thanks to another reader who writes that cream separators can be purchased from Glen Gery Cheesemaking Supplies. Phone (888) 816-0903 (Canada). Hand turned separators can be purchased through Lehmans, 1 Lehman Circle, P.O. Box 41, Kidron, Ohio 44636.

These also appear listed in auction bills in this paper. As one reader wrote, these can by found by placing an ad in Lancaster Farming's Mailbox Market. Sometimes butter churns are also listed for sale in that portion of the paper. Remember, readers, this column is for requests that cannot be found elsewhere. If you are a subscriber to this paper, you can place a free Mailbox Market ad each month.

ANSWER — Merlin Grube, Mohrsville, and Ruth Nolt sent the same information in answer to J. Drago: The Purple Martin Conservation Association has advice and products to help attract purple Martins. Write to the assocation at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania, Edinboro, PA 16444. Phone (814) 734-4420.

ANSWER — Myrt Sarge's senior club wanted directions for making baskets out of old greeting cards. Thanks to a long-time reader for sending instructions. Unfortunately, the instructions are difficult to follow if you can not see the patterns and finished project. However, the instructions will be sent to Myrt.

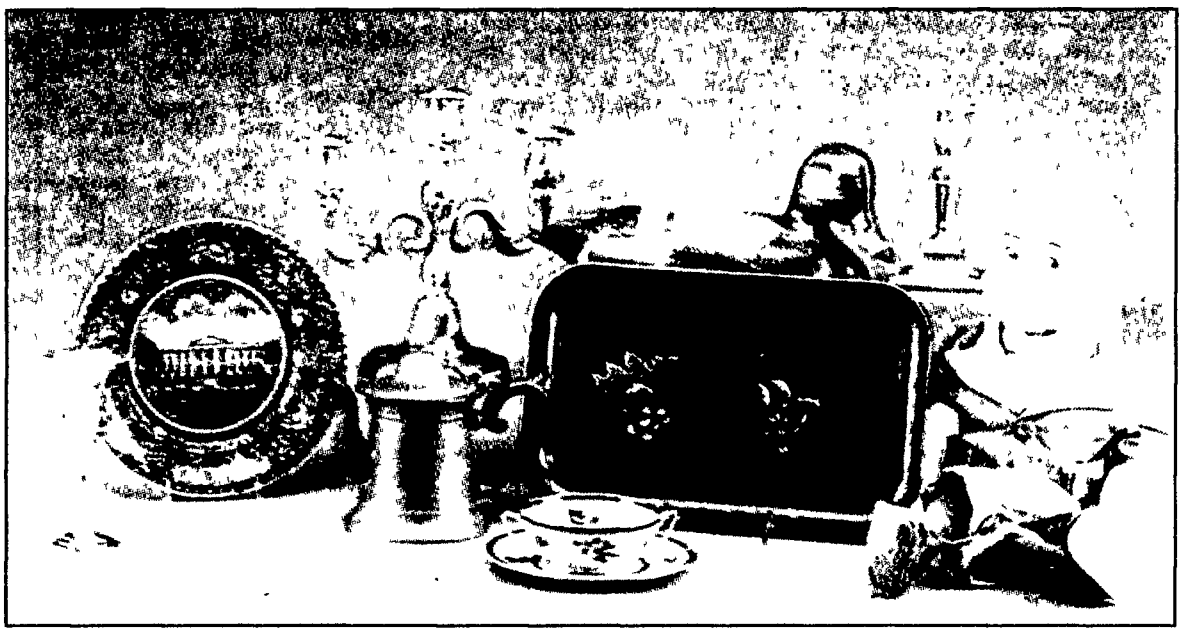
Great Stuff Goes For Auction



Antiques and collectibles including toys, decoys, sterling, pewter, and china are among the objects for sale March 18 at 333 Auctions.

LAMBERTVILLE, N.J. — "Great stuff. Good deals. Big fun." That's the three-part promise of the powerhouse partnership that is 333 Auctions, a new general sale and estate auction company.

Nicholas Dawes, Suzanne Perrault, David Rago, and John Sollo, partners in 333 Auctions, are internationally known experts in the art and auction world. Dawes, Perrault, and Rago are familiar to millions from their seasons as expert appraisers in PBS's Antiques Roadshow.

Sollo, whose career has taken him from folk art to pop art, is a premier authority in 20th century modern.

What brings these high-profile friends together in business now?

"People have been offering great estate property to each of us as individuals for as long as we've known one another—and longer," says Rago.

"If this property was outside of our respective specialities, we've always made referrals to the dealer or auctioneer we thought could do the best job.

"It just took us a while to realize that together we have all the expertise we need—and then some. So we've started 333 Auctions at 333 North Main Street in Lambertville, where we hold our 20th century speciality sales."

"You know, Sotheby's and Christie's won't consider property worth less than $3,000 — let alone $500," says Sollo. "We will. That's really important to us.

It's not every guy who has the million dollar painting to sell or the funds to buy a $100,000 chair.

"We're happy to offer quality goods at all price levels. We love meeting people and talking to people and making money for people. It really is big fun."

Individuals can walk into 333 with consignments or photos any Monday between the hours of 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. and meet with one or another of the partners and staff members.

These appraisal Mondays are free and no appointment is necessary.

"333 is a great place to sell estates and do general auctions," says Nicholas Dawes.

"Our property will be fresh to the market — most with low or no reserves."

Joining Dawes, Perrault, Rago, and Sollo in the 333 Auctions partnership is Miriam Tucker, the head of the management team and CEO.

On Tuesday, March 18, the Rago Arts and Auction Center is hosting the second 333 Auctions general and estate sale beginning at 11 a.m.

The March auction offers approximately 400 lots of quality furniture, artwork, silver, jewelry, decorative items, collectibles, and a group of notable modern pieces.

For art lovers, the auction includes many important examples such as two Pablo Picasso pencil-signed linocuts, an exceptional geometric abstract oil on panel by Giacomo Balla, a paper collage, dated and signed Kurt Schwitters, as well as a fine graphite and red pencil on cream woven paper signed Jean Michel Basquiat.

A fine oil on canvas signed G.L. Noyes, American, is offered as well as a framed oil on board signed W. Koeniger, A Woodstock Colony painter. A large painting on illustration board of a Red Cross rescue dog in a W.W.II battle scene by American artist Bob Kuhn will capture many hearts.

Also offered is an oil on masonite signed Richard Gibson Wedderspoon, a student of Daniel Garber, a renowned Bucks County artist.

An original signed watercolor by well-known artist, John Piper, is for sale also. Piper, who was born in England in 1903, first came to public prominence for his work as a World War II artist and was commissioned by Queen Elizabeth to paint Windsor Castle in 1940.

He was part of an "elite" English movement in modern painting and to this day his work is very desirable. Also available is a large Daniel Rhodes stoneware sculptured vase from the 1960's.

A group of posters from the personal collection of George Tscherny, a master graphic designer from New York is being offered. These posters chronicle contemporary print design from 1970 to the 1990's.

Tscherny uses everyday culture for inspiration and his expressionistic drawings are disarmingly simple in design.

In 1997, he was inducted into the Art Directors Hall of Fame and was honored with a retrospective exhibition at the School of Visual Arts Museum in New York.

Drummer Boy Pull Toy Brings $28,500

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — A child's pull toy brought $28,500 at the Shaffner Auction Gallery, 977 West Main Street, Mount Joy, Feb. 24.

The cast iron toy created a lot of excitement from local buyers as well as buyers from out of state.

The purchaser, however, was from Lancaster County where the toy had its history.

The Drummer Boy was consigned along with an Excelsior Mason mechanical bank and several other cast iron toys.

Mark Diffenderfer of Shaffner Auction Company had been called to a home to meet with an individual who was moving.

The toys had been in the family for many years. The Drummer Boy, probably attributed to Ives, is believed to have been made in the 1880s.

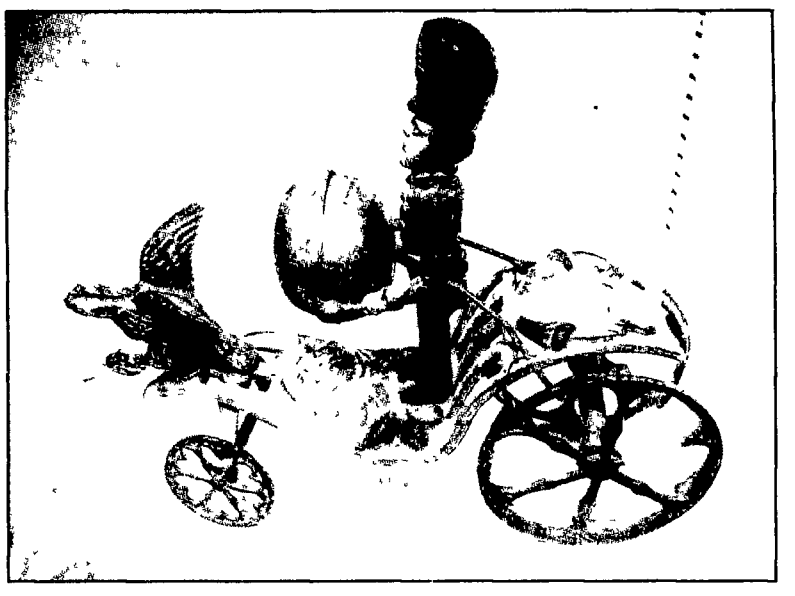
It had with it the original wood dovetailed box with slide lid and a label.

The crowd cheered when auctioneer Marty Fleck sold it to the high bidder.

Immediately following the sale of the Drummer Boy, the mechanical bank was sold for $5,000.

Some other toy prices were Hubley Santa and Sleigh $625; Kenton Log wagon $475; Hubley Wimpie paper weight $275; two plastic Halloween cars $325; Aurora slot car set $200; Grey Iron Cottage Bank $190.

More photos and other details are available at www.shaffnerauction.com.



This pull toy recently brought $28,500 at an auction. The Drummer Boy, which came with the original wood dovetailed box, slide lid, and label, is believed to have been made in the 1880s.

This mechanical bank sold for $5,000.

Old Inkwells Can Be Weird Or Wonderful

Since they were first made several hundred years ago, inkwells have taken many forms and were made of a variety of materials.

Some are so beautiful they could be classified as works of art. Among them were those made of hand-painted German and French porcelain. Others took fanciful forms such as one pottery inkwell modeled as a phrenology head. Another shown in the Miller's International Antiques Professional Handbook was heart-shaped, painted with strawberries.

Long before computer e-mail, letter writing was an art. Good penmanship was considered the mark of a lady or gentleman. Every desk in the home of the 18th century gentry had an elegant inkwell and stand. They could be of sterling silver or porcelain.

One hundred years later, around the end of the 19th century, the wealthy in America and Europe displayed complete writing sets made by Tiffany, or French figural bronzes combined with Baccarat crystal. When designed or sculpted by the finest craftsmen, many inkstands and wells could be considered miniature works of art. At that time they often came with several pieces of desk accessories such as letterholders and blotters.

Although the use of ink and early writing implements go back to the beginning of civilization, writing wasn't done by private individuals until the 16th century. The inkwell as a decorative object wasn't important.

There are a few surviving examples of Italian and Spanish majolica inkstands dating as early as the 1500s. By the early 16th century, France, Germany, and Holland were making inkstands and wells of a similar pottery that we know now as Delft and Delft-type.

Pottery and porcelain inkstands and wells, as well as those made of gold and silver became elaborate works of art in England and the continent by the 18th century. The finest examples by important goldsmiths were given as gifts on special occasions and as presentation pieces.

They were also imported from China as custom painted, export porcelain.

CLUES: Style and shape as well as materials are ways to identify the age and country of early inkwells and inkstands. For example, 18th century inkstands were casket shape with an enclosed inkpot. There were also tray form stands with bullet feet.

By the mid-18th century, English silver followed the fashion for rococco style using scrolled and reeded rims. The French silversmiths during the same period also used this style.

In 18th century America, the silver stands were combined with cut glass (later pressed glass) inkpots. The final touch accessory was a tiny bell used to alert servants that the letters were ready to be sent off.

There are some reproductions of the English brass inkstands and wells, Bennington pottery-types, and sandwich glass-style wells.

Prices can vary widely. A Minton porcelain inkstand can sell for several thousand dollars at auction; a 19th century millefiori paperweight inkwell for $600; a treen well for $200.

Until recently a complete set of Tiffany inkwell and accessories could be had for under a thousand dollars.

Many novelty inkwells were made in the early 20th century. They can range from a couple of hundred to over $800 and are still available.

Most affordable and available are Victorian inkstands and glass wells.

Accessories such as pens, seals, traveling and lap desks can round out a collection.

The lap desks come with glass inkwells.

EXHIBITION: 7-9 FRIDAY EVENING & 8-10 AUCTION DAY

In The Pavilion – UNCATALOGED – An underground railroad. Can't tell you too much about it; it's dark down here! But there are trains everywhere - new ones, old ones, big ones, little ones and toys, too. Lots of material for a full day, that's why we are in the pavilion. Lionel post war & modern era, HO, kits, scenery. Estate of Kenneth Koller, Fleetwood, PA.

In The Blue Room – A huge "G" gauge layout from West Virginia; the owner gave it to the Shriners for the children's hospital, and the Shriners sent it to me for liquidation. Track & buildings also.

10% Buyer's Premium Will Be Applied.

rary designers, Russel Wright is represented with a 42-piece chartreuse place setting and serving platters with teapot, salt and pepper shakers, and other pieces.

An extensive offering of modern design classics by Charles Eames, Eero Saarinen, and T.H. Robesjohn-Gibbings adds to the eclectic flavor of the auction.

Several pieces by Gilbert Rohde includes an interesting armchair and a stepped-top side table with tapering legs.

Harry Bertoia is represented by an unusual child's wire mesh side chair, among other pieces and Paul McCobb by a walnut credenza on a brass frame with tri-panel folding doors.

In addition, a fine piece by Hans Wegner "The Chair," with a dark finish and a split cane woven seat, is being offered.

Other furniture includes an exceptional mahogany spinet desk with string and bird's eye maple inlay, a French Provincial walnut extension dining table, a French Provincial 94" pine tallcase clock with brass enamel face, and a French Art Deco seven-piece walnut dining room suite from the 1920's.

A Victorian oak rolltop desk, c. 1880, a charming 19th century French Provincial infant's chair and a Louis XVI oak bureau add to the diversity of the sale.

Sterling silver items include a complete flatware service for twelve by Georg Jensen in the "Acorn" pattern.

A group of fine costume and estate jewelry is offered and includes an exceptional diamond cocktail ring, c. 1950's, set in 14K white gold, surrounded by 44 circular brilliants having an approximate total weight of 2 ct. as well as a fine group of seven antique gold stickpins featuring an unusual Gorham Griffin piece with diamond, seed pearl, and demetoid garnet eye.

Other highlights of the auction are an outstanding pair of candlesticks with Anglo-Irish luster globes, c. 1840, carved wood duck decoys and American cross-stitch samples.

Also offered are cast iron kitchen items including a Griswold muffin tin and a German cobalt kugel with a cluster of grapes design and brass cap.

Several Staffordshire figures, signed Murano glass, stemware, and Fiesta ware is for sale as well as a set of vintage G.I. Joes, one with original box.

The variety is enticing spanning many years of antiques and fine collectibles. From desirable art to box lots there certainly is something for everyone.

Preview: Sunday, March 16 from 12 p.m.-5 p.m., Monday, March 17 from 12 p.m.-8 p.m., and the morning of the sale from 8 a.m.-11 a.m. or view the catalogued listing of lots at www.ragoarts.com.

Museum To Teach Dye Gardening, Dye Making

LANDIS VALLEY (Lancaster Co.) — Come to Landis Valley on Thursday, March 27 from 6:30 p.m.-8:30 p.m. to enjoy a special adult-only workshop featuring natural dyes and dye gardening.

Participants will learn the basics of dye-making using plant materials, and design their own dye garden to plant this spring. Refreshments will also be served. Pre-registration is required, and interested persons should call the museum's education department at (717) 569-0401, ext. 254 to do so. The cost for the workshop is $15.

Landis Valley Museum is a nationally significant living history village dedicated to collecting, preserving, and interpreting the history and culture of the Pennsylvania German community from 1740-1940.

For more information on the Pennsylvania Trail of History or to request a free 24-page visitor guide, visit www.phmc.state.pa.us or phone toll free (866) PA TRAIL.

Landis Valley Museum Offers Folk Toy Workshop

LANDIS VALLEY (Lancaster Co.) — Saturday, March 22, from noon to 2 p.m., Landis Valley Museum will hold a special workshop exploring several folk toys that have entertained children and adults for generations.

Join us at the museum, and make up to three traditional folk toys to take with you. Children 8 and older can be dropped off for an afternoon of fun, or adults can join their child for some fun time together. The $12 workshop cost includes all materials, and a museum admission for that day. Phone ahead to pre-register for the class. The museum education department can be reached at (717) 569-0401, ext. 254.

PHILADELPHIA — The world-famous Philadelphia Flower Show, 12th and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, remains open today, from 8 a.m.-9:30 p.m., and tomorrow from 8 a.m.-6 p.m.

See fantastic garden and floral displays in addition to unexpected exhibits. Shop at the marketplace with 140 national and international vendors.

Tickets cost $22 for adults and $10 for children ages 2-12 available at the box office. More information is available online at www.theflowershow.com or by calling (215) 988-8839.

See next week's issue of Lancaster Farming for more photos and information about the annual event that started in 1829.

Flowers are expected at the Philadelphia Show. But roosters in this farm-related theme demonstrate some of the surprising entries.

Pennsylvanians hope that spring will soon usher in flowers like these displayed at the show.

Quilts show up in the most unexpected places such as the competition that interpret the Arts and Crafts movement of the 18th century. Photos by Lou Ann Good, food and family features editor

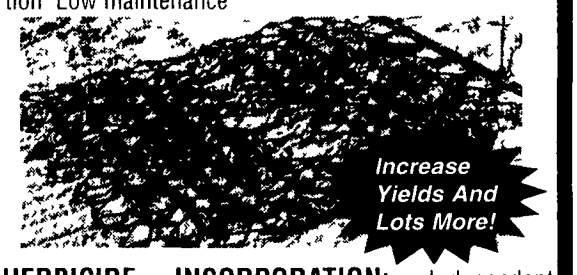
Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc Offers This Low Cost Harrow
Fuerst Flex-i-ble Tine Harrow

Aerates and scarifies to stimulate growth, improve moisture penetration Breaks up manure to speed decomposition, reduce parasites Works in seeds after reseeding Maintains rings and tracks 4 to 42 ft widths Adjustable penetration Low maintenance



HERBICIDE INCORPORATION: Independent research using black light photography proves the Fuerst Harrow behind your disk or cultivator gives you "near perfect" incorporation in one pass – better than implements costing several times more! Shreds trash as it prepares & levels seedbeds

BROADCASTING SMALL GRAINS AND GRASSES: University of Illinois found overseeding by broadcasting followed by a Fuerst Harrow a superior combination, out-performing equipment costing more than 10 times as much Pulled behind the broadcaster, it covers seed to desired depth in one time-saving operation

SHREDS STALKS: Shreds and spreads stalks in spring ahead of no-till and ridge-till planting

4 to 42 ft widths Flexes to cover every inch at 6-8 mph No maintenance Easy to use and store Insist on the original "Spreading Action" tines

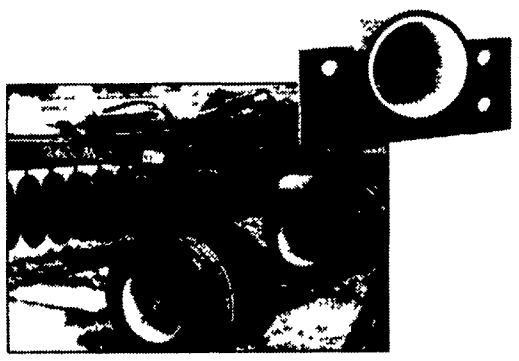
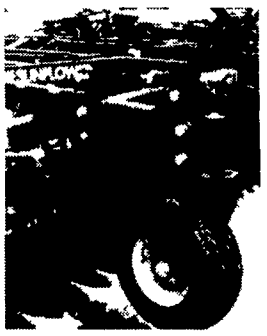
Double Offset Gangs Rock Flex Hangers

Model 1233 Disc Harrow. The Model 1233 disc harrow is a medium weight disc that capably handles primary-through-finish discing operations An all welded frame features even weight distribution for uniform penetration, and the three flexible sections assure that rough rolling and terraced ground will be tilled evenly and smoothly Large tires provide excellent flotation, unmatched depth control and the base for level discing Like all Sunflower Discs the 1233 is loaded with features that give it a definite edge over competitive brands These features enable the 1233 to always provide a level job of discing regardless of terrain discing depth and/or soil condition

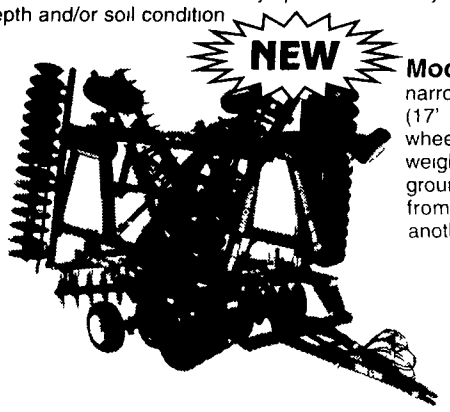


Maintenance-Free Lift System



Gauge Wheels For Leveling Perfection

C-Flex™ Bearing Standard



Model 1434 Disc Harrow. Unit folds to a narrow transport width (13'5" on 19-28 models) (17' 8 on 29-35 models) Walking tandem wheels on center section effectively distribute weight evenly for increased tire life Increased ground clearance during transport makes travel from one field to another much easier

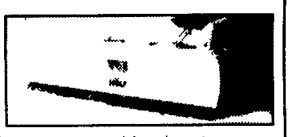
SNOW WOLF



Trip Cutting Edge Design The SnowWolf Ultra features a trip cutting edge design which allows full down pressure for incredible scraping ability in forward or backdragging situations It eliminates false tripping from snow load and will only engage if you actually strike an immovable object

Massive Construction

The SnowWolf Ultra is designed to take abuse from the largest skid loaders At approximately 100 pounds per foot of plowing width you know the Ultra means business

Food for Thought

Did you know that a modern skid loader with a high speed transmission and a SnowWolf Ultra will outplow a pickup truck under most plowing conditions? A cleaner job closer to the obstacles (without worrying about your fenders) and more acres plowed in the same amount of time!

GEHL MODEL RB 2580

ROUND BALERS

Featuring the ALL-NEW Variable Open-Throat Power In-Feed System

Gehl's power in feed sys tem opens to nearly 7" for large crop volume

GREAT BALING STARTS HERE
Variable Open-Throat Power In-Feed System Here s how it works The incoming crop is pulled off the pickup by the aggressive action of two power in-feed rolls – a 6 inch-diameter pivoting power in-feed roll on top and an 8-inch diameter fixed power in-feed roll on the bottom

The top pivoting power in feed roll rides over the crop as it is pulled into the bale chamber An extension spring keeps the toproll under constant downward force

The spring tension increases as the variable throat opens from a minimum of 3/4 of an inch up to a maximum opening of nearly 7 inches

The constant downward force of the pivoting upper powered in feed roll in combination with the fixed lower in feed roll both turning inward pinches the crop and forces it into the bale chamber The stripping roll strips crop off the belt and forces it down to the incoming crop Adjustable scrapers on the stripping roll and pivoting roll eliminate buildup

THREE-BALL TWINE BOX Gehl balers are designed to keep you going all day long with six-ball twine storage They re located in full-size doors that open to provide easy access to baler components like an optional chain oiler system or the Total Density Control adjustments

GAUGE WHEELS. Allow the pickup to follow field contours while keeping tines out of the dirt That saves wear and tear on the pickup and means less dirt in your bale Gauge wheels are standard equipment with the wide pickup and an option with some others

BELTS. Deluxe balers feature chevron belts (pictured above) with heavy duty, plate-type belt lacing The belts are 6-1/2 inches wide for closer spacing between belts and less space between the belts and side sheets. Belts are configured in a staggered pattern to minimize trash build-up.

BINKLEY & HURST BROS. INC.
FOR QUALITY KEENAN MIXERS
We're Ready to Join Your Production Team

INCORPORATE LONG-STEM HAY INTO YOUR RATION TO STIMULATE RUMEN ACTIVITY. PROCESS PROPERLY WITHOUT COMPROMISING INTEGRITY OF MIX.

Ask about the results the Keenan owners are experiencing!

- Six models available - from 280 to 700 cubic ft. capacity
- PTO pull-type or stationary units available
- One-year, no-cost consultants service available
- Solid, simple construction, 1/4" tank thickness/6 bearings and 2 chains
- Unique & exclusive reel and auger design provides gentle, yet thorough mixing

Total to' tal - The whole sum, being entirely complete (all your ingredients)

Mixed mikst - Blended without discrimination, united, mingled thoroughly (prepared to perfection)

Ration ra' shon - An allowance of provisions, personal portion or share (distributed uniformly)

We take, very seriously, our commitment to mixing excellence.

One serious spreader

When your spreader is hauling a lot of weight, you shouldn't have to worry about poor construction. New Holland puts a lot of steel in the right places... then guarantees their spreaders in writing for 12 years. Free sides or floors if they fail.

The sides are made of smooth, corrosion-resistant steel. The nearly indestructible floor boards are made of high-tech plastic recycled from water and milk jugs.

NEW HOLLAND

Smooth on the inside for easy clean-out, New Holland spreader boxes have extra steel frame members for hauling really heavy loads.

Take a serious look at New Holland 155 Spreader today!

WATER

Not Enough or Too Much?

Get the Most from the Moisture You Have Available

CASE IH DMI

The Case-DMI Ecolo-Til 2500 Breaks through the hardpan, unlike conventional tillage tools.

AND

Increases water absorption and air exchange for better nutrient flow up and down the soil profile and root system.

AND

AND

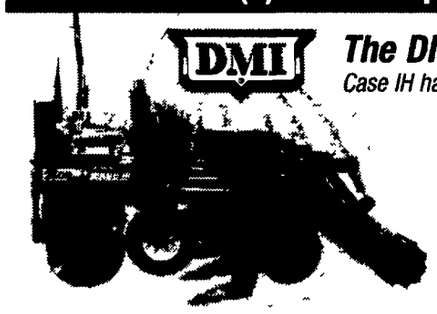
AND

Will put more money in your pocket by getting more bushels out of your field.

Are You Managing Your Moisture For Maximum Productivity?

Hoober has Case-DMI Ecolo-Til 2500 Units from 3 to 9 Shanks in Stock and Ready for Spring Tillage

Hoober Also Has (2) 6-Row Strip Tillage Machines Available



The DMI Strip Tillage Concept

Case IH has modified the DMI Ecolo-Til 2500 to

- Till a strip
- Break up the hardpan
- Gather the soil over the seed slot
- Firm the soil in an 8" band

Call a Hoober salesman today for all your DMI needs.

AGCO QUALITY PARTS

#1 SOURCE FOR PARTS

MASSEY FERGUSON®

Controller + Preservative = Quality Hay

With AGCO buffered acid hay preservative, it's possible to bale hay from 16% to 30% moisture. Combined with our Model 464 Controller, hay moisture is monitored for precise preservative application rates. See us before you bale.

We Turn the Earth

With a product as superior as AGCO Tillage it's no wonder we think we make the earth move. AGCO Tillage parts are designed for all AGCO brand tillage equipment as well as competitive makes and models. Expect the best. Expect AGCO Quality.

Morton Buildings Celebrates 100 Years

MORTON, Ill. — The red-and-white hexagonal logo has long stood for quality, style, and comfort. Now it also symbolizes a century of building excellence and technological innovations.

Morton Buildings, the largest woodframe construction company in the industry, proudly announces its 100th anniversary. Founded in 1903, Morton Buildings got its start as the Interlocking Fence Company, selling fence by mail order to farmers.

As the agricultural industry thrived, Morton thrived along with it. In 1949, the company created its first machine storage structure and by 1964, the company officially became known as Morton Buildings.

Today, Morton Buildings has expanded to include 123 construction centers and six manufacturing plans nationwide. Based in Morton, Ill., Morton Buildings has continually constructed buildings for a wide variety of needs, including horse barns, livestock facilities and equipment. In the last 20 years, the company expanded its expertise to include construction of commercial and office buildings, churches and even homes across the country.

In honor of Morton's centennial, customers who purchase a building in 2003 will receive a gold weathervane to top their Morton building, along with a commemorative plaque to display.

John Deere Introduces GreenStar™ AutoTrac

LENEXA, Kans. — Imagine a satellite guidance system that automatically steers your tractor through the field, safely and comfortably. You're able to travel faster, to make more accurate tillage or spraying passes, and to eliminate the stress of making constant steering corrections. You save fuel, and gain more efficiency from your tractor and implements.

This is a reality with GreenStar AutoTrac assisted steering, introduced last year, but only available on John Deere 8000, 8020, 9000, and 9020 Series track tractors. This technology has proved so successful that now it is available on 8020 Series MFWD and Independent Link Suspension (ILS) wheeled tractors.

"Based on the popular Parallel Tracking platform," says Geremy Larson, senior marketing representative from John Deere Ag Management Solutions, "GreenStar AutoTrac is an assisted-steering system that uses the three common components: GreenStar display, mobile processor, and StarFire™ position receiver with SF2 differential correction subscription.

"AutoTrac offers producers many benefits," says Larson. "They cover more acres in less time, reduce overlap on implements and sprayers, reduce fuel consumption, and operate at faster field speeds. Their productivity increases, while they experience less operator fatigue for more comfortable working conditions."

What's heat forming?

In metal roofing and siding it's the best way to go! Here is why. Everlast heats the paint very hot on their Everlast II product before they cut and form it into roofing and siding Tests have proven that heating paint before cutting and bending prevents virtually all microscopic cracks in the paint Ask our competition if they heat form. It's important. Normally manufacturers form and cut at room temperature Unfortunately that cracks the paint causing early rust at formed bends and edges

BEEF TIPS

A bull's contribution to the calf crop is 30 times greater than each cow within the breeding herd, assuming 30 cows per bull with a 100% calf crop. Add to that his daughters' production in the herd. The advantage of a young bull is the control of venereal diseases. Proper nutrition is essential to maintain fertility in older bulls.

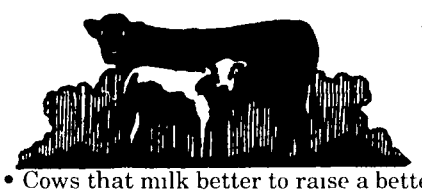
SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages
- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy
- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients



For Beef
- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

Many of you look to the future and are uncertain where it will take you. Milk prices put pressure on cash flow and we live day-to-day, month-to-month, instead of planning for the future.

In Dairy Enterprise Services we have a group of professionals that have the ability to independently evaluate your financial records, nutritional practices and production activities and make recommendations for improvement. In many cases, we can offer solutions to your problems! But if we can't, we will help you find the best person to deal with the issues on your farm.

Typically this 2-day review is $3,000. It includes the review of your dairy by 3 professionals and a written report of our findings. We are offering it for a limited time for $500. All you have to do is allow us the opportunity to make a program recommendation to feed Purina Chows!

If you have an interest in our Phase I Audit, or have questions, please feel free to call Gary Dean at (717) 299-5175 or Dairy Enterprise Services at 1-866-770-6276!

Barley Straw Grows Into Niche Marketing Enterprise For Keener Family

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

TURBOTVILLE (Northumberland Co.) — Those cute mini-bales of barley straw popping out of the made-to-order baler appear to be for decorative use only.

But don't be fooled by size and appearance. Those Kountry Bales are bringing a much larger profit than their full-size counterparts.

Dennis and Donna Keener with children Danae, 18; Deron, 14; and Derek, 7, work together to meet the growing demand for Kountry Bales, which includes those for pet needs and barley straw for keeping ponds and water gardens free of algae. Maxi the dog joins them. Photo by Lou Ann Good, food and family features editor

The Stacks' Paradise Trout Hatchery Still Going Strong After 100 Years

DEANNA CUNFER
Carbon Co. Correspondent

CRESCO (Monroe Co.) — Those who operate a successful family farming operation can be justifiably proud of their accomplishments.

So is the case for retired owner, George Stack, and his daughter, manager Beth Martin of Paradise Brook Trout Company Inc., Cresco, operators of Paradise Trout Hatchery and Preserve.

What comes to mind for most when thinking of a family farm is the traditional picturesque barn and outbuildings with contoured fields of alternating crops, or the livestock operation with animals peacefully grazing in green pastures. In actuality, a fish hatchery such as Paradise is no different than a crop or livestock farm.

The serene look of buildings, raceways, and ponds among the towering pines with trout peacefully swimming within view of visitors easily compares to those tranquil scenes of livestock grazing on the hillside.

Managing the hatchery on 120 acres that has been in business for over 100 years, Martin must be concerned with nutrition, reproduction, growth rate, sanitation, predator control, marketing, and unfortunately government regulations—all while at the mercy of the weather. She has essentially the same concerns that all livestock producers have.

Paradise Trout Hatchery, the first licensed fish hatchery in Pennsylvania, actually opened for business in 1902. The family operation has been owned and operated by the Stack family for more than 75 years.

Paradise Trout Hatchery began in 1902 when a group of men from northeast Pennsylvania and New Jersey founded the stock-owned company. The original hatchery and raceways are still in use today, and through regular maintenance withstood the test of time.

In 1922 Martin's grandfather was hired as foreman at the hatchery. Some changes occurred over the years, and now the business is privately owned and operated. The Stack family has owned and operated the business for more than 75 years, where they raise Brook, Brown, and Rainbow trout for sale as stocking fish for private lakes and streams by individuals and fishing clubs, and have also operated a fee fishing pond since 1968. There are four full-time employees with part-time help hired during the busy seasons.

Inside of hatchery at Paradise Trout Hatchery shows the pools where young trout live after leaving the incubators. The walls of each pool are washed daily. Belt feeders that are used to feed the fish can be seen on top of the pools.

The sale of live fish for stocking purposes is the largest portion of their business with sales and delivery to customers within a 90- to 100-mile radius. The family has also noted that the customers at their fee fishing pond also tend to originate from the same 100-mile radius. The location of the farm is ideal to tap into the tourist traffic that comes to the Pocono Mountains each summer.

Paradise was the first licensed hatchery in Pennsylvania. During the 1930s, it was one of the largest sellers of fish eggs, supplying customers throughout the world. Thus is the reason why the hatchery building is no doubt one of the largest you will see.

Doing everything the old-fashioned way—by hand—Martin does not bring outside fish into the operation. By harvesting the eggs from their own fish, she has avoided the possibility of bringing diseases or health problems to their operation. The business raises approximately 150,000 pounds of trout per year from start to finish.

Harvesting is done by hand in late summer and early fall with the crew handling each fish to extract the eggs and sperm. They harvest the eggs from August through October, taking eggs once each week. The prime breeding age of the trout is two to three years with each pound of fish producing 1,000 eggs. Paradise has done some selective breeding by mating the best producing and growing fish to increase the quality of the fish they raise.

The eggs are in incubators for 30-40 days. The warmer the water, the quicker the eggs will hatch. Incubators used by Martin resemble trays similar to a chest of drawers.

The fish leave the incubators to live in the pools in the hatchery building. While some are still housed in the original rectangular cement pools, Martin said that the newer hard rubber circular pools are more to her liking. The movement of the fish in the circular pools resembles the natural swimming pattern of schools of fish in their natural habitat. At this age, the young trout need the cleanest, purest water available to insure healthy growth, so each day the water is lowered in the pools to allow the walls to be washed. Trout will not grow without clean, fresh water.

The colder the water, the healthier the fish will be, with the ideal water temperature for optimum feeding and growth at 50-55 degrees. Since the bulk of the business at Paradise is the sale of live fish for stocking, Martin prefers to raise the fish in as close to their natural setting as possible.

For this reason, Paradise does not add oxygen to the ponds, knowing that when the fish leave their location and are released in streams or ponds, it will be easier for them to adjust. Each pond has at least one or two fountain-type aerators which, along with the strong flow of water and earthen raceways, have proven to be quite suitable for keeping the fish healthy.

The water for the operation of the hatchery at Paradise is supplied by four or five springs and flows by gravity through the hatchery buildings, raceways, and ponds. The three types of trout raised at Paradise—Brook, Brown, and Rainbow—are kept in separate ponds and graded according to size.

While the desired size for stocking fish at one time was 8-10 inches, now it is 12 to 14 inches, taking a minimum of 18 months to raise a fish for sale at market size. Producing desirable fish is a 3- to 4-year process—therefore, producers are always looking ahead in the fish hatchery business.

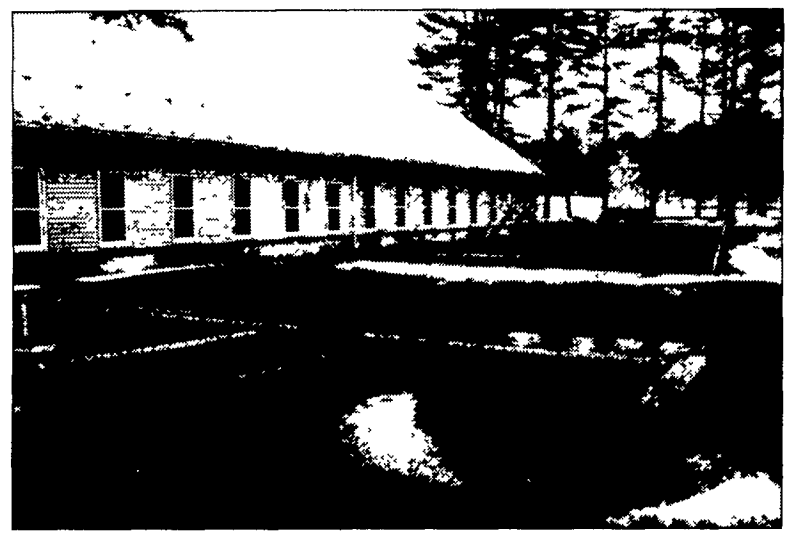
Martin knows that when selling fish for restocking, the end result is a fisherman landing a large and beautiful fish. Raising them at Paradise in as close to their natural setting as possible consistently produces large, colorful, and healthy fish.

The hatchery building at Paradise Trout Hatchery is seen behind one of the earthen raceways. The white PVC pipes along the pond are used to hold netting to protect against loss by birds.

She believes raising fish in natural settings produces healthier and prettier fish, and that is what the fee fishing customers and fisherman want to see when they reel in that line with a trout on the end. Martin strives to produce quality, not quantity.

Just as any livestock farmer has to provide the best care for their animals, so is the case with aquaculture. Paradise receives a shipment of fish food every 30 days from Salt Lake City, Utahthey prefer not to have more than a 30-day supply on hand to insure freshness and quality of the feed. A belt feeder is used to drop a regulated amount of feed into the water to start the fish. As they increase in size and are moved to growing ponds, a belt feeder is positioned next to a self feeder that resembles a seed or fertilizer bin on a corn planter that has a string hanging from the bottom dangling into the water. With the belt feeder dropping food next to the string, the fish soon learn that the string will cause food to drop when bumped or pulled. Eventually the belt feeder is removed.

When asked about predator problems, without hesitation



Paradise Trout Hatchery and Preserve, Cresco, in operation since 1902, was the first licensed fish hatchery in Pennsylvania. Seen is the hatchery surrounded by some of the many raceways on the property.

Martin listed birds, particularly the great blue heron, as the biggest problem. In summer, when the birds are at their worst, netting is hung across the ponds for protection. Occasionally they have muskrats visit the pond, but they generally aren't a problem.

Runoff entering their water sources or ponds has not been a real problem, although they occasionally see some cloudiness of the water during periods of heavy rain. Paradise is fortunate that they have several means of diverting the flow of water and seldom have experienced problems to the quality of water. Like other farming operations, however, Paradise is being surrounded by residential growth, and Martin is concerned as to what future water quality problems might occur. As for government regulations of the discharge of water, Martin said, "it's coming—just like everywhere else."

Martin serves as secretary of the Pennsylvania Aquaculture Association, and is able to keep abreast of upcoming developments affecting her industry as well as being involved in promoting her product.

Generally Paradise is able to sell all the fish they raise, and what isn't sold to stocking customers goes into their fee fishing pond. While the cost of supplies and feed never seem to come down as the economy fluctuates, the hatchery has been able to maintain their prices for both the stocking and fee fishing and are not effected quite as hard by market prices, as producers of more traditional agricultural products.

But like producers of seasonal products, Paradise also has their busy and slow seasons. The bulk of their stocking business is a 10-12 week period before the state fishing season starts.

The fee fishing business is busiest in spring, when the season opens, and again from Memorial Day to July 4, when the tourism season is in full swing. The fee fishing business is open the first Saturday in April through Columbus Day.

Shown are several of the 100-year-old concrete raceways used at Paradise Trout Hatchery and Preserve where they raise Brook, Brown, and Rainbow trout for sale as stocking fish and for use in their fee fishing pond.

LOVES A TIGHT SPOT.

You grow the fruit of the land. And that usually puts you in a tight spot. A regular tractor in your orchard or grove or vineyard can be like a bull in a china shop. What's why Massey Ferguson makes the MF 3300 Series of specialty tractors, just for operations like yours. The F Series, for traditional and wider vineyards. The S Series, for orchards and groves. The V Series, or narrow, modern vineyards. And the GE Series, with its extra-low profile, for modern and traditional orchards and vineyards. Stop by today, and get the skinny on the MF 3300 model that's right for you.

A Dream Of Summertime

Horticulturalist Releases Sunflower Trial Results

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Sunflowers continue to be a big favorite at farm markets throughout the region.

"People go bonkers over them," said Steve Bogash, Penn State horticultural agent from Franklin County. "Their popularity doesn't seem to be waning."

According to Bogash, growers and marketers can benefit by cultivating varieties that are the most productive, best suited to growing in the region, and well-liked by customers.

Bogash helped coordinate the second annual sunflower trials in the state last year. The results can help growers and marketers make decisions about what varieties will help boost their income from fresh flower sales this summer.

"Joker," a variety with red disc flowers and outer petals that range from orange-red to yellow-red, has been the most consistent performer over the past several years, according to Bogash. While Joker has not received the highest rating overall, marketers have found it does well in the marketplace, he said.

2002 Sunflower Evaluation
Steve Bogash
Horticulture Agent
Joshua McCulloch and Gwen Umbreidt
Program Assistants

For the 2002 growing season, growers working in cooperation with Penn State Cooperative Extension hosted on-farm cut flower sunflower trials at five sites scattered throughout Pennsylvania. In total, 34 cultivars were provided to the host farms.

For the second year of these trials, it is very important to note the difficult growing conditions during the 2002 season as there was very little rainfall after spring. This probably resulted in reduced leaf spotting and other fungal pathogens, but certainly limited growth and regrowth after first harvest on sites without irrigation. In spite of the difficult growing season, a number of cultivars stood out from the pack. It will interesting to rerun the trial in 2003 with many of last years entries and see how they fare under another seasons growing conditions.

Each grower was provided with a minimum of 25 seeds for each cultivar they were trialing and an evaluation notebook to keep during the season. Cultivars were tracked for number and length of stems, color, and flower size. Cooperators were asked to score the plants using a 1-5 scale with 5 as the highest score in the following areas: Marketability, Vase Life, Color, and an Overall Rating.

While every grower provided evaluations based on marketability, color and an overall rating, vase life was only evaluated on one site. We did a vigorous vase life trial at the Franklin County Horticulture Center which will be discussed later in this report.

The "Strongly Recommended" varieties below all scored 4 or higher in the overall rating and the second category of "Worth Growing" scored 3 to 3.9. Failing to make an overall rating of at least 3 does not mean a specific cultivar should be discounted completely. The harsh growing season, specific needs of the growers, and other factors could very likely remove a cultivar that make be excellent for your use.

• Brilliance (overall rating 4) Medium yellow with a dark brown disk. A classic sunflower, but some growers found the heads too large. Pollen-free.

• Double Solar (overall rating 4) Golden yellow with no visible disk. Very late to bloom with stunning single flowers. Not your classic sunflower. Pollen-free.

• Full Sun (overall rating 4.75) Gold petals with a yellow brown disk. Classic single-stem sunflower similar to Sunbright. Pollen-free.

• Goldburst (overall rating 4) Full double sunflower a little smaller than Double Solar with gold petals that fade to slightly green on the disk.

• Joker (overall rating 3.50) Red disc flowers with outer petals that range from orange-red to yellow-red. Highly variable in color range. While Joker's overall score is lower than others in this category, many growers find this cultivar very marketable. Pollen-free.

• Moonbright (overall rating 5) Tall single stem cut flower with yellow petals and a brown disc. Flower size 5-8 inches, some sites commented that the flowers are a little too large for florist trade. Pollen-free.

• Sunbeam (overall rating 4) Golden yellow with a green / gold center. Mostly pollen free.

• Sunbright (overall rating 5) Golden yellow with a brown disc. Growers report that this flower is what florists want and should be the measuring stick for other single sunflowers. Pollen free.

• Sunbright Supreme (overall rating 4) Gold with a brown disk. Blooms a little earlier than Sunbright. Some pollen.

Worth growing, but falling slightly short of the strongly recommended list:

• Dorado Select (overall rating 3.75) Golden petals with a dark face. Good long stems and pollen free.

• Starburst Lemon Aura (overall rating 3) Growers liked the color and had good acceptance among florists. They noted that this one had some problems, but due to marketability, they would try it again. Pollen-free.

• Terra Cotta (overall rating 3) Unique orangish-brown color with some specialty market potential. Pollen-free.

Varieties that rated highly in 2001 but failed to make the grade in 2002 include Golden Glory, Goldrush, Holiday, Munchkin, New Cut Gallardia, Soraya, Summertime, Sunsplash, and Ikarus. These may be worth consideration as our cooperators varied quite a lot in the amount of irrigation water they had available this year and their individual marketing niches.

Vase Life Trials

A complete vase life trial was run at the Franklin County Horticulture Center. All flowers were placed directly into water as harvested. Once in our processing area, stems were stripped, then dipped into a mild soap solution, then recut before being placed into Aquaplus floral preservative at 40g/gallon. The room was air conditioned to approximately 72 degrees Farenheit. Flowers were removed from the trial as soon as they were no longer vase worthy as determined by the research technician.

Vase life results from both the recommended and worth growing lists:

- Brilliance: 10-12 days.
- Dorado Select: 5-8 days.
- Double Solar: 14-plus days.
- Full Sun: 8-9 days.
- Goldburst: 10-12 days.
- Joker: 7-11 days.
- Moonbright: 12 days.
- Starburst Lemon Aura: 11-13 days.
- Sunbeam: 7-9 days.
- Sunbright: 9-10 days.
- Sunbright Supreme: 9-10 days.
- Terra Cotta: 8-11 days.

Two flowers that did not make the grade this year in the recommended lists but had excellent vase life were Superior Gold at 16 days and Summertime at 11-16 days.

Funding for this trial program was provided by the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association (PVGA) and the Franklin County Horticulture Center.

Cooperators and agents that followed these plantings through this tougher-than-usual season include Robert Ambrose, Tom Becker, Tom Butzler, Dave Delbo, Donna Dubs, Scott Guiser, Dave Ritter, and Eydie Shafer.

Great Crops Start with Remlinger Tools.

Precision Strip-Till
Precision Strip-Till creates residue-free planting strips for better aeration and spring warm-ups for better yields.

Coil Tine Harrows
Good trash clearance and excellent performance in conventional and conservation tillage.

1-Bar Harrows
Pulverize, mulch, churn and level the soil, allowing seeding at a uniform depth.

3-Bar Roller Flex Harrow
Harrow levels soil in front of roller. Roller mixes and firms soil for a consistent seed bed.

3, 4 & 5-Bar Flexible Harrow
Level and break up clods to prepare the seedbed. Excellent in high-residue situations.

Harrow Carts
Features a telescoping hitch and heavy-duty 4″ x 4″ main frame. Wide range of mounted harrow options available.

Ultra Glide Auger
Moves bulk materials easily with a molded plastic hopper allowing material to drop more directly into auger. Telescoping downspouts available.

Seed Fill Augers
Goes from transport to filling in less than a minute. Bristle flighting reduces damage. Fits no-till drills.

Chisel Plow Levelers
Bolts on back of all disk chisel plows to help reduce ridges and stop erosion.

No-till Tine Harrow
Fits behind all makes of no-till drills to spread residue, cover seed and allow for best germination

Weis Markets To Sell Tickets For New Pa. Garden Expo

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Corporate sponsor, Weis Markets, began selling tickets for the first-time Pennsylvania Garden Expo. Tickets can be purchased at the customer service counter of all Pennsylvania and Maryland Weis Markets for the show that runs March 14-16.

The show will be in the new 175,000-square-foot Exhibition Hall at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. Tickets are $10, but children under age 12 will be admitted free of charge. The Pennsylvania Garden Expo runs 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. on March 14 and 15 and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on March 16.

The three-day show for home gardeners includes 20 feature gardens, dozens of gardening seminars, various educational exhibits and vendors selling everything from seeds to greenhouses.

Ranging in size from 500 to 3,000 square feet, some of the display gardens sure to capture your delight include a Drought Tolerant Native Plant Garden by the Western Pennsylvania Conservancy, a Children's Garden from Hershey Gardens, a Nature Garden Retreat, an Oriental Bonsai Garden, a Watering for Wildlife Garden, a Natural Habitat Garden, a Railroad Garden, and a Secluded Backyard Garden.

The headline speaker for the Expo will be Roger Swain, former host of Public Broadcasting's popular "The Victory Garden" TV show for 15 years and co-host of a new show, "People, Places, and Plants," debuting in March. Swain will speak on opening day at 11 a.m., 1 p.m., and 3 p.m. A variety of other seminars are scheduled for each hour of the show on all three days.

In addition to purchasing tickets at Weis Markets, advance tickets can also be ordered by sending a check or money order made out to the Pennsylvania Green Industry Foundation to Pennsylvania Garden Expo, 509 N. Second St., Harrisburg, PA 17101.

There is still vendor booth space available, but don't delay. Vendors interested in renting a booth can get more information by calling (717) 796-1181 or emailing pagar denexpo@comcast.net.

More information on the show itself is available online at www.pagardenexpo.com.

Lakso To Chair Horticultural Sciences Department At Geneva

GENEVA, N.Y. — Alan Lakso has been appointed chairman of the department of horticultural sciences at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station, in Geneva, New York, effective Jan. 1. He replaced outgoing chairman, Hugh Price.

Lakso, whose research focuses on apple and grape physiology, studies how apples and grapes grow, and how the weather combines with grower practices to influence fruit yield and quality.

"It is an honor to be asked by our faculty and administration to assume this important role," said Lakso. "After being a Cornell faculty member for almost 30 years, I felt that it was an opportunity to contribute to the department in a new capacity."

Lakso said his goals are to help the department through difficult reductions in state funding, and shift to more diverse funding bases while maintaining the support of New York horticultural industries and consumers.

Lakso received his B.S. in Biological Sciences in 1970 from the University of California-Davis, and his Ph.D. in Plant Physiology in 1973, also from UC- Davis. He lives in Geneva, NY.

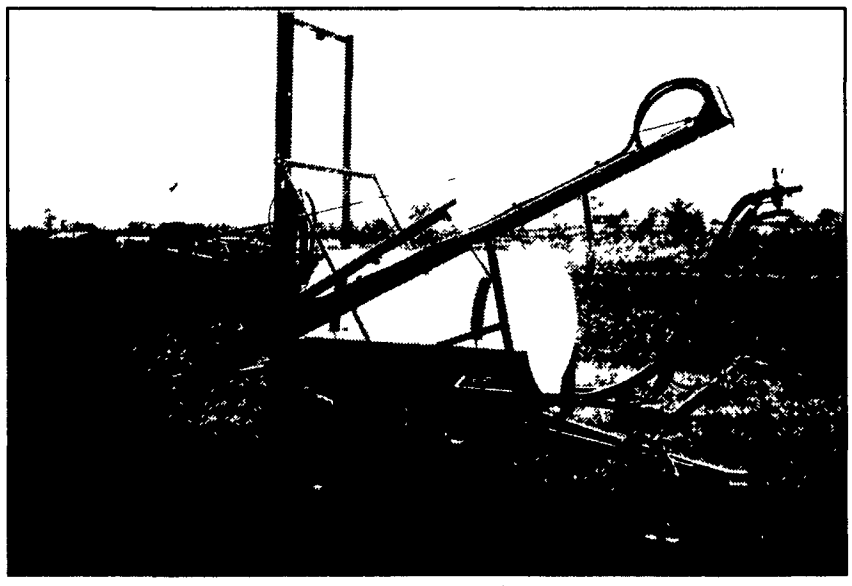
High Pressure Produce Sprayers

Trailer or 3 Pt. Hitch Models



Zimmerman's manufactures several different model sprayers designed for produce spraying. They are built for the small farmer that cannot justify a large expensive sprayer. Trailer models are available with a 200 or 300 gallon tank and 3pt hitch models with a 110, 150, 200 or 300 gallon tank. The 25' single sided boom has 7' plus clearance and requires a minimal amount of drive rows because of the wide span. It also has a hydraulic cylinder that allows the operator to level the boom from the tractor seat. A Hypro high pressure diaphragm provides up to 290 p.s.i. and non-drip nozzle bodies keep chemical loss minimal. Stop or call Zimmerman's today to see how we can help you with your spraying needs and improve your profit margin.

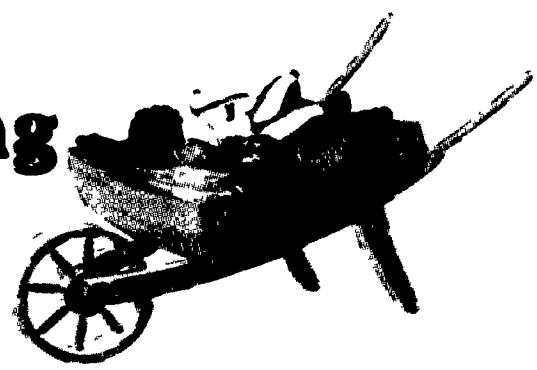
The Farmstand: Direct Marketing Tips



SUBSCRIPTION SERVICE GETS FRESH
Ginger S. Myers
Agriculture Economic Development Specialist
Howard County Economic Development Authority

Here's the business plan. Four Howard County farmers and a baker are looking for a new market outlet during the prime-growing season for their produce, flowers, herbs, honey, fruit, and artisan breads.

They jointly form a marketing partnership, the Howard County Growers, LLP, to help support their small, family-owned and operated businesses. The farmer-partnership will provide a convenient weekly delivery of their freshest, best quality produce and bread to subscribers who recognize not only the value and great taste of sustainably grown food, but also that supporting local farmers helps improve the quality of life for everyone here.

Does the plan work? Potential subscribers through Howard County and the neighboring USDA Beltsville Agricultural Research Center hold the answer to that question.

The Howard County Growers offer a unique opportunity for their subscribers to pick up fresh produce, once a week for 16 weeks beginning in June and ending in September, at one of four locations—Triadelphia Lake View Farm, Glenelg; Mt. Pisgah AME Church, Columbia; The Howard County Government Complex, Ellicott City; and the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center in Beltsville, Md.

The market baskets will include a bountiful selection of seasonable vegetables, fruit, herbs, and flowers with updates from the farms and recipes to match the weekly abundance. The subscription price is $28 per week.

The price was determined by a number of factors, including what the farmers need to earn to remain economically viable, the quantity and diversity of the produce provided, and the fair market value for such items.

What are the advantages of subscribing to this service? Ginger Myers, agriculture economic development specialist with the Howard County Economic Development Authority, said, "This service provides both convenience and a chance for the customer to meet the person who grows their food. The pickup sites were selected for their proximity to busy folks who may not have the time to get to a Farmers Market."

She continues, "Subscribers for this service not only get the freshest, best tasting products, but also the satisfaction that their food dollars are going directly to local family farmers.

For enrollment packages and informational fliers detailing how the subscription works and what to expect in your weekly delivery, contact Carrie Minard, Howard County Growers Manager, 15155 Triadelphia Mill Road, Glenelg, MD 21737 (410) 489-0139. Or contact Ginger S. Myers, Howard County Economic Development Authority, (410) 313-6500.

2003 Beginning Beekeeping Seminar Set

MONTOURSVILLE (Lycoming Co.) — A date has been set for the 2003 Beginning Beekeeping Seminar in Lycoming County.

The seminar will be Saturday, March 22, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Penn State Cooperative Extension in Montoursville.

Each seminar will include the following presentations: "Equipment I Need for a Successful Start" by Darryl Rebuck, president, Lycoming Beekeepers Association; "Getting Started" by J. Lee Miller, Penn State extension agent; "Management Through the Season" by Dennis van Englesdorf, chief api ary inspector, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture; and sessions titled "Harvesting Your Crop" and "Bee Biology."

The early registration fee by March 14 is $15 and includes lunch and a book, "The Fundamentals of Beekeeping." Your check, made payable to "Penn State Cooperative Extension," must accompany your reservation. Registration after March 14 or at the event will be $20.

To request a registration form and brochure, contact Tom Murphy, Penn State Cooperative Extension, 542 Co. Farm Rd., Suite 206, Montoursville, PA 17754, (570) 433-3040, fax (570) 433-4331, e-mail LycomingExt@psu.edu, or download a registration form from our Website: http://lycoming.extension.psu.edu and click on the "agriculture" button.

With a focus on show horse success, Lancaster Farming's Boarder & Trainer for March 15 includes ways to improve horse health using a new treadmill developed at the Marion DuPont Scott Equine Medical Center in Leesburg, Va. Also scheduled for that issue highlights of the Steeplechase in Leesburg, Va., the work of farriers, and lots more!

Not only that, the bales are providing the amazing feat of keeping ponds and water garden algae-free.

That's right — barley straw is a natural alternative to herbicides and chemicals to prevent pesty algae from covering ponds and water gardens.

Scientists can not explain exactly how the process works, but barley straw, when exposed to sunlight and oxygen, produces a chemical that inhibits algae growth.

Even skeptics of this seemingly too-simple solution to the age-old problem of algae become believers when they try the method or read the research done by extension services and other companies.

The use of barley straw to counteract algae has been used extensively in Europe for many years, but only in recent years has gained popularity in the U.S.

> Kountry Bales are bringing a much larger profit than their full-size counterparts.

About two years ago, Dennis Keener read an article about barley straw in Lancaster Farming. Intrigued, he decided to research the market.

Keener, his wife Donna, and children Danae, 18; Deron, 14; and Derek, 7, were already filling a niche market by providing small hay bales for pet use.

The Keeners' experience in perfecting manufacture of small bales and in niche marketing served as the basis for this new venture. Nevertheless, it wasn't without a lot of perseverance and trial and error.

"It was a bit like giving birth," Keener said of the labor involved in legal work, insurance, name protection, and sales calls to make the venture successful.

He recently had a third automated baler built to his specifications. The baler is in a shop in the Keeners' backyard. Barley straw is purchased in regular-size bales and hand-fed into the baler that produces the mini-bales. The machine can make up to 100 mini-bales an hour, but the process is slowed because each bale must be hand tied.

"The technology to have the machine do the knotting is available, but the cost could buy me a Mercedes Bentz," Keener said of the decision to continue hand tying.

Wire cannot be used because of damage to animal and fish life. Instead, baler twine is used because it is biodegradable. The bales are also given a "haircut" when finished to give them a neater appearance.

Through mistakes, the Keeners learned that barley straw must be top quality and harvested at the right time or it will crumble. It must be packaged in a bag that will allow it to breathe.

Although a bale of barley can be dumped into the water, it works best when anchored to the bottom but allowed to float to keep the straw near the surface of the pond, where sunlight and oxygen are more prevalent.

Keener had a supplier build cages to specified sizes. These cages keep the barley straw contained but in a floating position. The amount of barley straw required varies according to pond size.

According to information released from Penn State, the most common application is about two to three bales per pond surface acre. The depth of water is not important. In ponds that are frequently muddy or those with a history of heavy algae growth, two or three times the recommended amount may be required for the initial treatment.

A 12-ounce bale will treat up to 1,200 gallons of water. And an 8-ounce bale is used to treat up to 700 gallons.

But overdosing may cause fish kills, because the straw deoxygenates the water as it decays. This is more of a problem if the pond is overdosed with straw during a prolonged warm spell.

If the prescribed amount of barley straw is added to the water, it will not harm fish or

(Turn to Page E11)

The growing demand to keep ponds and water gardens algae-free opened up a whole new venture for the Keeners. Barley straw does not kill existing algae, but inhibits new growth of algae if placed in ponds in early spring.

Generally the Keeners wear masks to protect them from breathing in fine dust, but they discarded the masks for photo purposes.

plants. In most cases it actually increases the invertebrate population and provides additional food source for fish.

"Marketing is the key," Keener said. "You need to look for a market and decide how to fill it, not make a product and then look for the market."

Keener contacted potential markets in several states. Weis Market sells Kountry Bales in 200 stores and many landscaping stores also market the barley straw.

Ironically, when Keener first contacted a large supplier, they rejected the idea of marketing barley straw. But so many customers asked about it, that the company contacted Keener to order supplies.

Last year, they started manufacturing barley "kubes" to meet the demand of many of the smaller water gardens.

Repeat customers report that barley straw really works.

Customers must realize that barley straw does not kill existing algae but inhibits new growth. It should be applied before spring and the appearance of algae. If water temperature is less than 50 degrees, it may take six to eight weeks for the straw to produce active chemicals that inhibit algae growth. If straw is applied when water is above 70 degrees, it may become effective within one or two weeks. Barley straw remains effective approximately six months before another application is required.

Keener grew up on a farm, but has worked as a truck driver for the past 20 years. On the side, he has continued to dabble in agriculture-related projects. For example, the family grows 8½ acres of strawberries, pumpkins, gourds, and flowers.

A co-worker gave him the idea to bale hay for the pet industry. People who raise hamster, gerbil, or a rabbit want only a small amount of hay, not a regular-sized bale. The Keeners Kountry Bales took off and are marketed in four states. For pets, hay is made of timothy, alfalfa, and clover.

The Keeners learned they must be as careful with their product as if they were providing food for humans.

"This is an age of litigation," Keener said. A piece of metal in the hay could cause death to the animal. For that reason, they always use baler twine tied by hand, which makes the process more time-consuming but necessary.

The product cannot contain weeds or have been rained on after it was cut. The hay must cure before bagging. The Keeners purchase the hay and straw after the first frost so that insects are reduced.

The name Kountry Bales was chosen with the "K" representing Keener.

Although Keener used the printed information supplied from Penn State extension, he neither asked for individual help nor attended conventions.

He considers that a crisis, of sorts, pushed him into pursuing the barley bale potential. After the company he worked for 20 years did some reorganization, his hours were cut in half.

That pushed him to find additional avenues of income. From past experiences, he believes that everything happens for a purpose.

His entrepreneur attitude is verbalized by his philosophy: "Opportunity is always in front of you. Look at a way to turn a crisis into opportunity."

Life, he said, has provided him an education. "I got my college just by going to work. I go in all kinds of stores. I watch and listen to what does and does not work."

The potential for a full-time business manufacturing bales for pets and for ornamental purposes are there, but the Keeners prefer pursuing barley bale production.

They recently expanded the building to store 3,500 regular sized bales. Because dust from straw and hay are extremely flammable, heating the building was a concern. Keener had an electric grid for heating put in the concrete floor.

The whole family works together. "I couldn't do it without them," Keener said. His wife Donna works as an LPN at a local pediatric center and designed the labels, takes care of the computer work, and is an encourager.

Son Deron and Keener mostly work together. Deron gets paid a certain percentage of every bale. The process has been a business learning experience for him. He doesn't get paid until payment is received from the customer.

For more about Kountry Bales, call Keener at (570) 437-3547.

Each bale is hand-knotted, a time-consuming process. To protect his hands from blisters, Keener wears gloves with the fingertips cut off the first two fingers to enable him to grasp the twine.

Seven-year-old Derek likes to punch holes in the packaging, which enables the bales to breathe.

PASS Announces Pa. 2002 Vegetable Production Numbers

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania's vegetable farmers harvested 15,700 acres of sweet corn for fresh market in 2002 with production totaling 628,000 CWT, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service.

This is 10 percent less than the 2001 production for fresh market. Average value of fresh market sweet corn was $31.80 per CWT, $5.30 per CWT more than the price received in 2001.

Production for processed sweet corn amounted to 6,660 tons, a increase of 36 percent from 2001's production. The average value for processed sweet corn decreased from $105.00 per ton in 2001 to $77.30 per ton in 2002.

Nationally, 248,800 acres of sweet corn was harvested for fresh market in 2002 and 419,900 acres were harvested for processing. Fresh market production totaled 26.4 million CWT and was valued at $20.10 per CWT. Processing production totaled 3.0 million tons in 2002 with an average value of $68.20 per ton. Forty-six percent of the processing production was utilized for canning and 54 percent was for freezing.

Pennsylvania's 2002 fresh market tomato production was estimated at 701,000 CWT, up 31 percent from 2001. Area harvested was 4,100 acres. The average value was $23.80 per CWT.

United States' production of fresh market tomatoes was 37.3 million CWT in 2002, a 5 percent increase from 2001. Area harvested was 124,900 acres. Average value of tomatoes for fresh market was $31.40 per CWT.

In Pennsylvania, 7,500 acres of snap beans were harvested for processing in 2002. Total production was 20,340 tons with an average value of $215.00 per ton. Strawberry production for fresh market and processing was 73,000 CWT, harvested from 1,300 acres. Average value per CWT was $137.

At the U.S. level, 210,100 acres of snap beans were harvested for processing in 2002. Total production increased from 695,190 to 831,260 tons. Canning utilized 575,690 tons of the production. Average value decreased from $161 per ton in 2001 to $152 in 2002. U.S. strawberry production in 2002 was 19.7 million CWT, a 19 percent increase from 2001. Acreage harvested was 47,600; the average value per CWT was $61.90.

Pennsylvania's 2002 fresh market cabbage production was estimated at 342,000 CWT. Area harvested was 1,800 acres. The average value was $13.30 per CWT. Pennsylvania's cantaloupe production for fresh market was 130,000 CWT. Total acreage harvested was 1,300. The average value per CWT was $22 in 2002.

Nationally, 77,080 acres of cabbage were harvested for fresh market in 2002. Fresh market production totaled 24.4 million CWT and was valued at $12.60 per CWT. U.S. fresh market cantaloupe production totaled 23 million CWT in 2002 with an average value of $17.60 per CWT. There were 93,900 acres harvested.

Pennsylvania's 2002 fresh market and processed pumpkin production was estimated at 1,170,000 CWT. Area harvested was 7,500 acres. The average value was $14.10 per CWT.

Nationally, 37,600 acres of pumpkins were harvested for fresh market and processing in 2002. Total production was 7.9 million CWT and was valued at $10.50 per CWT.

New Howard Farms Directory Available

COLUMBIA, Md. — The Agricultural Marketing Program has published the 2002 edition of the Howard County Farms and Services Directory.

This directory was created to assist consumers who desire to purchase agricultural commodities directly from the farm or the Farmers' Market and to help farmers locate farm agencies and services.

Directory listings include: Howard County farmers, Howard County Grown Program Partners, agencies, farm supplies and services, hay and straw suppliers, Christmas tree growers, direct farm markets, pick-your-own farms, a Maryland Harvest Calendar, riding and boarding stables, sod producers, and more.

Howard County is horse country. Many of the county's horse boarding facilities are listed in the directory. While horse boarding is their primary business, most can also provide riding lessons and many have trail riding available.

Farm Agencies and Farm Supplies and Services are also listed alphabetically under two separate sections. To provide farmers with the best information on farm supply and implement dealers, this section includes listings for dealers throughout the north-central region of the state.

To request a copy, contact Ginger S. Myers, Agriculture Economic Development Specialist, Howard County Economic Development Authority, 6751 Columbia Gateway Drive, Suite 500, Columbia, MD 21046, (410) 313-6500 or gmyers@hceda.org.

Water Quality Important For Plant Health

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Nursery and greenhouse growers developing a plant management plan should start by finding out what's in their water.

Hannah Mathers, an Ohio State University nursery and landscape specialist, said that water quality is a big factor limiting plant health and aesthetics, affecting sales and impacting the industry.

"The first question most growers have is what kind of fertilizer they should use. And I tell them that if they don't know what's in their water then they shouldn't be making decisions on their fertilizer program," said Mathers. "That's how important water quality is. It impacts fertilization, pest management and everything else about a plant management program—but most people are negligent about their water."

Growers also tend to overuse water, said Mathers, adding that as available water decreases, water quality tends to diminish.

"There's only so much fresh water in the world, and as we deplete our supply, water quality becomes more of an issue," said Mathers. "The nursery industry is considered to be a water waster. We have to change that perception. Perception is important especially during times of drought like we've recently experienced."

Mathers discussed the relationship between water quantity and water quality, how nursery growers can conserve water, and how they can test for and better manage water quality at the 74th annual Ohio State University Nursery Short Course and Central Environmental Nursery Trade Show (CENTS). The event, sponsored by Ohio State's Department of Horticulture and Crop Science, the Ohio State Extension Nursery, Landscape and Turf Team and the Ohio Nursery and Landscape Association, was conducted Jan. 20-22 at the Greater Columbus Convention Center in Columbus, Ohio.

The top three water quality problems nursery and greenhouse growers face are salt, pH, and alkaline levels.

Water with a high pH level tends to make the soil more basic, causing nutrient deficiencies that can lead to more disease susceptibility and an overall aesthetically displeasing plant.

"Iron and manganese deficiencies tend to be the most common. Plants with these deficiencies have leaf veins that stay green but the intervenal region will turn chlorotic," said Mathers. "It's a chronic condition. And plants that like acidic conditions, like rhododendrons, will have more serious problems."

Water also contains salts, some of which may be toxic to plants. "Any ion in the water is considered a salt and some, like boron and chlorine, are bad for plants," said Mathers. "If the water contains salts that are higher than what is required in the plant material, plants are unable to take up sufficient water for growth and other processes."

The alkaline level is probably the biggest water quality issue growers face.

"Alkalinity and pH are not the same," said Mathers. "The characteristic of water that will increase a potting medium's pH during production is not a water's pH, but a water's alkalinity."

Alkalinity is known as the "buffering capacity" of water. That is, it has the ability to resist change in pH. The greater the alkalinity of the water, the tougher it is to acidify. A plant that is continuously irrigated with high alkaline water will become more basic and will eventually suffer from iron, manganese, and other nutrient deficiencies.

"High alkalinity in water may be a problem in Ohio because of the limestone base the state has," said Mathers. "Alkalines are made of up carbonates and bicarbonates that complex to form deposits of lime. The lime does not leach away, and as more alkaline water is added, the higher the pH of the plant will become."

Mathers said water quality is a bigger problem in nursery and greenhouse settings, rather than in the landscape, because most plants are potted using soilless mediums, which lack buffer capacity.

Other water quality issues include high iron in water, which accumulates on plants over time, causing a brown casting that impacts the aesthetics of the plant; and hard water, which contains high amounts of calcium. Calcium deposits on the plant as white spots, also impacting the aesthetics of the product.

Mathers encourages growers to follow a five step Water Quality Action Plan to provide the best water quality for their plants:

•Test irrigation water at least once a year. Find out where your water is coming from and whom you are sharing it with. Surface water sources, for example, may contain more pathogens and more pollutants.

•Compare test results over several years to determine if water quality is changing.

•Consider whether acid treatment is needed to improve water quality and which acid is best for the situation.

•Make necessary adjustments to water and/or fertilizer practices.

•Always use pH and electrical conductivity (EC) meters to make well-informed decisions. Don't guess.

"We are trying to sell ourselves as the green industry," said Mathers. "I think we need to stop and ask ourselves just how green we really are."

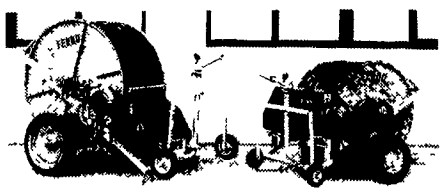
From 30-630 gallons per minute output and with hose lengths from 395 ft up to 1650 ft Standard features include Automatic Speed Compensation, galvanized cart and stabilizer legs, turntable, pto wind-up and optional hydraulic legs and cart lifting



Economic Irrigation: With low input pressure requirements and constant speed irrigation, FERBO Travelers remain the leaders in low cost automatic irrigation There isn't another traveler available that is simpler to operate or less expensive to maintain.

Waste Water Disposal: Our engine driven travelers are the simplest and most accurate on the market. Our computer controlled speed regulation ensures 99% accuracy to meet Federal/State design criteria while our simple yet efficient engine/gearbox drive ensures low maintenance

ROVATTI SLURRY PTO DRIVE PUMPS

Rovatti TL slurry pumps are high-pressure slurry pumps with a unique "bolt on" chopper system

The standard pump features a high efficiency open-vane impeller with an interchangeable wear ring and fixed cutting blade to handle all but the very toughest of straw, hay or other difficult residuals For these conditions, the chopper unit can be simply bolted to the pump where it is driven by the existing pump shaft, enabling it to handle virtually any waste products requiring chopping

A number of additional features make these the most versatile and reliable units on the market:

- Special permanently lubricated mechanical seal for longer life
- Over-sized bearings
- Lubricated chopper shaft bearings
- Chopper shaft shear-pin to reduce risk of damage to the shaft and impeller
- A range of four tractor pto pumps and four bare-shaft pumps with flows from 105-1000 gpm
- Replaceable wear ring
- 540 rpm or 1000 rpm speeds
- Finest grade cast iron for high efficiency
- Unique water-cooled gearbox for extended gear life

Industry Promotion Important At Big Brown Fish Hatchery

DEANNA CUNFER
Carbon Co. Correspondent

EFFORT (Monroe Co.) — Charles A. Conklin II, founder and proprietor/president of Big Brown Fish Hatchery Inc., has been involved in aquaculture production and marketing since the young age of 11 when he made his first sale of fish he had raised.

The name Big Brown originates from that initial group of fish sold by young Conklin. He had names for 25 of the more distinct fish and had actually started to consider them as his pets. The fish he was fondest of was named Big Brown.

After graduation in 1984 from East Stroudsburg University with a biology major, Conklin returned to make the hatchery a full-time business. While thinking of a name for the business, he remembered that fish named Big Brown and the rest is history.

Conklin's enterprise produces more than 260,000 pounds of Brook, Brown, Rainbow, and Golden trout and about 20,000 Large Mouth Bass each year. The property consists of 31 acres that can be traced to family ownership back to the mid-1800s. Conklin not only operates Big Brown Fish Hatchery but also Big Brown Fish and Pay Lakes and Pocono Mountain Fish and Seafood. There are five full-time and five part-time employees.

This sign welcomes customers to Big Brown Fish Hatchery and Fish and Pay Lakes, Effort, where customers can enjoy catching large trout and bass raised at the hatchery. Photo by Deanna Cunfer, Carbon Co. correspondent

While the hatchery harvests the eggs from their Brook and Brown trout for hatching, they purchase Rainbow eggs from the state of Washington. Since brood fish used for egg and sperm production are two to three years of age and most trout in hatcheries are sold by the time they are one year old, Conklin does not believe it is economical to keep your own brood fish, but has not been able to find a reliable, steady source of Brown and Brook trout eggs. Another deterrent is the fact that once a fish has spawned, the fish meat gets soft and isn't as desirable for the prime fillet market.

Once experienced in harvesting the eggs and sperm, it takes approximately 30 seconds to handle each fish. Readiness to release the eggs can be determined by feel and sight—a skill that comes with experience. With 90 to 98 percent of the eggs being fertilized, the hatchery has an 85 percent hatch rate. Of those hatched, they have an approximate 70 percent survival rate. The 30 percent lost occurs between the time they are hatched and start to eat—at this age you don't have a lot of money invested in the fish.

If Conklin needs to buy fish from other sources, he generally requires a health certificate as a preventive measure in avoiding possibly bringing health problems to his fish. Trout are normally tested for Whirling Disease, Red Mouth Disease, and for PCBs.

The hatchery and four lakes included in the pay lake operation are fed by stream water. Ideal water temperature for Rainbow trout is 59 degrees with Brook being 55 degrees. The greatest amount of feed consumed by the trout occurs in April and May. Like other hatcheries in the area, Big Brown purchases the bulk of their fish food from a provider in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Big Brown Hatchery has not experienced damage by runoff into their ponds from heavy rains but does test for pesticide levels which, when elevated, can cause widespread damage to the trout.

Without a doubt the biggest predator problem at Big Brown is the great blue heron. Sometimes there are as many as 55 at a time at the 16-foot deep pay lake. An occasional otter or mink will pay a visit, with wild ducks stopping by as well. However, loss to birds is by far the biggest problem they experience.

Producing a quality product is only part of running a successful business. Just as important is being able to market that product. With the busy season for the sale of stocking fish starting the end of February when the orders start coming in, the crew works about 24 hours a day, seven days a week from March 15 through May 15, and still can't keep up with filling the orders.

Conklin has three trucks on the road making deliveries of live stocking fish to customers within a 200- to 300-mile radius. A tractor-trailer, a 33,000-pound truck, and a pickup truck with trailer are used to deliver the orders to customers. Orders of fish can total 2,000 pounds or more. Conklin can deliver large

Tomato Luncheon Honors Producers Who Reach Harvest Milestone

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Even the processed tomato growing industry lays its claim to "firsts."

For Furman Foods, Jim Kohl remembers a timeline of firsts, beginning in 1944, when 10 tons per acre of tomatoes were handpicked.

In the 1960s, the 20 tons-per-acre plateau was reached. In 1986, that level had risen to 30 tons. In 1989, growers fought their way to 40 tons.

In 1989, Kohl, Furman Foods vice president, made a major announcement: he would offer a crisp, brand-new $100 bill to the first producer to break the 50-tons-per-acre harvest barrier.

Finally, about 14 years later, one producer — Eric Charles — came through.

"He didn't go over it — he jumped over it," said Kohl.

Kohl spoke to two dozen producers and industry representatives at the annual Tomato Awards Luncheon in early February at the 2003 Mid-Atlantic Fruit and Vegetable Convention at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center.

Charles, Lancaster, claims good, dry weather, lots of sunshine, and good irrigation contributed to the 54.9 tons-per-acre average yield. He won under Class V, 15-30 acres size, and harvested 873.6 tons of usable fruit with an average A grade of 68.2 percent and ranking value of 37.3.

Eric noted that he watched the plants closely and provided a good nutrient balance on soil tests. Eric used Heinz 9035, what he calls a good mid-season tomato variety. Charles grows his own transplants.

"We really take our hats off and acknowledge the tremendous crop that Eric had," said Kohl.

Also at the recognition luncheon, Bill Troxell, executive director of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association, was honored with a special industry award.

Class I (More Than 100 Acres)
Furman Farms

Furman Farms, Northumberland, won the award for the highest tomato yield in Class I for growers with 100 or more acres. Furman Farms harvested 9,969.8 tons of usable fruit for Furman Foods on 300.3 acres for a 33.2 tons-per-acre average yield. Their average A grade was 62.1 percent and ranking value was 19.9.

Varieties grown included Heinz 9423, Heinz 9704, Heinz 9035, Heinz 9706 and Gem 611. Furman Farms used transplants from Georgia as plugs, from New Jersey as plugs, and some local transplant plugs at a population of 11,800 plants per acre.

Single rows are planted on a 9-inch plant spacing in the row and 56 inches between rows. They were planted from May 7 through June 7, 2002.

Tomatoes are rotated in a 3-year program with corn in year one followed by two years of sod. Lime and fertilizer were applied according to soil test recommendations. Calcitic lime was applied at the rate of 2,000 pounds per acre prior to field preparation. Muriate of potash was plowed down at the rate of 300 to 500 pounds per acre depending on individual field requirements. N-P-K was supplied with the application of 60 gallons per acre of 28 percent N. There was no manure applications to any of the fields.

Weeds were controlled with a preplant lightly incorporated treatment of Dual Magnum at 0.8 pints per acre. A post tankmix application of Sencor at 3 ounces per acre, Matrix at 2 ounces per acre, and Kinetic at 2 pints per 100 gallons of water was applied for weed control. The most difficult weeds to control in 2002 were eastern black nightshade, morningglory, and lambsquarters.

Dithane at 2 pounds per acre and Bravo at 2-3 pints per acre were used in rotation with Quadris at 6 ounces per acre on a 7 to 10 day schedule to control diseases. There were also several applications of Nucop liquid at 2 pints per acre during the growing season.

Insects were controlled with the following insecticides applied during the growing season; Warrior at 3.75 ounces per acre and Dimethoate at 1 pint per acre. The most difficult disease to control in 2002 was bacterial spot and the most difficult insect to control in 2002 was worms.

Ethrel was applied at 0.5 to 1.5 pints per acre according to temperature recommendations 12 to 18 days before harvest.

Class II (60-100 Acres)
Cliff Charles

Cliff Charles, Lancaster, has won the award for the highest tomato yield in Class 2 competition for growers with 60 to 100 acres. He harvested 3,682.9 tons of usable fruit for Furman Foods on 86.3 acres for a 42.7 tons per acre average yield. His average A grade was 66.6 percent and ranking value of 28.2.

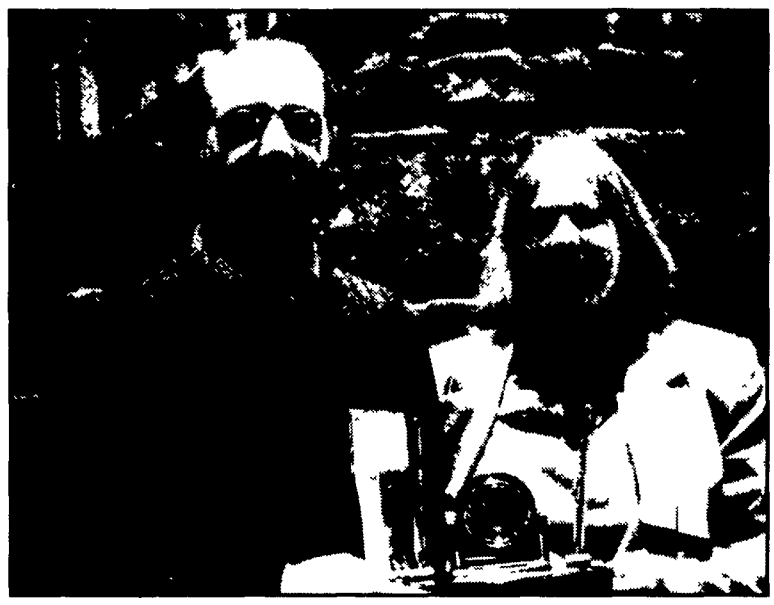
Peto 696, Heinz 9704, Heinz 9035, Heinz 9706, Heinz 9422, and Gem 611 were grown in 338 plug trays and the 5 week-old tomato plants were transplanted from April 27 to May 24, 2002. The tomato transplants were planted with a Lannen carousel transplanter at a population of 13,500 plants per acre. The tomatoes were grown on beds that were 66 inches on center and the double rows were spaced 19 inches apart with 14 inches between plants in the row.

Tomatoes are rotated in a 3-year program with corn, wheat-vetch, or beans. The rotation consists of corn-tomatoes-wheat-vetch or corn-corn-tomatoes or corn-corn-beans-tomatoes. There was no lime or manure applied to the fields in 2002.

Prior to planting the tomatoes, 80N-100P-200K was broadcast and incorporated into the soil. When the tomato transplants were being placed in the field, 12 pounds of 10N-54P-4K starter fertilizer was used in the transplant water. The tomatoes were sidedressed with 30 gallons per acre of Nitro Plus with micronutrients three to four weeks after transplanting the tomatoes in the field. Several applications of 5N-10P-27K at 5 pounds per acre were made either as a foliar application or injected into the drip irrigation system.



Bill and Cheryl Troxell, Richfield. Bill was honored with the industry award at the Tomato Awards Luncheon at the recent Mid-Atlantic Fruit and Vegetable Convention in Hershey.

There was no preplant herbicide treatment applied prior to transplanting the tomatoes. A post application of Matrix at 1 ounce per acre and Sencor at 4 ounces per acre was made 10 days after transplanting the tomatoes. Some fields received two applications of Matrix and Sencor tank mix.

The most difficult weed to control in 2002 was giant ragweed. Fungicides were applied on a 7-10 day spray schedule throughout the growing season. Champ II plus Dithane, Bravo, and Quadris were alternated throughout the growing season. Actiguard was applied 3 times at two-week intervals three weeks after transplanting the tomatoes. Both aphids and spider mites were the most difficult insects to control in 2002 even with the application of dimethoate or Lannate.

Class III (45-60 Acres)
Jacob Heisey

Jacob Heisey, Jersey Shore, won the award for the highest tomato yield in Class III for growers with 45 to 60 acres. Heisey Farms harvested 1,786.8 tons of usable fruit for Furman Foods on 45.3 acres for a 39.4 tons per acre average yield. His average A grade was 62.3 percent and ranking value was 23.3.

Varieties grown included Heinz 9423 and Heinz 9035. Heisey used transplants from Georgia as plugs and New Jersey as plugs at a population of 11,800 plants per acre. The single rows are planted on a 9-inch plant spacing in the row and 56 inches between rows. They were planted from May 17 through June 1, 2002.

Tomatoes are rotated in a 3-year program with corn in year one followed by two years of soybeans. Lime and fertilizer were applied according to soil test recommendations. Calcitic lime was applied at the rate of 2,000 pounds per acre prior to field preparation. Muriate of potash was plowed down at the rate of 300 to 500 pounds per acre depending on individual field requirements.

N-P-K was supplied with the application of 60 gallons per acre banded of a liquid 6-6-12 material. In addition, the tomatoes were sidedressed with 20 gallons per acre of 28 percent N. There was no manure applications to any of the fields.

Weeds were controlled with tankmix application of Sencor at 3 ounces per acre, Matrix at 2 ounces per acre, and Kinetic at 2 pints per 100 gallons of water as an early post application. The most difficult weed to control in 2002 was eastern black nightshade.

Class IV (30-45 Acres)
Phillip Nolt

Phillip Nolt, Manheim, has won the award for the highest tomato yield in Class IV competition for growers with 30 to 45 acres.

Nolt harvested 1,346.5 tons of usable fruit for Furman Foods on 30.8 acres for a 43.7 tons per acre average yield. His average A grade was 60.4 percent and ranking value was 25.8. No other information was available at the time this document was completed.

Class V (15-30 Acres)
Eric Charles

Eric Charles, Lancaster, has won the award for the highest tomato yield in Class V competition for growers with 15-30 acres. Charles harvested 873.6 tons of usable fruit for. Furman Foods on 15.9 acres for a 54.9 tons per acre average yield. His average A grade was 68.2 percent and ranking value of 37.3.

Heinz 9035 tomato plants were grown in 338 plug trays and the 5.5 week-old tomato plants were transplanted on May 9, 2002. The tomato transplants were planted with a Lannen carousel transplanter at a population of 14,000 plants per acre. The tomatoes were grown on beds that were 66 inches on center and the double rows were spaced 19 inches apart with 13.6 inches between plants in the row.

Tomatoes are rotated in a 3-year program with corn. The rotation consists of corn-corn-tomatoes. There was no lime or manure applied to the fields in 2002. Prior to planting tomatoes, 100N-125P-250K was broadcast and incorporated into the soil. When the tomato transplants were being placed in the field, 12 pounds of 10N-54P-4K starter fertilizer was used in the transplant water. The tomatoes were sidedressed with 30 gallons per acre of Nitro Plus with micronutrients three to four weeks after transplanting the tomatoes in the field.

There was no preplant herbicide treatment applied prior to transplanting the tomatoes. A post application of Matrix at 1 ounce per acre and Sencor at 3 ounces per acre was made 10 days after transplanting the tomatoes. The tank mix of Matrix and Sencor provided good weed control with no serious weed problem developing.

Fungicides were applied on a 7-10 day spray schedule throughout the growing season. Champ II plus Dithane, Bravo, and Quadris were alternated throughout the growing season. Actiquard was applied 3 times at two-week intervals three weeks after transplanting the tomatoes. For insect control, Dimethoate at 1 pint per acre was applied twice and Lannate at 1 pint per acre was applied once during the growing season.

Class VI (Less Than 15 Acres)
Dale E. Wine

Dale E. Wine, Lititz, won the award for the highest tomato yield in Class VI competition for growers with less than 15 acres. Dale harvested 400.3 tons of usable fruit for Furman Foods on 9.8 acres for a 40.9-tons-per acre average yield. His average A grade was 60.2 percent and ranking value was 23.9.

Pruning For Professionals March 18

SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.) — A workshop designed to teach the fundamentals of pruning shrubs and small trees in the landscape is scheduled Tuesday, March 18 at the Penn College of Technology in Williamsport. Another is also set Friday, March 21 at Marywood College in Scranton.

Both programs are from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Who should attend?

- Landscape Contractors
- Tree Trimmers
- Arborists
- Grounds Maintenance Personnel
- Municipal Parks Employees

Participants will learn pruning theory, terminology, and plant biological response in the morning. This will be followed by a "hands-on" session outdoors in the afternoon where pruning theory will be applied in the field.

The program is intended for commercial landscapers and grounds maintenance personnel. Participants will learn how to:

- Renovate and maintain evergreen and deciduous shrubs.
- Prune trees correctly, reducing the potential for decay.
- The difference between thinning and heading cuts.
- Perform various classes of tree and shrub pruning.
- Work according to the ANSI A300-National Tree Pruning Standards.
- Thin out small flowering trees.
- Select and use proper pruning tools.

Each participant will receive an extensive reference packet and learn in a small classroom atmosphere. Class size is limited to 36.

Registration deadline is March 10. Seminar fee is $35. To sign up, contact Luzerne County Cooperative Extension at (570) 825-1701.

Instructors are Vincent Cotrone, Penn State Extension urban forester covering northeastern Pennsylvania, is an ISA certified arborist with knowledge and experience pruning ornamental trees, and Joseph Mullen, consulting arborist, ISA certified arborist.

amounts of fish long distances—the core of their business.

With a strong steady customer base at the pay lake from nearby New York, Philadelphia, and New Jersey, the lake is busiest from July 4 through Labor Day. Many that come to the pay lake prefer the quality and size of the catch as opposed to taking their chances in natural streams. Fish in a hatchery are raised under controlled conditions and are actually healthier than those from natural streams, where they are exposed to varied environmental conditions.

Fish from hatcheries are the healthiest food for those trying to avoid mercury. Most people don't realize how healthy trout is for you. Pay lake customers also often don't want to deal with obtaining a state fishing license and appreciate the fact that no license is required at Big Brown.

Another means of marketing his product is the Pocono Mountain Fish and Seafood store Conklin started in 1999 on the property. Seafood retail sales, smoked fish, and processing of trout as well as sales at farmers' markets helped Conklin promote aquaculture products.

Many people from New York, Philadelphia, and New Jersey would plan a day trip to the area and stop at the retail store to purchase fresh fish and seafood. An area that has seen tremendous residential growth in part because of its close proximity to the large cities has brought many customers to the store and even the pay lake. Consumers who were accustomed to going to the local fish market to purchase their fish found that convenience close to their homes.

The retail store had a successful start with sales increasing each year by 15 to 20 percent, until last year when business fell because of the condition of the economy. "Fresh fish and seafood tends to be a luxury purchase, and when the economy drops, this is one of the first items people postpone buying," said Conklin.

Conklin has decided to discontinue the farmers' market sales, restaurant sales, and retail store operation and concentrate on the core business—the hatchery and pay lakes. He does believe, however, there is a great potential for sales. He knows he is only one person and can't pay his full attention to both entities. The retail store business is for sale or lease. Conklin believes that it can be very successful for someone who can devote their full attention to running the store.

Conklin has been actively involved in state and national aquaculture associations as well as serving on several state aquaculture advisory boards and committees. Conklin is a board member of the U.S. Trout Farmers Association where he previously served board chairman and the Pennsylvania Aquaculture Advisory Board, where he has been appointed to the Fish Health Committee. Conklin's most important involvement is president of the Pennsylvania Aquaculture Association, a position for which Conklin is well qualified. Having received several appointments to commissions by the Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture and his serving as board chairman of the Northeastern Regional Aquaculture Center (NRAC), Conklin has been and is still directly involved in aquaculture promotion, health issues, and legislative issues affecting his industry.

Concrete raceways are seen with the smaller divisions in foreground used to hold orders of stocking fish that Big Brown Fish Hatchery will deliver to their customers. The netting over the raceways is to keep birds from filling their own "orders" with the great blue heron being the greatest cause for loss at the business.

Through his work with industry associations Conklin is able to promote the health advantages of eating trout and is working on a handout dispelling some of the false statements that aquaculture producers must correct if their product is going to take a larger share in the food market.

While promoting the product is essential to helping producers, protecting them from the ever-increasing burden of what often seem to be unreasonable regulations is just as important. Conklin sees more and more regulations that his industry must live with every day and believes strongly that most concerns and issues can be handled with what rules and regulations are in force. Unfortunately, a large percentage of those regulations are not enforced.

Conklin said small business is the backbone of the American economy, but small businesses can't afford the money or time to comply with all the regulations. Many small businesses, such as family operated fish hatcheries which make up the bulk of the hatcheries in the U.S., have only four to five employees and can't afford a full-time compliance officer—something that seems necessary to keep up with all the regulations.
